

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; little change in temperature. For detailed weather report and tide table please turn to Page 3.

VOL. 1, NO. 228

Published Every Afternoon Except Sunday

SANTA ANA ORANGE COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JANUARY 25, 1936

THREE SECTIONS — 2 CENTS PER COPY

Santa Ana Journal

HOME

If your Journal is not delivered promptly, please phone 3600 before 8 p. m. and one will be sent you.

Pickerill Drops Dead in Office

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO ATTORNEY

Client Discovers Body of Santa Ana; No Inquest Planned

A sudden heart attack this morning claimed the life of Thomas H. Pickerill, 47, prominent Santa Ana attorney, as he worked in his office in the Moore building.

Mr. Pickerill's death was discovered at 10:30 o'clock by Miss Jackie Vickeroy, beauty shop proprietor, when she called at his office on business.

Plan No Inquest

Miss Vickeroy, who had called to see the attorney regarding a life insurance policy, immediately notified the elevator operator, J. H. Hazen, who in turn, notified Dr. H. MacVicker Smith of the discovery. Dr. Smith said the attorney had been dead for just a few moments when found.

Coroner Earl Abbey verified the findings of Dr. Smith, and ordered the body removed to Winbigler's funeral home. There will be no inquest.

The deceased man had long been prominent in the affairs of Orange county. One of the organizers of the Placencia chamber of commerce, he had served for five years as its secretary. He was police judge in Placencia for three years.

Fought Billboards

Before that time he had been secretary of the Garden Grove chamber of commerce and had contributed to a syndicated editorial service. He was particularly prominent in his campaign for beautification of county highways, lending his influence to attempts to remove billboards and otherwise dress up the roads.

Mr. Pickerill had lived in Santa Ana for only a short time, at 124 South Bristol street. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Leona Pickerill, his mother, and one child by a former marriage.

DEATH PENALTY GIVEN TO TWO

MINEOLA, N. Y., Jan. 25. (AP)—A jury of 12 men voted death in the electric chair today for Mrs. Mary Frances Creighton and Everett C. Applegate for the part in an egg-nog poisoning of Applegate's stout wife, Ada.

Applegate, 36, who admitted intimacies with Mrs. Creighton's 15-year-old daughter, Ruth, but denied any part in the death of his wife, smiled when he heard the verdict. Mrs. Creighton, 32, who testified she put poison into an egg-nog for Mrs. Applegate, sat with bowed head, pale but calm.

URGUE LIE TEST FOR BRUNO

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 25. (AP)—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman invited Bruno Richard Hauptmann, prosecutor and defense counsel today to agree on a lie detector test.

Such a test of the condemned kidnap slayer of the Lindbergh baby, the governor said, might bring answers to some of the puzzling phases of the case.

BULLETINS

(By The Associated Press)

SHIP OFFICER KILLED
COLON, Panama. — Chief Electrician Alfred Thompson, 37, was shot to death early today aboard the Grace liner, Santa Elena. Second Officer Boyd of the Santa Elena was arrested.

SIGNS KIDNAP BILL

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt signed into law today a bill providing penalties for persons who knowingly handle ransom money in kidnapping cases. The measure provides a maximum penalty of $10,000 and a prison sentence of 10 years or both.

STUDENTS RIOT

WARSAW.—New anti-Jewish rioting broke out today in Krakow, Vilna and Warsaw universities when Jewish students disregarded the students' strike proclaimed yesterday against high tuition fees. Police restored order.

Past Records Reveal It's Anybody's Guess How Much Rain Will Fall This Year

Water, and the need for it, is the great problem before agricultural interests of Orange county today.

And to be fair about it, a search through rainfall figures for the past 60 years does not lend much support to hopes of farmers that rain in copious quantities will come in the spring.

But to be fair on the other side of the ledger, the figures are not conclusive. It is possible to attain an average year with almost as bad a start as the current season has given the county.

In the 60 years of records, however, only three years can be found that show a worse dry spell up to Jan. 25. In 1876, according to figures compiled by Louis Moulton, pioneer El Toro rancher, it had rained 1.38 inches.

110,042 SEE DEAD KING

World's Royalty Going to London for Last Rites of Monarch

LONDON, Jan. 25. (AP)—European royalty converged on London in virtual full force today to pay last respects to the late King George V of England.

While the new King Edward VIII dealt with a mass of state affairs awaiting his attention and the public paid homage to the old monarch at his lying-in-state in Westminster hall, other kings, queens and princes came for the funeral services Tuesday at Windsor.

Build Grand Stands

The sounds of hammering echoed in the streets of this capital as workmen built stands and barriers along the route to be followed by King George's funeral procession.

Some shop windows were converted into grandstands, with tiers of seats commanding upward of $50 apiece. Other windows were barricaded stoutly against the anticipated pressure of Tuesday's crowds.

110,042 Pass Bier

Officials announced that 110,042 persons passed the bier yesterday, the first day of the public procession after the late king was brought from Birmingham, where he died late Monday night.

The great Westminster hall was closed but once yesterday between 8 a. m. and 10 p. m. to permit the royal family to escort Queen Maud of Norway, only surviving sister of King George, to her first view of the royal coffin.

King Haakon VII of Norway and his Queen Maud headed the list of visiting royalty. King Boris of Bulgaria was en route from Sofia aboard a regular London express. King Carol of Rumania started from Bucharest in a special train of 11 coaches. King Leopold of Belgium is expected to arrive Monday.

Prince Axel of Denmark, already in London, is to be joined by Crown Princess Ingrid. King Zog found it impossible to leave Albania, and commissioned his nephew, Prince Salih, to represent that nation.

PLANE CRASH IN TEXAS KILLS 3

ITASCA, Texas, Jan. 25. (AP)—Three men—a pilot and two Dallas business men—were killed in an airplane crash today. The privately owned ship hurtled down through dense fog into a pasture six miles southeast of here.

The dead: Ralph C. Kirk, Grand Prairie, Texas, pilot; Albert H. Boren, Dallas, architect; George W. Carter, Dallas, salesman.

PROCESS LEVIES MAY BE TAXED

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Signs that the federal government may try to collect income taxes on processing levies paid before the AAA was declared unconstitutional threatened a new fight today between processors and the New Deal.

CONQUERS PAIN

No more pain from filling teeth—that is the purpose of a secret formula developed by Dr. Leroy L. Hartman (above) Columbia University scientist, who gave it without charge to the dental profession. (Associated Press Photo)

TAXES LOOM FOR BONUS

Legislators Divided on Whether Added Levies Are Due

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—With the senate preparing to write the $2,491,000,000 bonus bill into law Monday, legislators divided sharply today on the question whether new taxes will be sought to finance it.

The speculation on that score has intensified since the house, by a 324 to 61 vote, passed the baby bond payment measure yesterday over President Roosevelt's veto.

May Ask New Taxes

Some legislators thought the President might ask new levies, others believed they might be postponed until next year; many expressed the feeling that congress is in no mood to vote taxes in a campaign year.

The money that the treasury must find to pay off veterans who want to cash their bonds this year is now estimated by administration officials at not more than $1,000,000,000. Many veterans, it is said, will hold their bonds to take advantage of 3 per cent interest offered.

Long War Ends

It was conceded on all sides that the bitter and prolonged post-war controversy over payment of the bonus would end Monday with the senate vote.

Senate leaders forecast the bill would pass by a wide margin over the two-thirds required by the constitution, with not more than 20 votes to sustain the veto.

BAR PUBLIC AT LAMSON TRIAL

SAN JOSE, Jan. 25. (AP)—The public will not be admitted to the opening session of David A. Lamson's third wife murder trial Monday, Sheriff George W. Lyle said today.

The courtroom where Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco will preside has a seating capacity of 225, and 250 prospective jurors have been summoned.

Lyle said bailiffs will admit only court officials, jury veniremen and accredited members of the press.

Heater, Intended To Warm Up Hens, Kills Prize Flock

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 25. (AP)—Adam Bochat "just can't win," he said today.

When the cold wave swept in, Bochat, a chicken fancier, installed a gas heater in the house to protect 200 prize hens from freezing. The heater exploded and the birds burned to death.

Recorder Loses Fight To Halt Ouster Trial

PLANES MEET IN MID-AIR; SIX KILLED

Hawaii Army Bombers Collide; Survivor Relates Escape

HONOLULU, Jan. 25. (AP)—Six airmen were killed in their flaming planes when two open cockpit army bombers collided in midair during night maneuvers over Ford island, Hawaii's military air base.

Two others escaped with injuries by leaping with their parachutes. An army investigation to determine the cause of the crash began today.

List of Victims

The dead:

Lieut. William G. Beard, 28, San Francisco.

Staff Sergeant Bernard F. Jablonsky, 35.

Private John B. Hartman, 27, Chicago.

Private Bruce Taylor, 26, Puyallup, Wash.

Private Truman J. Gardner, 27, Olney, Ill.

Private Gordon M. Parkhurst, 43, Yorkville, N. Y.

The pair who escaped were Reserve Lieut. Charles E. Fisher, 23, Asheville, N. C., pilot of one of the planes, and Private Thomas Lanigan, 24, Richmond, Va., who jumped from the other plane.

Planes Too Low

All would probably have been able to bail out safely if the planes had not been flying at less than 1000 feet above the field, said Capt. Joseph H. Twitty, army intelligence officer.

The two planes were among the last element of three in a flight formation of nine bombers returning to Luke field on Ford island from a brief night flight shortly after 7 p. m. Friday (9:30 p. m., Santa Ana time).

They crashed with such force the roar could be heard in Honolulu, nine miles away. The flaming arc as the two ships toppled to the ground could be seen on famous Waikiki beach.

Bodies Burned

The funeral pyre burned all bodies beyond recognition. The other seven planes in the formation remained in the air until the charred bodies and tangled wreckage was cleared from the field.

As he lay in an army hospital today suffering from shock, cuts and bruises, Lieutenant Fisher told officers how he cheated death in the crash.

Chute Fails to Open

His first escape was when he managed to leap clear of the blazing, tangled mass of planes. But Lieutenant Fisher's parachute did not open.

He shot like a bullet to within 150 feet of the ground. As he hurtled downward past oil tanks on the field, his chute caught on a stretching from a 150-foot tank to the ground.

The rope checked his fall and left him dangling within two yards of the ground.

In Today's Journal

No cut in Irrigation Costs

Likely About Polks Complete

Weather Reports, Births, Deaths, Marriages, Divorces, Swaps, Birthdays, Meet Your Neighbor, Church News

County News

Sports

Roundup

Drainage District Re-finances

Society

Complete Citrus and Other Market Reports

Comics

Classified Advertising

"Anything but Love"

Editorial and Features

Page 2

Page 3

Page 4

Page 5

Page 6

Page 7

Page 8

Page 9

Page 10

Page 11

Page 12

Al Smith's Speech Excites Capital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—A feeling that a history-making episode may occur tonight was current in the capital today as Alfred E. Smith traveled here to address an American Liberty League dinner and a radio audience at 10 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. (7 p. m., Santa Ana time.)

Political leaders were excited over the possibility of a declaration of Smith's course in the Presidential campaign. They felt the speech might indicate whether Smith intends to take off his coat and fight the New Deal in the political wars to come.

No one professed to know whether such a declaration would be made. But it was generally believed Smith would carry on the broad attack on current governmental policies launched in New York last night by another former Democratic Presidential candidate, John W. Davis.

Davis did not announce the role he would play in the campaign. He did not even mention the New Deal by name. But he denounced centralization of government by constitutional amendment, asserted there was no room for "neutrals," and concluded by saying "when things go wrong, don't go with them."

Many observers here believed Smith would speak in more direct language, that he would leave no doubt about his position.

With Smith and Davis speaking up, political speculation also was aroused by the house repudiation of President Roosevelt's bonus veto by name. But he denounced Democrats would lead a similar revolt in the senate Monday.

MERRIAM TAKES BRIDE TODAY

Gov. Frank F. Merriam of California, 70, and Mrs. Jessie Stewart Lipsey, 66, of Long Beach who were to be wed at Palm Springs today. Both are former Iowans, and both have been married before. (Associated Press Photos)

Governor Weds in Palm Springs

LONG BEACH, Jan. 25. (AP)—The governor and his bride, Gov. Frank Merriam, 70, and Mrs. Jessie Stewart Lipsey, 66, of Long Beach, were to be married at 5 p. m. today in Palm Springs' desert resort.

The ceremony was to be performed by the Rev. Dr. George M. Rourke, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Long Beach, in the living room of the new winter home of former Superior Judge Ralph Clock, long time friend of the governor. The only others to be present are Mrs. Clock and Mrs. Rourke.

Today is the first day under California law that the ceremony could be performed, since the couple applied only last Tuesday at Riverside for a marriage license.

DEATH CALLS WICKERSHAM

Former U. S. Attorney General Found Dead in Taxicab

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—George W. Wickersham, former attorney general of the United States, died suddenly in a taxicab today. He was 78 years of age.

Mr. Wickersham had entered the cab at Forty-eighth street and Park avenue to be taken to his home at 150 West 57th street. When the driver arrived at his destination he could not arouse his passenger. An ambulance was called and the ambulance surgeon pronounced the passenger dead.

Famous Report

Wickersham's position as attorney general in the cabinet of President Taft was the only political office he ever held.

He was best known, perhaps, for his work as head of the national law enforcement commission to which he was appointed by President Hoover in 1929.

It was while he was in this office that he and his aides authored the famous "Wickersham report" advocating widespread reforms in penal conditions and modification of prohibition laws.

The former attorney general was born at Pittsburgh, Sept. 19, 1858. His ancestors had been prominent in Pennsylvania since they emigrated from England in 1700.

Had Four Children

He studied civil engineering at Lehigh university and then entered the law department of the University of Pennsylvania where he received his degree in law in 1880.

On his 25th birthday he married Miss Mildred Wendell of Washington. They had four children.

Candid Cameraman Moves to Page 3—Every Day

The Journal's Candid Camera snapshots, being an artistic collection of informal portraits of Santa Ana citizens, will be found today and henceforth on page 3. Meet your neighbor through the eyes of the candid camera, daily in The Journal. Watch, because the next one may be you.

CASE BEGINS MONDAY IN COURT HERE

Appeals Court Denies Writ Sought by Miss Whitney's Lawyer

The ouster suit of County Recorder Justine Whitney will get under way before Presiding Judge G. K. Seovel on Monday. The fourth district court of appeals at Fresno shot the case back to Santa Ana today. It refused to grant an alternative writ of mandate to prohibit the local court from proceeding with the case.

The accusation against Miss Whitney, filed by the grand jury, seeks her removal from office. She is accused of failing to file her monthly reports with the auditor on the funds required by law and with using funds collected in one month to make deposits with the county treasurer for the preceding month.

Writ Asked Yesterday

O. A. Jacobs, attorney for Miss Whitney in the ouster matter, sought the writ of prohibition yesterday. Today he said the higher court had refused to grant his request. If it had been granted, a date would have been set for a hearing at which it would have been decided whether the writ was to become permanent. Granting of a permanent writ would have definitely prevented the case going to trial on the present accusation.

Mr. Jacobs said no reasons for denial of his motion for a writ were announced by the court of appeals.

Basis for Motion

The motion was made chiefly on the ground that the local court lost jurisdiction in the case when it sustained a demurrer as to two specifications in the accusations, but did not sustain it as to nine others.

Mr. Jacobs also has contended that the accusation should state in each of the 11 specifications that Miss Whitney was county recorder at the time the asserted offenses occurred. He has argued further that the accusation should tell how many of the 19 grand jurors voted to file the accusation. He said a favorable vote of 12 was necessary.

Faces Indictment

The grand jury also has lodged an indictment against Miss Whitney, based largely on the same allegations, and charging appropriation of public funds to her own use. This is a criminal matter in which conviction carries a prison term. S. B. Kaufman, former district attorney, is her counsel in this case. She is scheduled to answer the indictment Feb. 7.

It is understood that the grand jury would not desire to press this matter if Miss Whitney should be removed from office.

MERCURY RISES IN MIDWEST

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. (AP)—The temperature swung upward from the Midwest to the Atlantic coast in a brief respite today from the century's most frigid wave, but the mercury in most of the Southland dropped at the touch of a new surge of chill.

The coldest spot on the map was Charles City, Ia., with 26 below zero; the warmest Miami, Fla., with 68 above.

At least five more deaths in Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky were recorded to bring the total in the country attributed to the cold to well over 150 in three days.

TIES UP $2,000,000

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—Mrs. Roxanna Maria Spreckles' lawyer went to court today and tied up a $2,000,000 trust, of which John D. Spreckles III, whom she is suing for separate maintenance, is chief beneficiary.

Five Star Weekly Is Here Again—Don't Forget It!

Five Star weekly is out again today. That interesting magazine, crammed full of interest for every Journal reader, is in your paper. Don't forget to turn to your weekly magazine of fact, fun and fiction, delivered to your door with your paper, every Saturday.

CUT IN IRRIGATION COSTS TO COUNTY FARMERS IS UNLIKELY

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR GROWERS

San Fernando Valley Water Prices Are Trimmed by L. A.

By ROCH BRADSHAW
Orange county farmers today are searching a parched horizon for relief from the long dry spell. What they see is the specter of a $300,000 increase in irrigation costs. There is no visible slash in water rates to cut the specter down.

As a matter of fact, continuation of the arid season forces irrigation companies to increase pumping and tends to raise the cost of water. Most of the concerns are mutual organizations which supply water to members at cost.

L. A. Cuts Rates

Water rates became a matter of interest today when it was announced that the Los Angeles city council has made a 50 per cent slash in irrigation rates for the San Fernando valley. The new rates are designed to aid farmers and will be effective until April 1. The new rate will be three-quarters of a cent per 100 cubic feet. Los Angeles gets its supply from the Owens river and continued dryness does not force it to pump, as is the case here.

C. A. Palmer, member of the board of directors of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company, said the situation would be discussed at today's board meeting, but that he doubted that any reduction in rates would be possible.

Pump Rate $1

As long as this concern runs its pumps, its rate is $1 per 100 inches of water per hour. This rate was charged all summer because of pumping, and also through the fall and winter because the pumps have been operating, he said.

One good rain, copious enough to make it possible to stop the pumps, would result in a reduction of the rate to 40 cents, he explained.

At the Anaheim Union Water company office William Wallop, superintendent, said that the company's rates are always cut in half during the winter months. In January and February the rate is 80 cents. In June, July, August and September the rate is $1.80.

No Cut Contemplated

He said that no additional cut in rates is contemplated. Long continuation of the dry spell might change conditions, he said, but also explained that his company is a mutual concern furnishing water at cost. The excessive pumping would increase the cost of providing water.

Frank Collins, secretary of the Serrano Irrigation company, said a large portion of the water distributed by that concern is now being pumped, which makes it impossible to reduce rates. This organization, with the John D. Carpenter Water company, is now engaged in retiring obligations incurred in building the Santiago dam, and rates must be high enough to take care of this situation, Mr. Collins said.

The Carpenter Water company also is pumping part of its water. Secretary Don Smiley said. He said rate reductions are impossible for his company for the same reasons that prevail with the Serrano organization. Both concerns charge uniform rates throughout the year.

The smaller mutual irrigation concerns pump all their water. They charge uniform rates. For this reason no reduction is in prospect, it is understood.

MORE ABOUT RAIN

(Continued From Page One)
1884, when it rained 32.65 inches, the gauges on Jan. 25 were .72 of an inch below normal. The most rain the county ever had came in the spring months.

In the 1886-1887 season the early drought was duplicated, when it rained only 1.42 inches up to Jan. 25. Rainfall for that year was slightly more than four inches below normal, as it rained 9.11 inches during the season.

Facts as shown by the records are that years in which the normal Jan. 25 expectancy has not been reached are years in which the average rainfall is not reached. Here is the way they are recorded:

1876-1877: Jan. 25, 1.38 inches; total, 5.20 inches.
1878-1879: Jan. 25, 2.85 inches; total, 5.75 inches.
1881-1882: Jan. 25, 2.34 inches; total, 7.56 inches.
1882-1883: Jan. 25, 2.83 inches; total, 7.74 inches.
1886-1887: Jan. 25, 1.41 inches; total, 9.11 inches.
1891-1892: Jan. 25, 1.95 inches; total, 11.13 inches.
1895-1896: Jan. 25, 3.80 inches; total, 10.79 inches.
1903-1904: Jan. 25, 0.57 inches; total, 10.17 inches.
1910-1911: Jan. 25, 3.18 inches; total, 12.31 inches.
1912-1913: Jan. 25, 2.48 inches; total, 8.44 inches.
1917-1918: Jan. 25, 1.37 inches; total, 10.24 inches.
1918-1919: Jan. 25, 3.99 inches; total, 8.31 inches.
1922-1923: Jan. 25, 4.17 inches; total, 7.58 inches.
1924-1925: Jan. 25, 2.37 inches; On the brighter side of the pic-

STILL FRIENDLY DESPITE STAY

Gov. Harry G. Hoffman (left) and Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey smiled and shook hands after the governor announced a 30-day stay of execution for Bruno Richard Hauptmann. Wilentz successfully prosecuted Hauptmann and won a death sentence for the Lindbergh baby's kidnapping. (Associated Press Photo)

FAMILY DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF GOES TO COURT

A family divided against itself brought its troubles to superior court here yesterday. One side seeks money judgment totaling $168,835 and an injunction to prevent the other side from carrying out a plan for settling financial affairs of the Brown and Dauser Lumber company of Fullerton, with Arthur J. Kelley and W. Breiner, officials of the concern.

The Brown and Dauser company is one center of controversy in the family row. Two factions of the family are on its board of directors. One group has approved a proposed settlement of the company's affairs with Mr. Kelley and Mr. Breiner. The other opposes it. Yesterday secured a temporary restraining order from Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel to prevent the settlement from being carried out. A hearing is scheduled for Jan. 31 at 2 p. m. This faction contends the settlement is a "bald attempt to give away" assets of the company.

Here Are Litigants

Plaintiffs in the case are W. Grant Brown, Pansy Dawson Brown, his wife, Helen Brown and Mabel B. Butler, his sisters. Defendants are the company itself, the W. T. Brown Estates, Inc., Mrs. Alice Brown, widow of the late W. T. Brown, and mother of the plaintiffs; Katherine B. McGill, a sister of W. Grant Brown; Dorothy Stinchfield Padgett, William Avery Brown and Lorin T. Brown, granddaughter and grandsons of W. T. Brown; Elmer Stinson, a director of the company, and Mr. Breiner and Mr. Kelley, whose wives also are named defendants.

Contending that Mr. Breiner and Mr. Kelley are in debt to the company, the complaint asks that the board of directors be directed to bring suit against Mr. Breiner for $72,932.55, and against Mr. Kelley for $70,903.42. Under a statute relating to stockholders, they also ask a $25,000 judgment for themselves.

The complaint said the plan sponsored by the defendants for settlement of the financial relations would wipe out notes given by Mr. Kelley and Mr. Breiner in 1925, in the amount of $51,696.88 each. These were given when they each bought 2476 shares of stock in the company. It also was suggested that dividends due on the stock be offset against open accounts of the two men with the company, which assertedly would leave $4341.40 due to Mr. Breiner and $6351.79 due to Mr. Kelley. To further balance the affair, it was reported that 208 shares of the company's stock be issued to Mr. Breiner and 308 shares to Mr. Kelley.

Says Plan Rejected
The complaint said a plan of the plaintiffs had been rejected by the board. This proposed cancellation of the notes if the stock was returned. They also urged open ture we find three years on record, 5.92 inches. By Jan. 25, 1936, it had rained only 3.34 inches, despite which the total was 14.76 inches; by Jan. 25, 1935, it had rained only 2.97 inches, and the total was 18.10 inches; by Jan. 25, 1926, it had rained only 3.56 inches, and the total for the year was 13.35 inches.

Which proves that while figures do not lie they do not always prognosticate. They can be wrong. Conclusions Vague
In general, from a study of the figures compiled during the entire time, first by Mr. Molton and S. Hill and Sons, former hardware store proprietors, only the vaguest of conclusions can be drawn.

If it starts to rain early in the year, in September or October, a dry year is apt to result; heavy years, in which the rainfall attains or exceeds averages, are apt to be followed by dry years. Last year was a wet one—this is apt to be a wet one, too, for the irrigation companies.

BLACKS CLAIM VICTORY AT MAKALE

By ALBERT W. WILSON
ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Ethiopian government late today issued a communique declaring that the biggest battle of the war, northwest of Makale, had "finally ended in victory for Ethiopia with two important Italian fronts taken."

(The Ethiopian communique is in direct contradiction to one issued on the same battle by the Italian government which claimed that the biggest battle of the war had resulted in a complete Italian victory.)

Earlier in the day, the Ethiopian government stated that Makale, the Italian key position, had been encircled by the Ethiopians who defeated two Fascist columns attempting to rescue the garrison.

The announcement electrified the capital which began a wild celebration of victory.

Ethiopians said they were confident that, with the aid of the prevailing heavy rains in the lowlands, they will be able to drive the Italians not only out of the Makale region but out of Addis and the holy city of Aksum as well.

ITALIANS REPORT 5000 ETHIOPIANS TODAY

ROME, Jan. 25. (AP)—Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander of the Italian forces in Ethiopia, reported today that the recent offensive had cost him 743 soldiers dead and wounded while the Ethiopian casualties had totaled 5000. The figure of 5000 for the Ethiopians was considerably smaller, however, than the earliest reports today through Italian dispatches from the war area. These earlier dispatches estimated 8000 Ethiopians were dead.

The communique revealed that the Italians had been ready to meet the favorite Ethiopian maneuver, a flank attack, and that the resultant action was the war's bloodiest battle.

PLANS FINISHED FOR TIMES DAY

Final arrangements for Santa Ana day at the Los Angeles Times building, to be held Jan. 31, were worked out Thursday night at a dinner meeting in Los Angeles attended by heads of Santa Ana service clubs and representatives of the chamber of commerce.

The musical program to be broadcast from 3:30 to 3:45 p. m. over KJL will be under the direction of Leon Eckles, head of the music division of the Works Progress administration.

The special reception for Santa Anans visiting the plant will take place from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m., it was decided.

Speakers will go before service clubs and civic organizations in the next week to awaken interest in the affair, and will also make special talks at the schools.

As a special feature of the evening, all visitors from Santa Ana have been asked to attend the Times open house, to be held in the auditorium of the building, at 10 o'clock.

TRAIN HITS CAR, TEN KILLED

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 25. (AP)—A father and mother, seven of their nine children and another woman were killed Friday when a Wabash railroad passenger train demolished an automobile at a crossing near here. Two other children were injured seriously.

The dead are: Marion M. McBride, 43; his wife, Susan McBride, 40; the following children, Marion, Jr., 12; Mary, 10; Arthur, 8; Virginia, 6; Robert, 3; and Ramona, and Richard, 17-month-old twins, and Mrs. William Conner, 42.

SPEED FOOD TO ISOLATED CITY

SHERRARD, W. Va., Jan. 25. (AP)—Rescue crews cut through mountainous drifts today with welcome food, fuel and medicine for 300 snowbound residents of this mountainous village.

The crews worked throughout the night behind three snow plows pushing through four miles of blocked highway.

In some places drifts 15 feet deep were piled over the roads. The village had been isolated since Sunday. Residents called for help yesterday.

the time of the wedding, Aug. 15, 1930, at San Bernardino.

While the girl was on the witness stand Judge Allen asked her the real trouble between her and her husband.

"He beats me," said the girl.

While the ground for divorce, it did not impress the court as grounds for an annulment.

THESE BOYS KNOW THEIR A-B-C-D'S

Meet the Perrienne quadruplets of Beaumont, Texas, said to be the only living boy quads in the United States. They are identical and were six years old on Oct. 31. Their names are alphabetical. Left to right are Anthony, Bruno, Carlo and Donald. Bruno is said to be the smartest. There are two sets of girl quads in the United States.

CROP LOANS OF CREDIT BODY TOLD

A total of 123 loans, aggregating $594,103, were made by the Orange County Production Credit association during 1935, the annual financial report of Secretary-Treasurer W. D. Miller, made today, showed.

The association now has 145 members, he reported, and in two years has issued loans amounting to $900,000. Interest collected during the past year amounted to $12,870, and total profits of the association were $853.

Two directors, Vernon Heil, Huntington Beach, and Walter Pollard, today were re-elected for three-year terms. Other directors are J. J. Denni, Anaheim, and Stanley Chapman, Fullerton. J. W. Crill is president of the association.

T. P. Coats, of the Production Credit Corporation, Oakland, was present at this morning's meeting, speaking on the necessity for sound credit among state agricultural interests, and the policy of the associations throughout the state in making loans.

There is no provision in the set-up of the association, he said, for making up of bad or defaulted debts with government money. The association actually is owned by the members with the corporation acting as a lending agency.

ASK U. S. PROBE OF DOCK ROW

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Pacific Maritime federation asked support of national organized labor today in its efforts to balk an asserted shipowners' "lockout" through a congressional probe.

At the same time, Thomas G. Plant, president of the Waterfront Employers association, declared shipping interests would "welcome a complete and thorough governmental investigation."

Harry Bridges, Maritime federation leader, reiterated the "lockout has already started" and pointed to 64 idle coastwise steam schooners and a suspension of freight service by the Pacific Steamship Lines, Inc.

LEAVES EACH OF THREE SONS ONLY DOLLAR IN WILL

The will of the late Robert C. Batchelder of Sunset Beach, who died Jan. 19, was filed for probate in superior court today. The document gave each of three sons one dollar each, saying that they did not show proper respect for their father while he lived.

The estate is valued at not more than $12,000. Mr. Batchelder's business at 1120 Coast highway was left to Harvey Burnett, Sunset Beach. Harold Strong of San Diego was bequeathed $1000. The residue of the estate went to the widow, Cecile M. Batchelder. The will said two former wives already had been provided for.

The three sons are Robert C. Batchelder, Jr., New Haven, Conn.; Henry H. Batchelder, San Diego, and Arthur H. Batchelder, Santa Barbara.

ARRAIGN SUSPECT
Walter Dawney, 53, transient, was arraigned in the Tustin justice court this morning on charges of burglary. His bail was set at $1500 and Jan. 27 was set as the time for the preliminary hearing. Dawney was arrested in Tustin at 1 a. m. today by Chief of Police John Stanton.

JACKSON TO ORGANIZE WORKERS

Sheriff Logan Jackson Friday announced a plan to organize all of Orange county's resources to cope with major disasters. Men, transportation facilities, communication systems and other utilities will form the basis of the county-wide organization. The work of weeding these into a unified instrument to combat emergencies will start next week, the sheriff said.

Deputy Sheriff James Workman will begin next week to contact the various agencies and enlist the cooperation of railroad and stage systems, all types of land and air equipment, men, automobiles, trucks, tractors, and even horse and wagon equipment. Mr. Workman himself is an aviator.

Legion Is Nucleus
American Legion posts of the county, already organized for service in emergencies, will form the nucleus of the enlarged agency, said the sheriff. The Legion posts have 400 men available on an hour's notice.

With the aid of the telephone and telegraph companies it is hoped to create a comprehensive communications program in which the county police radio will play a large part. A two-way radio system is expected to be developed. Other public utilities also will be asked to assist in the program.

One important phase of the plan is an organization of private fliers into an emergency air force similar to one now operating effectively in Los Angeles county.

First Aid Stations
Plans already established for

26 MORE CARS TAGGED FOR OVERNIGHT PARKING

"It takes time, but if we keep after them perhaps they'll learn," Chief of Police Floyd Howard made this remark today in reference to numerous citations that have been issued during the week for Santa Ana motorists who leave their cars parked on the streets between 2 a. m. and 5 a. m.

Police tagged 26 cars that were found parked on the streets today during the forbidden hours. Thursday there were more than 30 of the citations issued, and Tuesday night a similar number was issued.

MOVIE STAR'S AIDE HELD FOR HOMICIDE

Harold Ahern, 32, property man for Warner Oland, motion picture actor, was arraigned in the Newport Beach justice court Friday on charges of negligent homicide and held under $5000 bail pending his preliminary hearing Jan. 30. Ahern was arrested in Los Angeles Thursday.

He was the driver of a car which on the night of Jan. 13 crashed head-on into another car on the Coast highway near Corona Del Mar and in which Mrs. Jane Ella Abel, Pasadena, was riding. Mrs. Abel sustained fatal injuries.

D. A. HARWOOD, M. D.
214 East Walnut
Phone 230-W
CHAD M. HARWOOD, M. D.
PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS
205 S. Main
Hrs. 10-12, 2-5, 7-8. Ph. 3456-W

LET YOUR NEXT RANGE BE ELECTRIC

JURY FREES PRODUCER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—Eleven staid housewives and a lone man in the jury box disagreed with burly police raiders who alleged Jim Timony's "Ladies By Request" was an indecent show.

Today Mae West's portly business manager made plans for taking his three-act farce and original cast to New York for an eastern premiere.

For three hours, ruddy-faced Timony paced the courthouse corridors while the jury deliberated the defense contently that "one smile is worth one thousand groans" and the prosecution charge that evil is suggested by phrases which have double meanings.

"Maybe women shouldn't serve on juries," anxiously mused Timony before the verdict was returned. Afterward he beamed, "I knew those women would never convict me; they seemed too happy and too joyful."

The play, in which Miss West maintained she had only a friendly interest, was raided in Hollywood Dec. 30 by the police vice squad, and Producer Timony and 14 players arrested.

FITTS DEFENSE CLAIMS EDGE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—Trial of District Attorney Buron Fitts on perjury charges was recessed for the week-end today, with defense counsel laying claim to an important tactical victory. A title company executive, T. R. Carlton, after testifying for the prosecution concerning the sale of an orange grove by relatives of the district attorney, was asked: "Do the records show that any of the money went to Mr. Fitts?" "No," the witness replied.

SANTA ANA BUSINESS DIRECTORY

SAVE TIME
LOOK HERE FOR YOUR NEEDS

AUTO PAINTING Ph. 1074

O. K. AUTO PAINTING CO., 120 E. First
A NEW CAR FOR THE PRICE OF A PAINT JOB. Mechanically your car may be as good as new... let us make the outside of your car new, too, with the newest 1936 colors.

AUTO Parts & Mach. Shop, Ph. 894

SANTA ANA MOTOR PARTS & MACHINE WORKS.
413-19 WEST 5TH ST. 24 HOURS, 7 DAYS A WEEK.
The most complete in Orange county. Re-tires, pin-bolting, brake relining, drum truing, lathe work, clutch rebuilding, piston finishing, fuel pump service. Press work. Main bearing bored. Flywheel gears installed.

CLEANERS & DYERS Ph. 4944

WASHINGTON CLEANERS & DYERS, 1109 N. Main
Every garment entrusted to us passes a rigid inspection before it is sent back to you. We offer reliable, efficient methods, and economical price to render you complete cleaning services.

PLUMBING Tel. 99

PACIFIC PLUMBING CO.—313 NORTH ROSS ST.
Rudd and Continental Water Heaters. Magic Gas Ranges. 1900 Whirlpool Washing Machines. Plumbing and Heating Contractors. Standard, Sanitary and Crane Plumbing fixtures. Expert, reasonable repair service.

PRINTING Ph. 1394

THE BRAMLEY PRINTERY, 111 E. Third St.
You will find that job printing creates more business for you in many ways. Circulars, Cards and Letterheads necessary in business. Let us do your work right.

REFRIGERATOR REPAIRS Ph. 5560

SCOTT REFRIGERATOR SERVICE, 509 N. Bristol St.
We service any make of Electric Refrigerators—if your electric makes is not performing correctly call us. Repairs. Parts. 24-hour service.

TERMITE CONTROL Ph. 2850-W

COAST TERMITE AND FUNGUS CONTROL CO.
118 EAST BISHOP ST. Save the expense of repairs, have a Free inspection of your building by state-licensed contractor. We go anywhere. Termites, Ants, Widow Spiders, Fungus and Silverfish.

TIRES—New & Used Ph. 1060

PAT'S and JACK'S TIRE SERVICE, 120 E. First
GENERAL TIRES LEE TIRES
See our large stock of new and used tires... an exceptional buys. Your old tires good for part of the down payment. Regrooving and retreading a specialty.

TYPEWRITERS Phone 1266

REMINGTON RAND INC., SALES & SERVICE
415 North Sycamore Street
RENT A NEW PORTABLE TYPEWRITER (or a standard) 3 MONTHS FOR $5. Eight different models to choose from. We repair all makes of typewriters and adding machines.

WATCH REPAIRING

MELL SMITH, D. G. W.—321 W. 4TH ST.
I have been taking inventory and find I'm about 90 pounds short on weight—but you still have 200 pounds of darn good watchmaker.

WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; little change in temperature; light local frosts in interior tonight; gentle variable wind off the coast.

TEMPERATURES

(Courtesy First National Bank)
Today
High, 63 degrees, 11:30 a. m. Low, 42 degrees, 6 a. m.
Yesterday
High, 77 degrees, 3 p. m. Low, 45 degrees, 6 a. m.

SAN FRANCISCO BAY REGION—Increasing cloudiness tonight, becoming unsettled Sunday and possibly followed by rain; mild temperature; gentle variable wind.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA—Increasing cloudiness tonight, becoming unsettled Sunday, possibly with rain Sunday night; no change in temperature; gentle variable wind off coast, becoming southerly.

SIERRA NEVADA—Increasing cloudiness tonight and Sunday, becoming unsettled; no change in temperature; gentle southwest wind.
SACRAMENTO, SAKTAYO, L. A. R. JOAQUIN AND SALINAS VALLEYS—Increasing cloudiness tonight, becoming unsettled Sunday, possibly with rain Sunday night; no change in temperature; light variable winds.

OUTLOOK FOR THE FAR WEST—ERN STATES—For the period Jan. 27 to Feb. 1 inclusive: Rains first two days, followed by fair weather; temperatures normal or above; becoming lower the middle of the week.

TIDE TABLE
Jan. 25—High: 9:20 a. m., 6.3 ft. Low: 4:15 p. m., -1.2 ft.
Jan. 26—High: 10:00 a. m., 5.8 ft. Low: 4:50 p. m., -0.8 ft.

TEMPERATURES ELSEWHERE
Temperatures taken at various places were given out by the U. S. Weather Bureau at Los Angeles as follows:
Boston, 26
Chicago, -2
New Orleans, 50
Denver, 22
New York, 35
Des Moines, 22
St. Louis, 35
El Paso, 32
Pittsburgh, -4
Helena, 16
Salt Lake City, 21
Kansas City, 30
San Francisco, 48
Los Angeles, 44
Seattle, 49
Tampa, 52

Birth Notices

WILLIAMS—To Mr. and Mrs. Russell Williams, Stanton, a son at Orange County hospital, Jan. 24.

Death Notices

DINSMORE—Mrs. Amelia F. Dinsmore, 22, at her residence in Newport Beach, Jan. 25. Widow of Jesse Dinsmore, who died here four years ago. Survived by two daughters, Mrs. L. H. Charbonneau, Orange, and Mrs. Earl Talbot, Anaheim; three grandchildren, Gladys, Tallie and Dowell, Claremont; James Talbot, Anaheim, and Azilda Charbonneau, Orange. Funeral services to be held from the Winbigler Mortuary chapel, 609 North Main street, Monday at 2 p. m. Burial in Fairview cemetery.

Intentions To Wed

Edgar T. Wehn, Jr., 27, Delphine L. Wehn, 24, at Los Angeles.
Manuel Ramirez, 18, Wilmington; Lupe Caldera, 16, San Pedro.
Marion D. Keeton, 37, Emma M. Southern, 31, San Pedro.
Edward Pine, 33, June Kane, 36, Los Angeles.
James S. Black, Jr., 38, Dora M. Ayers, 27, Redondo Beach.
Fernando Rodriguez, 40, Altavracia Felix, 33, Los Angeles.
Jose L. Urrutia, 23, Santa Paula; Rosie Aguilar, 18, 602 East Fourth, Santa Ana.
Hiram D. Allerton, 40, Marie Jounis, 40, Los Angeles.
Arthur D. Parsons, Jr., 21, Jennie M. Gensel, 20, Long Beach.
Carl L. Watson, 24, San Pedro; Janie L. Moore, 21, Long Beach.
George A. Gouley, 35, Los Angeles; Jessie P. Norton, Montebello.
John R. Bedford, 37, Eileen Lindley, 30, Compton.
Charles Barton, 39, Esther M. Alexander, 33, Los Angeles.

Marriage Licenses

George V. Calderon, 22, Lucy Martinez, 19, Los Angeles.
Lewis F. Fisher, 25, San Pedro; Norma Lilly, 26, Huntington Park.
Kenneth P. Jones, 22, June G. Getchus, 18, Los Angeles.
Peter K. Smith, 21, Costa Mesa; Edith A. Parsons, 18, R. 3, Box 354, Santa Ana.
Robert McNally, 26, Los Angeles; Virginia Mikesell, 20, Long Beach.
Severin A. Bergman, 38, Long Beach; Gertrude Polans, 29, Los Angeles.
William C. Titmus, 22, San Diego; Mildred I. Robinson, 24, Los Angeles.
Paul R. Stahlhut, 27, Los Angeles; Frances C. Hayward, 22, Montebello.
Frank B. Rand, 23, Arcadia; Henrietta den Hollander, 21, Pasadena.
Matthew E. Coary, 29, 117 N. Olive, Anaheim; Helen P. Fullerton, 25, 528 E. Palmyra, Orange.

Tonight and Monday

TONIGHT
Sycamore Rebekahs, I. O. O. F. hall, 8 p. m.
Orange County Peace Officers Association benefit ball, Valencia ballroom, 9 p. m.

MONDAY
Business Men's Association, James cafe, noon.
American Legion Mothers' club, Veterans' hall, all-day, served luncheon at noon for members.
Santa Ana chapter, O. E. S., Masonic temple, pot-luck at 6:30 p. m.
Royal Neighbors of America, Magnolia chapter, M. W. A. hall, 8 p. m.
Native Daughters of Golden West, C. of C. hall, 7:30 p. m.
Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, First M. E. church, rehearsal, 7:30 p. m.
Lewis Browne lecture, "Modern Civilization in Germany," under M. E. church, 7:30 p. m.
Adult Education department, Cantando club rehearsal, Episcopal Church of the Messiah, 7 p. m.
Loyal Order of the Moose, Moose hall, 8 p. m.

Townsend Club

Townsend club No. 10 will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at 211 Elm street in the Franklin garage adjacent to the Free Methodist church. Special and important business has been scheduled. All members are requested to be present. Arrangements will be made for a radio talk.

FOR FLOWERS

—THE—Bouquet Shop

109 North Broadway, Ph. 1990

About Folks

News of Your Family and Friends Is Important. The Journal Welcomes It. Telephone 3600

FLOWERS

Deputy Sheriff James Musick and Mrs. Musick were to leave today for Boulder dam to spend the week-end, returning to Santa Ana Sunday night.

California Highway Patrolman George Peterkin, who recently returned from Sacramento where he attended the California Highway Patrol school of instruction, yesterday took over the duties of commercial officer for the highway patrol in Orange county.

Sergeant B. F. Lutz, who for the past two months has been confined to his home with a serious bronchial ailment, is recovering. Santa Ana police who have been active in caring for their fellow officer during his illness said today his condition is greatly improved.

J. M. Wyne of Ritchey street has been confined to his bed for the past two weeks with an attack of influenza. He is reported to be better now, and able to be up part of the time.

Miss Helen Bower was a dinner guest Thursday night in Whittier.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Stonebarger, North Olive street, have as their houseguests their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Parker, who are visiting here from Grand Canyon, Colo. This is Mrs. Parker's first trip home to Santa Ana since her marriage about a year ago. Mr. Parker is assistant manager of El Torar hotel at Grand canyon. They went to San Diego this week and are planning a trip to Long Beach, Los Angeles and Fresno before they return home two weeks from now.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snyder, 813 North Olive street, had as their houseguests this week, Mrs. Ruby Underdon, Los Angeles. She was a former school friend of Mrs. Snyder in Colorado. Wednesday they went to Riverside and Thursday to Escondido. Mrs. Underdon plans trips into Washington, Oregon and Idaho for the next three months.

Out-of-state students who have registered recently at Santa Ana High school are Inez Buy from Pine Bluff, Ark., and Richard La Flam, Seattle, Wash.

Appointment of Miss Edith Thatch as adviser and Roberta McKnight as typist recently concluded the staff of the Ariel, annual at Santa Ana High school, according to Audrey Granas, editor.

Santa Ana High school students have eaten 1500 doughnuts since Nov. 7, according to Billie Johnson, treasurer of the Girls' league at the school, in charge of the Wednesday doughnut sales.

John Sinner, Harold Clucas and Richard Preston were initiated as pledges of the Engineering club of Santa Ana High school Wednesday evening at a meeting in Irvine park.

Officers of Tri-Y at Santa Ana High school elected this week included Helen Lowe, president; Roberta Nichols, vice president; Josephine White, secretary; Betty Neff, treasurer, and Ruth Budd, co-financier.

Mrs. William Sneyley, 733 Cypress avenue, spent today in Hollywood with her sister, Miss May Going, of the Hollywood Spectator.

Mrs. R. C. Handloser of Los Angeles arrived yesterday for a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Vorce, 1027 Hickory street.

Waldy Merker former resident of Santa Ana, but more recently located in Riverside, was in the city Friday visiting with relatives and friends.

Cecil Marks, Tustin, was in Anaheim today on farm bureau business.

R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the farm bureau, will leave Monday morning for Visalia, where we will attend a meeting of the executive secretaries of county farm bureaus.

James B. Utt, 2140 North Ross street, was expected to return today from "several days' trip to Sacramento."

James B. Wellington, attorney, was in Los Angeles yesterday on business.

Dan Mulherson, manager of the Orange county Works Progress administration, returned last night from a business trip to San Diego, where he conferred with district officers of WPA.

Kenton Case, Long Beach, will spend Monday in Santa Ana visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Ogle, 1603 French street, Santa Ana, are in San Diego today where Mr. Ogle was engaged in a business conference.

William H. Huff, Long Beach, was in Santa Ana today where he consulted with attorneys in connection with business of the firm which he represents.

Dr. J. P. Boyd and Miss Rosa Boyd, 501 North Main street, Santa Ana, have returned to their home following a week's vacation trip to Lake Elsinore.

William Wallop, superintendent of the Anaheim Union Water company, was in Santa Ana yesterday to secure 1936 automobile license plates.

George Gelzer, chief of police at Huntington Beach, was in Santa

Looking Up

Snapshots by The Journal's Candid Cameraman

Vic Forsberg, mechanic at Heck Collins' garage, was on his back tinkering with the working parts of a big truck when The Journal's candid cameraman unbent to see what he was doing. Vic can't work without that cigar in his mouth. Watch for Monday's picture; it may be you.

SUNDAY SERVICES

MISSION—115 French street. G. M. Henson, evangelist. Services 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. Afternoon service topic, "Divine Healing." Evening topic, "These Last Days and Their Place in Prophecy."

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE—West Fifth at Parton street. L. D. Meggers, pastor. 9:30 a. m., church school. 11 a. m., morning worship. Young people's meeting at 6 p. m. Evangelistic service at 7 p. m.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN—Sixth and Bush streets. Albert Eakin Kelly, D. D., minister. 9:15 a. m., pre-prayer period. Church school, 10:45 a. m. Morning worship, 10:45 a. m. School of World Friendship, 6 to 8 p. m. Morning topic, "Gethsemane's Question to Christians of Today." Mr. and Mrs. Eric Horn, missionaries of Sudan, will lecture on Ethiopia, with lecture and show pictures at 7 p. m.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN—Sixth at Sycamore. O. Scott McFarland, minister. 9:30 a. m., church school. 10:45 a. m., morning worship. 6 p. m., Christian Endeavor. 7 p. m., evening service. At evening service Rev. John M. MacInnis, dean of school of leadership training of L. A. Presbytery, will deliver the fourth of a series of six Sunday night meetings on the theme, "The Basic Beliefs of Jesus and How He Taught Them to Others." Mr. McFarland will speak at morning service on "Youth and the New World."

ST. JOSEPH'S CATHOLIC—Stafford and Lacy street. Sunday masses, 7, 8:30 and 10 a. m.

SURGEON MEMORIAL METHODIST—North Broadway at Church and Eighth streets. Cecil M. Aker, D. D., pastor. 9:30 a. m., Sunday school. 10:50 a. m., morning worship. 6 p. m., leagues and fellowship. 7 p. m., evening worship. Morning topic, "The Man Who Made Good." Evening topic, "The Kingdom and the Evil World."

MEXICAN METHODIST—First and Garfield. Juan C. Palacios, pastor. 9:45 a. m., Sunday school. 11 a. m., preaching services. 3 p. m., jail services. 3 p. m., meeting at Delhi. 6 p. m., senior league. 7:30 p. m., preaching services. Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., Young People's Epworth league.

COSMIC UNITY, CHURCH NO. 9 BROTHERHOOD OF SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY—Rev. Ida L. Ewing, pastor. 601 East Fourth street. Evening service, 7:30 p. m. Lecture at 8 p. m., followed by ball reading, written questions answered, daylight trumpet messages and independent special messages.

RICHLAND AVENUE METHODIST—Richland. J. W. Reinius, minister. Sunday morning unified service and sermon, 9:30 a. m. Class period, 11 a. m. Evening service, 7 p. m. Morning topic, "The Romance of Religion."

REORGANIZED CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER DAY SAINTS—Fifth and Flower streets. Louis J. Osterlag, pastor. 9 a. m., young people's prayer meeting. 9:45 a. m., church school. 11 a. m., sermon, by Patriarch Albert Carmichael of Independence, Mo. 7:30 p. m., sermon by Patriarch Carmichael.

FIRST FREE METHODIST—Fruit and Minter, Ellsworth A. A. Archer, pastor. 9:45 a. m., Sunday school. 11 a. m., services. 6 p. m., class meeting and young people's service. 7 p. m., preaching.

SILVER ACRES COMMUNITY—End of West Fifth street. Carl W. Junghelt, pastor. 9:45 a. m., Sunday school; 11 a. m., services; 6:30 p. m., young people; 7:30 p. m., services.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY ALLIANCE—South Main at Bishop street. C. D. Hicks, pastor. 9:45 a. m., Sunday school; classes for all ages. 11 a. m., morning worship. 5:45 p. m., young people's meeting. 7 p. m., evangelistic service. Morning topic, "Mirroring the Gospel." Evening topic, "A

Why Standest Thou Afar Off, O Lord?

CHRIST'S LIFE TO BE SHOWN

Stereopticon slides of the geographical setting for the great scenes in the life of Christ will be brought by J. E. Holley, D. D., tomorrow night at the First Methodist church service at 7 o'clock.

Dr. Holley has personally taken pictures of Nazareth, Bethlehem, Jerusalem and all the other cities of importance in Biblical history. The guest speaker will take his audience through the whole life of Christ to the scenes where events in His life actually occurred.

Recently Dr. Holley compiled a manual, showing Biblical interpretations of the life of Christ aligned simultaneously with pictures of the scenes of their happening. The books will be for sale at the service tomorrow night.

SUNDAY SERVICES

Welcome Home—Cottage prayer meeting, 6:15 p. m. at 707 South Main.

ST. PETER LUTHERAN—Sixth and Garney streets. H. W. Meyer, pastor. 9:45 a. m., Sunday school. 11 a. m., congregational worship and sermon. Luther League devotional hour, 6:30 p. m. Evening worship, 7:30 p. m.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST—Fifteenth and Sycamore streets. B. R. Spear, pastor. Regular church services each Saturday. Sabbath school, 9:30 a. m. Preaching, 11 a. m.

SAINT ANNE'S CATHOLIC—Borchard and South Main. Rev. Thomas Butler, pastor. Masses, 7, 8:30 and 10 a. m.

UNITED BRETHREN—1101 West Third street. Everett E. Johnson, pastor. 9:45 a. m., Sunday school. 11 a. m., services. 6 p. m., Christian Endeavor. 7 p. m., services. Morning topic, "Communion—Fellowship With Christ." Holy communion at this service. Evening topic, "God's Power to Save."

BETHEL TABERNACLE—Sixth and French streets. Rev. D. W. McLain and Emma McLain, pastors. Sunday school, 9:30 a. m. Morning prayer and sermon, 11 a. m. Defenders service, 6:30 p. m. Evangelistic services, 7:30 p. m. Morning topic, "Whosoever Will."

UNITARIAN CHURCH—Eighth and Bush. Rev. Julia N. Budlong, minister. Junior fellowship, 10 a. m. Morning service at 11 a. m. Sermon, "Are You Ready for Death?"

FULL GOSPEL—1600 W. Third. M. M. Pinson, pastor. Sunday school, 9:30 a. m. Morning service, 10:45 a. m. Evening service, 7 p. m. Young People's meeting, 6 p. m. Morning topic, "Watching and Being Ready for the Coming of Christ." Evening topic, based on First Peter 4:18.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH—Seventh and Bush streets. Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector. 7:30 a. m., Holy Communion. 9:30 a. m., church school. 11 a. m., King George memorial service. 2 p. m., confirmation class. 4:40 p. m., vesper recital. 7:30 p. m., opening convention service at St. Luke's, Long Beach.

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN—Ross and Camille. Herman B. Landis, pastor. Sunday school, 9:45 a. m. Morning services, 11 a. m. Evening service, 7:30 p. m. Christian Endeavor, 6:30 p. m. Morning topic, "What Is Your Price?" Evening topic, "He That Overcometh." Young people's C. E. will give exchange program to Pomona Church of Brethren C. E. at Pomona.

ORANGE AVENUE CHRISTIAN—Orange and McFadden. John T. Stivers, minister. 9:30 a. m., Bible school. 10:45 a. m., morning worship, Lord's Supper. 6 p. m., Christian Endeavor. 7 p. m., evening service. Morning topic, "A Bible School Vision." Evening topic, "Giving the Bible a Chance."

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES—319 West First street. Sunday services, 7:30 p. m., electrical transcription lecture by Judge Rutherford, "Saluting a Flag," at K. P.

"SALUTING THE FLAG"

COME AND HEAR JUDGE RUTHERFORD

(By Electrical Transcription)

K. P. HALL

Fifth and Broadway

SUNDAY, JANUARY 26, 7:30 P. M.

Questions on the subject will be answered from the Bible immediately following the lecture.

Santa Ana Co. of JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

Admission Free No Collection

BEST SUNDAY SCHOOL MARK GOES TO C. & M. A. CHURCH

The highest percentage of attendance among the Sunday schools of Santa Ana was held last Sunday by the Sunday school of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church, its percentage being 83 per cent. Following is record made last week of the Sunday schools by the Ministerial association of Santa Ana:

	Enrollment	Attendance	Pct.
Christian and Missionary Alliance.....	181	150	83
Reformed Presbyterian.....	110	89	81
United Brethren.....	182	141	78
First Christian.....	589	460	78
Orange Avenue Christian.....	200	154	77
First Congregational.....	217	163	75
First Presbyterian.....	629	446	71
First Baptist.....	643	396	62
United Presbyterian.....	328	197	60

hall, Fifth and Broadway. Radio lecture, 7:45 p. m., over KNX, by Judge Rutherford.

CALVARY—Ebell clubhouse. Frank E. Lindgren, pastor. 9:30 a. m., Sunday school. 11 a. m., morning worship. 7 p. m., services. Morning topic, "Separated Unto God." Evening service in charge of Rev. J. A. Vaus, of Jewish department of the Bible Institute, assisted by Christian Jews. Both services broadcast over station KVOE.

FOUR SQUARE GOSPEL—South Sycamore at Fairview street. J. Willis and Sibyl Mae Archer, pastors. 9:30 a. m., Sunday school. 11 a. m., morning worship. 6:15 p. m., young people. 7:30 p. m., evangelistic service.

CHURCH OF CHRIST—Fairview and Birch streets. Floyd Thompson, pastor. 9:45 a. m., Bible study for all ages. 11 a. m., morning preaching service. Young people's meeting, 6 p. m. Evening service, 7 p. m. Special morning sermon by Samuel E. Witt, of Ontario Children's home, sponsored by Churches of Christ. Lunch 12 noon in basement. Special singing at 2 p. m., under direction of Will W. Slater, Fort Smith, Ark.

FIRST EVANGELICAL—North Main and Tenth streets. Rev. E. G. Schmid, minister. 9:25 a. m., early service. 9:55 a. m., Sunday school. 11 a. m., morning worship. 6:30 p. m., Christian Endeavor. 7:30 p. m., evening service.

FIRST SPIRITUAL INTERDENOMINATIONAL, I. S. U.—1105 West Fourth (rear). Fredma D. Barger, pastor. Church service, 7:45 p. m., messages for all.

TRINITY LUTHERAN—East Sixth and Lacy streets. Wm. Schmuck, pastor. 9:30 a. m., Sunday school. 9:40 a. m., Bible class. 10:35 a. m., divine worship. Sermon, "Christ, the Divine Physician."

FIRST CHRISTIAN—Sixth and Broadway. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor. 9:30 a. m., morning unified worship. 10:40 a. m., Bible school. 6 p. m., Christian Endeavor. 7 p. m., evening service. Morning topic, "The Essential Secret." At evening service, "The Weekly Bible Verse Selection

"God is a spirit, and they that worship Him must worship in spirit and in truth."
John 4:24
Christians have repeatedly fallen back into the grossly materialistic conception of God. This is true in the most formal cults. Tertullian treated the "Substances" of God as material. In the fourth century there were monks on the Semetic desert who were in a frantic rage at the teaching of the school of Origen, which maintained the pure spirituality of God. These extravagant monks were condemned by the church as anthropomorphites. It is necessary to have a conception of God in the spiritual life. God is real when we approach Him in spirit as the material universe with which we are so familiar is real.

REV. J. C. PALASIOS

COSMIC UNITY CHURCH NO. 9
BROTHERHOOD OF SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY
All Services at Paragon, 501 East Fourth Street
REV. IDA L. EWING, Pastor
Come and hear a Wonderful Lecture, "THE GIFT OF GOD'S LOVE"
Services: Sunday, 7:30 p. m., 7:30 p. m., 7:30 p. m.
Weekly Services, Wednesday and Thursday, 7:30 p. m.

BETHEL TABERNACLE
FULL GOSPEL
Corner 6th and French Streets
Rev. D. W. McLain and Emma McLain, Pastors
Services: Sunday, 9:30 a. m., 11 a. m., 7:30 p. m.
Subject Sunday "Whosoever Will"
Services: Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Sixth at Spurgeon and French Sts. George A. Warner, Minister MORNING WORSHIP MEETING—9:30
Sermon Subject: "The Reconciliation of Tragedy"
EVENING PRAISE MEETING—7:00
Dr. J. E. Holley, Author, Traveler, Lecturer, will present "THE LIFE OF JESUS"—a stereopticon lecture

OUR SANTA ANA CHURCHES
Apostolic Faith Mission, Rev. Andrew Switzer, pastor, 1201 W. Second.
Calvary Church, Rev. Frank Lindgren, pastor, 625 French.
Bethel Tabernacle, Rev. D. W. McLain, pastor, 6th and French.
Christian Missionary Alliance Church, Rev. C. D. Hicks, pastor, 115 E. Bishop.
Church of Christ, Rev. J. H. Sewell, pastor, W. Walnut, corner S. Bdw. Church of Christ (Southside), Floyd Thompson, pastor, 361 S. Birch.
Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 311 W. Maple.
Church of the Brethren, Herman B. Landis, pastor, 619 N. Main.
First Evangelical Church, Rev. E. G. Schmid, pastor, 1003 N. Main.
First Free Methodist Church, Rev. E. A. Archer, pastor, 702 Minter.
First Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. G. A. Warner, pastor, 601 Spurgeon.
First Presbyterian Church, Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor, W. 6th, cor. Sycamore.
Episcopal Church of the Messiah, Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector, 7th & Bush.
Evangelical Mission, 650 Adams.
First Baptist Church, Rev. H. E. Owings, pastor, 712 N. Main.
First Christian Church, Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor, 602 N. Broadway.
First Church of Christ Scientist, 920 N. Main.
First Congregational Church, Rev. P. F. Schrock, pastor, 619 N. Main.
First Evangelical Lutheran Church, Rev. J. T. Stivers, minister, 1135 Orange Ave.
First Free Methodist Church, Rev. Felix Moreno, 1304 E. Third.
Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, Rev. Jose Orizel, pastor, 541 Central.
Pentecostal Mission, 211 N. Daisy.
Reformed Presbyterian Church, Rev. Samuel Edgar, pastor, E. Myrtle, cor. Hickory.
Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Rev. L. J. Osterlag, pastor, 820 W. Fifth.
Richland Avenue Methodist Church, Rev. J. W. Reinius, minister, S. Parton, cor. Richland.
Second Baptist Church (colored), Rev. F. W. Cooper, pastor, 1908 W. 8th.
Seventh Day Adventist Church, Rev. B. R. Spear, pastor, 202 W. Fifth.
Silver Acres Community Church, Carl W. Junghelt, pastor, end of W. Fifth.
Spurgeon Memorial Methodist Church, South, Rev. C. M. Aker, pastor, descriptions.
St. Anne's Catholic Church, Rev. Thos. Butler, pastor, 111 Borchard.
St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Rev. Timothy Galvin, pastor, 725 Lacy.
United Brethren Church, Rev. J. T. Stivers, minister, 1135 Orange Ave.
United Brethren Church, Rev. Wm. Schmuck, pastor, 909 E. Sixth.
United Brethren Church, Rev. J. T. Stivers, minister, 1135 Orange Ave.
United Brethren Church, Rev. Everett A. Johnson, pastor, 1101 W. Third.
Jehovah's Witnesses, 319 W. First street, hearing Judge Rutherford transcription.
United Presbyterian Church, Rev. A. E. Kelly, pastor, 115 E. Sixth.

REVIVAL IS ON AT MISSION

Revival services at The Mission at 115 French street will be continued tomorrow with Evangelist G. M. Henson speaking at 2:30 and 7:30 o'clock services.

"Divine Healing" will be the 2:30 o'clock service topic. At the evening meeting, "These Last Days and Their Place in Prophecy" will be the topic. The public is invited, regardless of creed, as all our services are reported to be conducted on the union service plan.

reading room is maintained at 405 W. H. Spurgeon building, open daily except Sunday and holidays, 9:30 a. m. to 9 p. m., closing Wednesdays at 7 p. m. Lesson-Sermon topic, "Truth."

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

WITHOUT much trouble, we could start some real hefty local competition throughout the county—maybe we will.

Because, we heard the other day that Dr. C. G. Huston, down at Costa Mesa, has received an interesting letter—one which'll make all of our communities, especially those interested in tourists, sit up and take lots of notice.

Dr. Huston's heard from WPA'ers in Washington, telling of a contemplated American Guide, which will tell of places of interest throughout the country. Headquarters have asked the Costa Mesa, and the Coast association, to aid workers in selecting spots for publicity.

When word of this gets around, Dr. Huston'll probably have every chamber of commerce secretary draped around his neck, and he'll blame us, but it looks like too good a chance for publicity to miss.

The sponsors of the guide claim that it'll amount to an encyclopedia of American folklore, scenery, climate, famous landmarks, native customs, products, sports, arts, agriculture, and all sorts of things like that. A staff of field workers will prepare the guide, will need lots of local advice. Seems like they're going to have a hard time selecting proper spots in Orange county, with so many from which to choose, doesn't it?

Immediately one thinks of such a guide, one thinks of the mission at San Juan Capistrano. Also Dana Point, famous in "Two Years Before the Mast." El Toro and the back country there, with its historical background. And all the packing houses. And, for sure, Newport's harbor. And maybe the first vanilla grove at Placentia. And Anaheim's and Fullerton's beautiful parks—just think of all the suggestions all of us could give Dr. Huston.

How about a contest, to help workers decide which needs mention the most?

Investigating the agricultural situation in the county, and all we could find was cows and celery.

We know a little about cows—that they give milk, eat hay and moo, but nothing at all about celery.

We saw the celery before the cows—it was in a patch, with one around, so we couldn't ask questions, and so had to wonder—are still wondering, to be frank about it.

Celery seems to be the one crop that's wrapped up, ready for delivery, even before it's harvested. Or does one harvest celery? Perhaps one plants it.

At any rate, the stalks were all wrapped with paper. After some thought, decided that perhaps that was to help bleach 'em, but we still don't know for sure. How about some information on the subject?

The cows, of course, were too numerous to mention. From all appearances there's been a good calf harvest hereabouts. One place seemed to be devoted entirely to the youngsters. There were dozens of 'em, and all eating.

After some thought on the subject, we decided that as farmers we'd better stick to the newspaper business.

And so we left the celery farm or ranch or plantation, or whatever it is, and investigated Newport's pier and its surroundings. It was Friday and therefore fish day and therefore good business for the fishing colony. Boats were drawn up on the sand and operators were doing a rushing business, although, from their displays, angling isn't so hot, these days.

Sand dabs, sculpin, those multi-colored, bulldog-faced little rascals that are such good eating, and "kingfish," which still look like tomcod to us, were about all they had for sale. Must be pretty tough to row several miles and then only catch such small fry.

So, we decided on halibut for supper.

The pier was more interesting. Several dozen fishermen were sitting there, with apparently all hope gone, when we arrived. We helped 'em sit, for awhile, until a school of small mackerel came in, and then everyone was excited. One man caught five on the same line at the same time. Another caught three. Everyone caught some, and were consequently happy.

We saw the ultimate in ingenuity while on the pier—a home-made fishing reel, which was a honey. The backyard manufacturer had cut a milk can much after the shape of a regulation reel, and had inserted a spool and tacked on a wire handle. Then he'd applied some thick wrapping twine, and there was his reel!

For a sinker he was using a rusty padlock. He heaved his line out once, while we were looking, and the vibration of the reel was nearly enough to shake the whole works to pieces, but it was still holding together when we left.

Hope he caught a fish!

Important parliamentary debates in future will be broadcast from the New Zealand house of representatives.

LAGUNA HIGHWAY BEAUTIFICATION PROGRAM IS PLANNED

$6500 COST OF PROJECT AT BEACH

Lane of Trees Will Be Planted Along Road, Officials Decide

LAGUNA BEACH.—Plans for an elaborate highway beautification program, which includes a section between Cypress street and the southerly city limits, were outlined at a meeting of the city council, Garden club, S. V. Cortelou, state highway engineer and Mr. Newcomb, state landscape engineer, here yesterday.

Present plans call for an expenditure of $6500, to be spent on planting trees and shrubs along the highway at the southern entrance to the city. Eucalyptus trees will be planted on each side of the highway, 100 feet apart, with the exception of state-owned underpass where the planting will be more profuse.

At this point many varieties of shrubs will be added, and under the present plan it will make one of the most beautiful entrances to a city to be found anywhere in Southern California. Sloping banks in this area will be planted to shrubs to cover the present barrenness of the walls.

This project is under a new division of state highway beautification, and is the second of its kind in Southern California. Allocation of funds is made by the state, and includes 50-day maintenance. Later on, according to Councilman Cummings, a similar beautification plan will be carried out throughout the length of the city on Coast highway.

Meeting with the state officials were Mayor Frank Chapman, Mr. Cummings, Mrs. Malin Woodworth, president of the Garden club, and several members.

Mr. Cortelou announced that work on the project will start as soon as the state architect's plans are ready in order to benefit from the coming spring rains.

CLOSE SCHOOLS AS GAS FAILS

FULLERTON.—Hundreds of Fullerton residents went without their breakfasts and elementary schools were closed for the day here yesterday when an automatic pressure regulator in the control yard of the local distribution lines at Truslow and Highland avenues stuck, cutting off pressure immediately.

Due to danger of open appliances in homes, hundreds of workers from all points in Southern California were rushed here, to warn residents when the gas was turned on about 1 p. m. and to turn the gas into every individual meter in the community, with the exception of an area near Fullerton Union High school, which is on a separate line. The high school was not affected, and classes were held as usual.

PLACENTIA.—Warren M. Bradford, head of Bradford Bros., Inc., here, was elected president of the new Placentia Orange County exchange at a meeting held here this week.

Mr. Bradford succeeds John C. Tuffree, elected president when the exchange was formed in November. Mr. Tuffree is now on a world tour.

Others officers named were E. W. Hemphill, first vice president; Ed P. Backs, second vice president; L. M. Gardiner, secretary; H. O. Easton, manager; Waldo O'Kelly, bookkeeper, and J. A. Prizer, representative on the board of directors of the California Fruit Growers' exchange.

Also present were Mesdames Owen Murray, Earl Wood, Jane Welch, M. M. Fishback, Opal Youngs, L. L. Williams, Marion Flippin, Lee Ward, Willis Perkins, Pearl Ristow, Lucien Flippin, Earl Crawford, W. S. Hill, Lotta Brandon, Hall Brown, Ernest Burns and Miss Bertha Young.

G. G. DINNER PARTY HONORS VISITOR

GARDEN GROVE.—Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wheeler entertained last evening with a 7 o'clock dinner honoring his sister, Mrs. Nell Crabbell, Centralia, Wash.

Other guests were Mrs. and Mrs. David Meyer and son, Darold, Santa Ana, Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Friend, Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wheeler, Garden Grove.

HE'S A CHAMPION AT FOUR

Herman Enterline, of Kings Park, L. I., recently was awarded the marksmanship decoration by the National Rifle association for shooting a score of 272 out of 500 with a .22 calibre rifle. When he was only three years old he qualified as a marksman.

PLAN FETE CELEBRATING 30TH YEAR OF CHURCH

WINTERSBURG.—Commemorating the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Wintersburg Methodist church, members are planning a homecoming day Feb. 9. Invitations to former members and pastors have been sent out and many have signified their intention of attending.

The Rev. W. A. Matson, a former pastor, will conduct the morning service, and J. Scott Willmarth the evening service. Two former members, Myrtle Carver, Alhambra, and Manville Saxton, Whittier, will be the soloists at the morning service. Dinner will be served at noon, and an afternoon program is being arranged. The executive board of the Ladies' aid met at the home of Mrs. Harry Letson Wednesday for luncheon and to complete plans for the homecoming day. Present were Mrs. E. M. Fox, Mrs. J. A. Murry, Mrs. E. Ray Moore and Mrs. J. H. Thompson. In the afternoon they were joined by Mrs. W. Allen Young, Mrs. R. Ruoff, and Mrs. W. F. Slater.

COUPLE BUILD OWN BOAT Yard Is Used For Factory

NEWPORT.—In the front yard of their home at 1717 Central avenue, in view of many motorists that pass along that way, a man and woman are building themselves a new ocean-going boat.

From early morning until late at night hammers may be heard as John Norek and his wife, Irma, may be seen at work on the great hull which they expect will provide means for earning their livelihood.

The fishing boat will be 50 feet in length when completed. The stern is a little different from many fishing boats but not so very different from the stern of a purse seiner. The craft will have an insulated hold and a small refrigeration plant.

Lumber will cost about $1200 and the entire cost of the boat will be about $6000. Nearly 2000 bolts and 200 screws are being used in the 50 ribs of the craft. Sleeping accommodations will be provided for six persons.

Irma and John designed their own craft, made their own boiler from a water heater and built the steam box in which the ribs are softened so that they may be shaped to fit sides of the craft. Irma tends the fire, watches the wood temper in the steam box and helps clamp the ribs into shape before they cool and become set.

The builders expect to take one year to finish the craft and have it ready for the sea even though they work 14 hours daily at their task.

Just how they will get the big boat into the water from where it is being built on the dry sand, has not been decided.

PENSION GROUP HAS SUPPER

WESTMINSTER.—Townsend club members of the Westminster district held a regular meeting Thursday evening in the Odd Fellows hall. A pot-luck dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock followed by the business meeting and program.

Mrs. E. L. Hensley presented Donald Spafford in a trumpet solo. The speaker of the evening was the Rev. W. H. White of Laguna Beach. Twenty-two new members were admitted to the club which now numbers over 200.

New members are Raymond Penhall, Idabelle Penhall, Alice Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hemstreet, E. J. Menard, Bertha Hylton, Walter Pritchett, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Loran Joslin, R. D. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Pritchard, Virgie Haxton, J. H. Maguire, T. F. Cajir, Edith Shellian, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Ostot and Katherine Kingsbury.

RACE STARTED FOR P. O. JOB

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Floyd Arce of San Juan Capistrano has announced that he will be a candidate for postmaster here when the term of Marie Forster expires next June.

Notice of call for applications for the office were posted yesterday.

GARDEN GROVE CIRCLES MEET

GARDEN GROVE.—Sewing on articles to be sold as a benefit for the First Methodist church Ladies' Aid society treasury occupied attention of circle members at meetings this week at homes of members.

Circle No. 1 met at the home of Mrs. F. A. Monroe all day Thursday with Mrs. A. L. Schneider as co-hostess for the noon luncheon. It was voted to change the meeting date to the fourth Wednesday of each month. Mrs. G. R. Reyburn led devotion and Mrs. J. M. Chilson reported on an Aid conference held recently at Pasadena.

Others present were Mesdames Grover Ralston, G. W. Short, Maggie Mae Reed, Laura Gedney, Ralph Chaffee, Thurman Holt, Edward Chaffee, W. C. Showalter, B. Holliday, I. F. German and Emily Monroe.

Mrs. Amos Rogers entertained Circle No. 2 and also conducted devotion. Mrs. Percy Prior, conducted the business when plans for the general meeting in February were discussed. Refreshments were served.

Present were Mesdames E. P. Williams, Wesley Lamb, Robert McDonald, Fred Andersen, W. W. Dungan, Elmer Launders, J. C. Mitchell, Elmer Holt, E. F. Schneider, Will Schnitzer, C. Worthington, Charles Edwards, Harvey Newsom and two guests, Mrs. C. G. Hall and Mrs. Harriett Barnes.

Members of Circle No. 3 were guests of Mrs. Grover Ralston for their meeting Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. H. A. Lake presiding at the business session and Mrs. A. A. Schnitzer leading devotion. The hostess served refreshments.

Attending were Mesdames C. N. Franks, Frank Rogers, Felix Leitch, Mrs. Ethel March, S. C. Oertly, and two guests, Mrs. Bell Martin, Kansas, and Mrs. Alvina Austin, San Francisco.

MIDWAY CITY'S CLUB MEETS

MIDWAY CITY.—A short play by dramatics students from Huntington Beach High school and a review of poetry by Miss Cora Henderson from the beach school faculty featured a meeting of the Midway City Woman's club here Thursday afternoon.

Included in the program were solos by William Phillips, accompanied by Lydia Pryor; a discussion on current events by Stella Johnson, and the play, directed by Mrs. Edna Condon.

Presiding over tea tables during the social hour were Mrs. Chester Campbell, Mrs. E. L. Hensley and Mrs. Errol Cady.

Mrs. H. W. Robertson and Mrs. S. E. Davies attended a meeting of the Orange County Postmasters' association at Laguna Beach Thursday night.

BOWLERS PLAN LAGUNA VISIT

LAGUNA BEACH.—The local bowling club will be hosts next Tuesday to 14 British lawn bowlers, who are touring the United States. They will play both morning and afternoon.

According to William H. Saunders, president, the club will entertain the guests at a luncheon at Hotel Laguna.

Two Laguna teams are still in the running in the international tournament, where the finals will be played off next Saturday. Members of these teams include Mr. Saunders, L. F. Mallow, Grove Minter, C. C. Cravath, J. B. Andrews and Frank Marano.

RARE DOCUMENT OF MEXICAN RULE

It was in 1821, when Emperor Augustin Iturbide ruled Mexico and what is now Texas with an iron hand, that he signed the cabinet appointment which Mabel Rooks, Texas Centennial Exposition Rarette, holds. This script, and the many others in the famous collection of Dr. William E. Howard, of Dallas, will be on display when the exposition opens June 6.

AUXILIARIES OF LEGION HAVE MEETING AT ORANGE

ORANGE.—Representatives of the twenty-first district of the American Legion auxiliary, which includes Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, held a meeting at the American Legion hall here Friday, opening with round table discussions presided over by state and district chairmen.

A number of department of California officers, touring the state, were present, including the state president, Mrs. Ethel March, Upland; Mrs. Eunice Hughes, Chino, educational chairman; Mrs. Ethel M. Lewis, Fellows, state publicity chairman; Mrs. Florence Boyle, Oroville, state Americanization chairman, and Mrs. Lorena Good, Stockton, child welfare chairman.

In the various round tables, local chairmen met their department and state leaders, and discussed problems. Twenty-nine units of the district were represented, with a total attendance of approximately 175.

The Orange unit served a 12 o'clock luncheon, and the business meeting was held at the tables with Mrs. Marjorie Peabody, La Habra, district president, presiding. Mrs. Flora Fairbairn, president of the local unit, introduced greetings, and the two county council, Mrs. Grace Schuab, Huntington Beach, and Mrs. Marjorie Wingate, president of Riverside and San Bernardino councils, were introduced.

Mrs. Peabody, the district president, then made an award of a prize to Orange county for winning a membership contest over the other two counties in the district. In the period between Jan. 10 and 24, 110 new members were gained, she said. The district commander of the American Legion, Ben Lieberman, Santa Ana, was a special guest, and gave a short talk, blaming the American Legion, and perhaps the auxiliary for a lack of friendliness, especially to strangers. He announced a district meeting of the American Legion in Anaheim, Sunday.

Reports of district chairmen were given by Mrs. Elsie Carpenter, San Bernardino, on disaster relief; Mrs. Ruth Jellis, Santa Ana, district drill team captain; Mrs. Marie Kennedy, Seal Beach, district secretary and publicity chairman; Mrs. Martha Black, San Gabriel, Americanization; Mrs. Pearl Maher, Colton, community service; Mrs. Arthur Ecklund, Santa Ana, rehabilitation; Mrs. Irene Ware, Corona, "National Bulletin"; Mrs. Viona Burdick, Fullerton, poppy chairman; Mrs. Marjorie Danielson, Redlands, child welfare; Mrs. Stella Mumford, La Habra, chaplain; Mrs. Gertrude Ehrlie, Tustin, legislative chairman; Mrs. Yurarda Akerman, Anaheim, national defense; Mrs. Dorothy Jewell, Corona, girls club; Mrs. Grace Schuab, San Bernardino, radio; Mrs. Florence Smith, Anaheim, member of the financial board; Mrs. Clara Noble, Riverside, historian; Mrs. Bessie Pullen, Corona Del Mar, cooperative sales, and Mrs. Beatrice Spencer, Riverside, national news.

FOUR SPEAKERS CHURCH RITES ANNOUNCED UNITE PAIR

LAGUNA BEACH.—During February three well-known men of Southern California and a well-known educational leader from the University of California at Berkeley will give a series of four talks on successive Sunday mornings at the Community Presbyterian church here.

The first of the series begins Feb. 2, when S. C. Hartnaff of Anaheim will speak on "The Constitution of the United States."

A. E. Isham, manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors of Redlands, and an authority on the life of Abraham Lincoln, is scheduled to talk Feb. 9. His subject is "The Greatest of the Americans."

J. Frank Burke, former editor and publisher of Santa Ana, will interpret the life of George Washington on Feb. 16.

Dr. Merton E. Hill of the University of California will speak on "Education and the State: What Is the Goal?" on Feb. 23.

GROUP TO SEE TELEVISION

PLACENTIA.—LeRoy Leishman, television expert, will address members of the Pioneer Men's brotherhood and give actual demonstrations of television at a meeting to be held in the Bradford school cafeteria here Tuesday evening. It has been announced by Howard Hawkins, secretary.

The program will also include numbers by the brotherhood band. It has been announced. Supper will be served at 6:30 p. m.

The origin of the ancient game of knucklebones, or jackstones, is closely connected with that of dice, of which it is probably a primitive form, and is doubtless Asiatic.

CURTAILMENT OF OIL IS PLANNED

H. B. Operators Agree to Program on Promise of Price Raise

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Huntington Beach operators have agreed to curtail production in conformity to the state-wide program.

At a meeting held yesterday in Memorial hall, called by Bob Garrison, chairman of the Huntington Beach field committee, this action was taken.

J. H. Pemberton, former oil umpire of Los Angeles and William Gies, Long Beach, former member of the central pro-rating committee, explained the state program to the assembled operators.

The speakers explained that major oil purchasing companies have agreed to increase their posted offered price of oil at the well 20 per cent if in return operators would curtail their production 22 per cent.

After some discussion by operators, this action was unanimously agreed upon. The curtailment is expected to go into effect Monday.

PLAN BENEFIT FOR CHILDREN

NEWPORT BEACH.—A President's party to raise funds for benefit of crippled children will be given at the elementary school here next Thursday evening. Several civic organizations in the harbor area are uniting in making plans to make the affair a social and financial success.

Cards and other games will be played and the new school may be inspected by visitors. Refreshments will be served following games.

At a meeting held in the chamber of commerce Thursday, Mrs. Nella Norton was named general chairman and Mrs. J. R. McClure, secretary. In charge of ticket sales are Mrs. Irvin George Gordon, Mrs. Hugh Marshall, Mrs. Claude Pullen, Mrs. E. Bouton, Harold Grauel and Miss Ann Beggar.

A committee in charge of prizes will be Mrs. L. B. Bevier, Mrs. Hugh Marshall, Mrs. J. H. Summers, Gus Tamplins and S. A. Meyer. Harold Grauel, J. D. Watkins and Al Dyckman are in charge of the chapter learned at the meeting. He will be assisted by Mrs. Roland Hodgkinson and Clarence Reed.

Reception committee includes Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Te Winkle, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Grundy and Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Huston.

EASTERN STAR RITE PLANNED

GARDEN GROVE.—Initiation will be exemplified by the Garden Grove chapter, Eastern Star, when the worthy grand matron, Bertie Y. Todd of San Luis Obispo makes her official visit to four chapters in the 57th district Feb. 3, members of the chapter learned at the regular meeting held Thursday evening in the Anaheim K. P. hall.

Hermosa chapter, Santa Ana, will be hostess for the official visit. Orange and Santa Ana chapters are the other two chapters to be visited.

An honored visitor at Thursday evening's meeting was the deputy grand matron of the district, Mrs. meeting of the Star club Monday Jeannette Tarpley, Santa Ana. A afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Lynch was announced.

Refreshments were served by the Mesdames Dorothy Jentges, Lucille Walker and Lida Mitchell.

FIRE SERVICE PLANS TOLD

YORBA LINDA.—Possibility of establishment of a state forestry headquarters for the northern section of the county here was indicated this week when members of the elementary school board acted to lease six lots to the state division.

Definite acceptance of the lease is expected by next month, it was reported. State Forester Joe Scherman said that the project should cost in the neighborhood of $6000 and will include barracks for fire-fighters.

Farm Center Meetings

MONDAY
La Habra Farm center, 7:30 p. m., in Lincoln school. Speakers: C. Jack Zinn, on "Spring Soil Problems," Ray Marsh, "Fertilizer Experiment on Fuerte Avocadoes."

Toby White Begins Defense of City Men's Singles Crown Sunday

Column Left

Wrestling Riots

Brushing up the choice crumb in the sports department: Veteran Tom Cox, the state athletic commissioner's representative at the local arena, brings the report that riots and wrestling are running hand in hand these days. Besides the local outburst, police had to be called in this past week at Long Beach, San Diego, San Bernardino and Ventura. Chief Chewaki, the gypsy, who has allegedly sworn vengeance upon all white men, had led in at least three of the insurrections.

The other day, Chewaki was arrested in San Diego for trying to choke Gino Garibaldi with a wire. Yesterday, Tom tells me, Chewaki was definitely suspended.

The trouble got so hot in San Bernardino that one customer went to the extent of sticking a knife in Garibaldi's leg.

While not promising any riots—he doesn't like em, particularly—Promoter Sam Sampson offers a spine-tickler for this Monday night's show.

Sander Szabo, who was in the midst of all the ruckus here last week with Dick Davis, will be on the card against Bill Sledge, the tempered Dick boy. Davis returns to face a villain that is nearly as dirty as he is, Herb Freeman, giant Jewish mame. Dick and Sander are booked for a later meeting here.

This Sledge guy is something to watch. He is definitely being groomed for top billing at the Los Angeles Olympic—which is equal to getting a bid to the White House so far as wrestlers are concerned.

A couple of the amateur boxers had to be tossed out of the ring last night for lack of action. Both were colored and when they started pulling and missing their punches the crowd grew impatient. Commissioner Tom Cox flashed the signal to referee Frankie Dolan to oust 'em. Afterward in the dressing room Cox drove home a point that we hadn't thought of before. "People expect too much of two colored boys," he observed. "They want 'em to kill each other and they simply won't stand for anything less. Of course these two boys were friends and hadn't expected to fight each other tonight." In all respect to the boys, we beg to report that at least one of them—Henry Lowe—only can but does fight.

Side glances: Lupe Cordoza reading The Journal during the fights last night... and getting a big cheer when it was announced he would appear next week... Henry Waterberg, San Juan Capistrano youngster of promise, shyly taking a bow, probably his first... Referee Frankie Dolan with several weeks of whippersnappers in his chain. Silver-haired Jimmie Heffron, dean of Orange county sport writers, at once dubbed him "Little Man Mountain"... Heffron reporting that except for some architectural diddle-daddie, nothing constructive has been done on Anaheim's new sports park... But adding that once the red tape is cut, action will be swift... And then adding a touch of spring to the chilly air by decrying baseball as played by Hollywood last spring at Fullerton and hoping they won't give us more of the same this year.

NINES COMPETE AT ANAHEIM

Glad in new suits, Manager Floyd Gibson's former Petrol Gas baseball artists, now representing Pete Lehr's Service of Anaheim, make a 2-15 appearance on the Anaheim High school diamond tomorrow against the U. S. C. Tuscumbia nine.

Gordon Mallett, ex-Santa Ana High school flogger, or "Speed" Peters, will be sent moundward, Gibson said. Salisbury will catch.

ALHAMBRA FAILS TO KEEP DATE WITH WOOLEN MILLERS

Representatives of the Woolen Mills' aggregation were puzzled today as to why the Alhambra Athletic clubmen failed to keep a basketball engagement with the Santa Ana five here last night.

Quentin Matzen's cagers have a busy schedule in front of them next week. They tackle Shell Oil Tuesday night to determine which of the two goes into a two-out-of-three game series with Scottie's maulers for the Commercial league crown. Scottie's will play a 7 o'clock preliminary with the San Pedro Medak Service. Alhambra comes here next Friday night for a Southern California Y. M. C. A. league game with the Woolen Mills.

WELSH BEATS DANO
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25. (AP)—Bald-headed Dick Welsh, young New York featherweight, left-jabbed his way to a 10-round decision over Pablo Dano, Filipino veteran, last night.

CHURCH 'ESCAPES' TRACK

CHELMSFORD RACECOURSE in England, probably the only track that encircles a church, is to lose this unique feature. Shortening of the track means horses no longer will disappear behind the church and that communicants will not have to cross the track on their way to worship.

Santa Ana Journal SPORTS

SANTA ANA, ORANGE COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JANUARY 25, 1936

SAINT CAGERS DROP 25-24 THRILLER

NETMEN HOLD TOURNAMENT AT WILLARD

Wetherell, Wiemer And Peacock Are Among 1936 Favorites

Champion Toby White, in great competitive form as evidenced by his defeat of Stanford's "Chuck" Otis at Pasadena last week, begins the defense of his Santa Ana city men's singles crown tomorrow.

The 1936 championships, sponsored by the Santa Ana Tennis club, officially open today with a match between L. W. Slaback and Marvin Jacobs. The regular first-round schedule, however, will be completed on the Frances Willard Junior High school courts, beginning at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

White is favored to win handily in the first round from Bob Mize at 11 a. m. His keenest competition is expected from Lewis Wetherell, former champ. Fred Wiemer and Bobby Peacock.

The tournament will be concluded on the Willard grounds Feb. 2, with the Tennis clubmen then directing future attention to matches with the University of Redlands and the Tennis club of Pomona.

The first-round schedule follows:

9 a. m.—K. Perrin vs. C. Aubrey, M. Hallman vs. F. Bettis, R. Peacock vs. M. Griset.

10 a. m.—K. Ranney vs. H. Lewis, F. Wiemer vs. G. Brandt, L. Wetherell vs. G. Hunter.

11 a. m.—T. White vs. R. Mize.

Today—M. Jacobs vs. L. W. Slaback.

BEARS TUMBLE BRUIN FIVE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—The basketball battle of the California enters its second phase tonight with the Berkeley Bears holding their first coast conference victory, 35 to 33, at the expense of the Los Angeles Bruins.

Ahead most of the game, California saw its lead wiped out in the closing minutes when John Ball, U. C. L. A. center, knotted the count at 31-31.

Dona Ashen, Bruin guard, then sank a long mid-court throw to put his team ahead. Red Russell, substitute Bear guard, came back to tie the score again with a shot from under the basket and provided the victory margin a few seconds later with a toss from the foul line.

Russell, with 11 points, took high-scoring honors, with Ball and Chet Freeze, forward, following him with nine apiece. Bob Herwig, Bear guard, was the only player to leave the game on personal fouls. The Bruins trailed at half time, 16 to 13.

20,000 TO SEE PROS BATTLE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—Verbal rumblings from rival professional football camps today heralded the post-season clash of the Detroit Lions and the Green Bay Packers here tomorrow.

Demand for tickets indicated a crowd of around 20,000 will fill Gilmore stadium for the game.

The national champion Detroit outfit whipped all-star teams in two appearances here this month, and grabbed a firm hold on the local fancy.

The record of the Packers, which includes a two-out-of-three decision over the Lions in games played during the regular season, is highly respected, however.

The Lions have the great "Dutch" Clark, former All-American from Colorado college, as their mainstay in the backfield, while the Packers boast a passing combination of Arnold Herber-to-Don Hutson in the scoring attack.

Casaba Scores
(By the Associated Press)
California, 35; University of California at Los Angeles, 23.
Washington, 36; Oregon, 28.
Stanford, 32; Southern California, 25.
Oregon State, 22; Idaho, 21.
Greeley State, 58; Colorado State, 31.
Utah Aggies, 74; Montana State, 37.
Wyoming, 41; Colorado, 29.

Huntington Beach, Tustin And Anaheim Quintets Win

ORANGE CLUB BEATS BREA 17 TO 16

ORANGE COUNTY PREP LEAGUE

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Tustin	2	0	1.000
Huntington Beach	2	0	1.000
Anaheim	2	0	1.000
San Juan Capistrano	2	0	1.000
Orange	1	1	.500
Garden Grove	1	1	.500
Newport Harbor	0	2	.000
Valencia	0	2	.000
Brea-Olinda	0	2	.000
Laguna Beach	0	2	.000

Results Last Night
Tustin, 34; Valencia, 31.
Orange, 17; Brea-Olinda, 16.
Huntington Beach, 51; Newport Harbor, 17.
Anaheim, 69; Garden Grove, 37.
San Juan Capistrano, 52; Laguna Beach, 15.

Nothing had happened today to change the popular opinion that Huntington Beach, Anaheim, Tustin and San Juan Capistrano will reign as the "Big Four" of Orange County Prep league basketball this season.

Scorekeepers of the 10-school conference were given a spirited workout last night, as Huntington Beach trampled Newport Harbor, 51 to 17; Anaheim wrecked Garden Grove, 69 to 37; and San Juan Capistrano's Cougars engineered a 52 to 15 victory over Laguna Beach.

Only real battles of the second round developed at Brea, where Donald Struck's last-minute field goal ushered Orange's Panthers to a 17-16 victory; and at Tustin, where the Tillers were given a scare while beating Valencia, 34 to 31.

The prep race reaches the sizzling point next Friday when Tustin invades Anaheim for a "natural." The other favorites, Huntington Beach and San Juan Capistrano, draw particularly easy assignments with Laguna Beach and Newport Harbor, respectively.

The Francis brother act, staged by Paul and Sammy, was a few scenes too long for Clarence (Bish) Bishop's Valentines. Tustin's champion called on these two hot-shots for 22 of their 34 points. Little Paul is using to advantage on the court the same speed he displayed at quarterback in football. He outpointed his taller brother, 13 to 9, last night. Both went the entire route of 32 minutes.

Tustin's inability to sink foul shots annoyed the Tillers' successful coach, Bill Cole. He saw his crack quintet miss eight of 14 charity throws. Awarded eight fouls, Valencia cashed in on five for a superior average.

The lineups:
Tustin (34) Pos. (31) Valencia
Francis (13) F. (6) Ringel
Bishop (12) F. (9) Skinner
Baker (20) C. (6) Hargrove
DeVillibus (2) G. (4) Valero
W. Linker (1) G. (9) Jones

Score by Quarters
Tustin—Valencia
13 7 4 10—34
Valencia—Tustin
10 8 7 6—31

Substitutions
Tustin—V. Linker (2).
Valencia—Parker.

Anaheim (69) Pos. (37) Grdn. Grove
Ruiz (25) F. (11) Vuleich
Best (19) F. (9) Skinner
Baker (20) C. (6) Hargrove
DeVillibus (2) G. (4) Valero
Dougan (8) G. (9) Jones

Substitutions
Anahem—Nunez, Morales, Schwartz (2), Morris (2), Ortiz, Wagner, Paul (3), Grove, Davine (2), Fritcher (7), Nida (6), Reynolds.

Hunt. Bch. (51) Pos. (17) Newport
Smith (9) F. (6) Langley
Burry (14) F. (6) Griffin
Scott (15) C. (2) Billington
Hunt (4) G. (4) Foster
Graham (4) G. (4) Myrfin

Substitutions
Huntington Beach—Dean (2).
Newport Harbor—Irwin (7).

Orange (17) Pos. (16) Brea-Olinda
Neal (5) F. (3) Johnson
Smith (8) F. (4) Baker
A. Struck (1) C. (5) Robinson
Paul (3) G. (4) Laing
Herrington G. Anderson

Substitutions
Orange—D. Struck (2) for Herrington.
Brea-Olinda—Miller for Robinson.
Capistrano (52) Pos. (15) Laguna
Reeder (1) F. (2) Robins
Porter (16) C. (5) Harris
Paul (3) G. (4) Walker
Belasquez (9) G. (4) Saunders

Substitutions
San Juan Capistrano—Sexton and Henry.
Laguna Beach—Nosler, Tawney, Jay (2), Lawrence.
Class B score—Laguna, 28; Capistrano, 18; Class C—Capistrano, 22; Laguna, 7.

BAER PLAYS AT MAT GAME

An offer of $25,000 was made Max Baer, former heavyweight boxing champion, to take up the wrestling game. The idea seemed so good for awhile to Maxie (left) that he tried out a few holds with Nick Lutze, grappler from Venice, Calif. But Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, threw cold water on the scheme. (Associated Press Photo)

AL REBOIN'S RUGBY SQUAD SHOWS CLASS IN DEFEAT

Prediction: Santa Ana will be rugby-minded within three weeks. Greeted by a small but enthusiastic audience at the Municipal bowl last night, Alvin Reboin's Dons showed tremendous promise in the English game while extending the more experienced Pasadena Athletic clubmen, 8 to 0.

It was the first venture for the Santa Ana Junior collegians, and most everyone expected them to receive a drubbing by 20 or more points. That the Dons were able to limit the visitors to a pair of touchdowns (tries) and a conversion brought satisfaction to Player-coach Reboin.

Kuhn and Preininger
Gil Kuhn, Placentia, captain-elect of the U. S. C. Trojans in football, and teammate Joe Preininger of Santa Ana, both good ruggerers, were in the stands.

The Dons looked as formidable as some of the university teams, and performed amazingly well for having only six organized drills behind them.

Inexperience led to unnecessary dribbling in the first round of the opening minute but the should have been passing or running with the ball on several occasions, but the Dons soon will overcome this fault, Reboin believes. He looks for marked improvement in games with Santa Monica here next Friday and the Spoiler Athletic club Feb. 7.

Speedy Major Anderson, right wing, almost scored for the Dons late in the second half, but lost possession of the elusive ball just before crossing the Pasadena goal.

Fred Lentz made a spirited dash into deep Pasadena territory in the first half. . . . Reboin, star of the 1935 Trojans, easily was the outstanding rugger on the field. . . . His alert play and the star of position was a great aid in keeping the score down. . . . Al Lamb fumbled the ball consistently in the first half, but the sturdy ex-Saint played more steadily in the final 30-minute session.

Most of the Dons were willing to admit in the dressing rooms that they had all the workout they wanted for one evening.

Visitors Score Twice
Pasadena's first score resulted from a try (touchdown in football) when the ball rolled over the Santa Ana goal and a Pasadena player kicked it for three points. The conversion kick, which would have added two points if good, was wide. The visitors' other score came in the last few minutes when they rushed the ball over for a try, and converted from the 25-yard line with a place-kick that just did clear the south uprights.

LUPE LE MON OUTPUNCHES COLLINS

Sherman Indians Take Four of Seven Bouts on Local Card

By FRANK ROGERS
Journal Sports Editor

Fullerton's hefty Lupe Le Mon, 15-pound amateur fighting horse, fought farther up the ladder in his projected return to the first tops today as the result of a four-round decision over Eddie Collins, colorful Sherman institute lad, at the Orange County Athletic arena last night.

Headlining a show in which the active redskins copped four of the seven bouts in which they participated, Le Mon slugged away rather impressively to beat down Collins and lacked only a knock-out punch to make his workout complete. Collins staved off a more inglorious defeat by some ringwise tactics which made him look good, yet added impressiveness to Le Mon's victory.

Best of the invading Americans was Ray Vanzuela who dropped a "booted" decision to Wild Bill White, rugged San Bernardino lad, in the semi-final. White was virtually worn out at the end of the second round and how he stumbled through the next two frames to impress Referee Frankie Dolan that he had earned an edge mystified most of the ringsters.

Much Class
Valenzuela had loads of class, made his only mistake by not cashing in on it. He had a nice punch, straight and hard and plenty of stamina, breezing through the entire distance without a pant. White pulled up in the third and carried the fight to the Indian in the fourth but made few telling contacts with Vanzuela. Vanzuela got all the cheers when Dolan raised White's hand.

Clyde Lewis far outclassed Larry Ledford, another shop-worn San Bernardino lad who couldn't stand the fancy pace set by the Indian. Lewis was another Sherman boy.

Merced Beaten
Placentia's game little Jimmy Merced had trouble getting inside the long arms of Leslie Oliver, Indian despite his name. Oliver earned the decision Dolan handed him despite hefty boos from the galleries.

Art Johnson and Henry Lowe were ordered out of the ring in the third round after they failed to show much action. Both boys were Negroes and few all-out-bouts are crowd pleasers, so when the boys began to pull and miss their punches Commissioner Tom Cox gave the signal for the third man to dismiss them.

San Bernardino's Ray Vallardy went down three times in the first round of the opening minute but the towel came floating in. Surviving eight and nine count trips to the floor, Vallardy gamely got up for a third time under the assault of Sherman institute's Tony Costello.

Ken Halladay, Santa Ana, out-punched Emil Fremil, green Sherman 145-pounder, in the opener. Halladay, although not top shape, showed some power.

TORCH RELAY

A 480-MILE torch relay will be part of the national games to be held at Adelaide, South Australia, January 25-February 1 in connection with a centenary celebration. Twenty runners will take part in the race which is expected to last five days.

Stanford Knocks Trojan Quintet By 32 to 25 Score

PALO ALTO, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Trojans of University of Southern California, their undisputed conference lead smashed last night by Stanford's Indians, plan a comeback tonight to regain lost honors in the second of a two-game basketball series here.

Although high-scoring Angelo "Hank" Luisetti was held to his season's new low of eight points, the Indians went through U. S. C.'s famous man-for-man defense like water through a sieve and had little trouble pulling away in the second period to tack up a 32 to 25 victory.

S. D. HILLERS DOWN L. B. QUINTET

Alhambra Beats Santa Ana in Three-Minute Overtime Period

COAST PREPARATORY LEAGUE

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
San Diego	4	1	.800
Alhambra	3	2	.600
Long Beach	2	2	.500
Santa Ana	0	5	.000

Results Last Night
Alhambra, 25; Santa Ana 24 (overtime).
San Diego, 29; Long Beach, 25.

By PAUL WRIGHT
Life is just one bitter disappointment after another for Santa Ana High school's luckless basketball varsity.

Undaunted by four successive defeats, Reece (Pinkie) Greene's Saints displayed a dazzling reversal of form only to lose a heart-breaker to Alhambra's mountainous Moors, 25 to 24, in a three-minute overtime session at Alhambra last night.

San Diego Wins
San Diego's Greycastles came through with a 29-25 win over Long Beach in a thriller at San Diego, and virtually clinched the Coast Preparatory league flag.

Mike Morrow's southerners can win the title outright by beating Santa Ana here next Friday night, and even an upset by the surprising Saints would give San Diego at least a tie for the crown with Long Beach or Alhambra.

One of Sammy Lockhart's field goals in the last few seconds of play threw Santa Ana into a sensational deadlock with Alhambra, 23 to 23. Going into the extra three-minute period, Jack Stetson, 6.5 center of the Moors, flipped in a field goal, and Santa Ana's Larry Tway sank a foul shot to make the final count 25-25.

Ed Eastham and Lockhart scored the most points, seven and eight, but Merle Morris, reserve forward, and Co-Captains Erwin Yonel, forward, and Bill Flood, guard, were at their best. If the Saints show as much class here next Friday night, they may upset San Diego's potential champions who buried Santa Ana, 40-18, in a recent game down south.

Clyde Cook's Saint lightweights put up a stiff battle, but lost the curtain-raiser to Alhambra, 20-13.

San Bernardino Next
The Santa Ana varsity plays San Bernardino in the Citrus Belt league in a practice encounter at San Bernardino Wednesday afternoon.

VARSIITY
Alhambra (25) Pos. (24) Santa Ana
Barro (10) F. (3) Morris
Hillary (2) F. (2) Yonel
Stetson (10) C. (7) E. Eastham
Flak (8) G. (8) Lockhart
Denmon (4) G. (3) Flood

Score by Quarters
Alhambra—Santa Ana
6 8 6 3 *2-25
Santa Ana—Alhambra
6 7 4 6 *1-24
*Overtime.

Substitutions
Alhambra—Cameron (1), Wooley, J. Barrington.
Santa Ana—Mulligan, Tway (1).

CLASS B
Alhambra (20) Pos. (13) Santa Ana
Newley (2) F. (1) Partida
Magginnetti (10) F. (4) Mercado
Laird (2) C. (6) Gabe
Wilson (5) G. (1) Webb
Hayward (1) G. (1) Hawkins

Score by Quarters
Alhambra—Santa Ana
8 6 3 2-20
Santa Ana—Alhambra
6 5 4 4-13

Substitutions
Alhambra—Briston, Goodrich, Rice, Elliott.
Santa Ana—Dresser (2), Bates, Cooper, Pagenkopp, Nitta (4), Tucker, Barret, Miller.

Class C
Paterson (28) Pos. (25) Long Beach
Paterson (8) F. (7) Wood
Mallory (1) F. (6) Gabe
Fisher, J. Chaffey
Hend (1) C. (4) Romano
Randolph (11) G. (2) Hoffman
Lee (4) G. (3) Moffitt

Substitutions
San Diego—Preiler (3).
Long Beach—Brewster (4).

Fair Olympic Tryouts Promised

(By the Associated Press)
America's athletes will be picked for participation in the 1936 Olympics in the same manner as in past year. Such things as former records, and even the holding of world marks, won't mean a thing in the eyes of the American Olympic committee when the nation's track and field stars compete next summer for places on the team that will go to Berlin.

Before sailing last night for Germany and the winter Olympics Avery Brundage, chairman of the committee, frowned upon suggestions that such outstanding stars as Glenn Cunningham, Bill Bonjourn, Jesse Owens, Ben Eastman, Jack Torrance and Keith Brown be awarded places on the team on the basis of their past performances. That proposal already has been discarded by the committee in the interests of absolute fairness, Brundage revealed.

"There's some argument in favor of such procedure," he said, "but it would only lead to more trouble. Where could we draw the line if we attempted to be arbitrary about the selections? We would be charged with favoritism, in the first place. If some of the stars we picked in advance failed to come through in the Olympics we would never hear the last of it."

"The only fair thing we can do is conduct the tryouts, as formerly, with the Olympic selections based on actual performances in the field. Some instances may justify giving a star to more than one athlete, if a close decision or extenuating circumstances are involved. We want to send over the best possible team. But we can't and won't play favorites. There's too much dynamite in that."

Brundage also predicted that the committee would be able to finance full American participation in the summer games. Since it was definitely decided to support the Olympics, there has been a good response to appeals for financial support, in some cases from "sources not anticipated," and the committee is going ahead with plans to have the United States represented by the maximum number of the figure skaters, track and field event as well as in all the other major events.

Sailing on the Bremen with Brundage were Gustavus T. Kirby, the treasurer, and Dietrich Wortmann, a member of the Olympic committee, three members of the figure skating team, Estelle and Louise Weigel of Buffalo and Audrey Peppe of New York, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Weigel, and Beatrice Loughran, Miss Peppe's aunt and a former Olympic figure skater. The last two members of the figure skating team, Grace and Lester Madson of Boston, are not due to sail until next week.

VOL. 1, NO. 228

SANTA ANA, ORANGE COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JANUARY 25, 1936

2 CENTS PER COPY, 50 CENTS PER MONTH

NEWHOPE BONDHOLDERS MUST SETTLE FOR 62 CENTS ON DOLLAR

JUDGE RULES
ADJUSTMENT
IS LEGALNew Issue Through RFC
Approved; No Loss
to Be Suffered

Bondholders in the Newhope Drainage district, comprising 3560 acres west of the Santa Ana river between Garden Grove avenue and Smelter road, will discount their bonds at 62½ cents on the dollar, according to a judgment handed down by Federal Judge Leon Yankwich in Los Angeles yesterday.

The district has moved to discount a $160,000 improvement bond issue floated in 1933, through a $101,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan, and due to protests of some bondholders was forced to petition in the federal courts to seek relief and have its debts adjusted.

Following requests to the RFC for the refinancing loan, which were granted, 76 per cent of the bondholders of the district agreed to the settlement. Attorney M. B. Wellington stated today. The suit for relief went before Judge Yankwich on Monday and Tuesday of this week, and the decree was handed down yesterday afternoon.

Bondholders will suffer no actual loss through the adjustment. Mr. Wellington said, as bonds were selling on the market previous to the court action at less than 62½ per cent at which they now will be retired.

The new issue through the RFC will run for 40 years at 4 per cent. Payments of interest and principal on this basis will be less than payments on interest alone were under the previous arrangement, it was said.

The firm of Head, Wellington and Jacobs acted as attorneys for the district. Crenshaw, Diehl and Wright were accountants for the transaction.

Officers of the district include B. F. Crutchfield, Santa Ana, president; J. E. Brown, Garden Grove, and William Lehnhardt, Santa Ana, directors.

STRUCK BY CAR

Jim Norton, 528 East Washington avenue, Santa Ana, suffered minor injuries at 2 p. m. yesterday when he stepped from behind his car into the path of a machine driven by Anna Julia Goeman, 17, of Route 4 box 401, Santa Ana. The accident occurred on Bristol street near Delhi road.

S. A. High School
Teachers Harvest
'Red Apples'

Two of Santa Ana High school's new teachers this semester are getting their supply of proverbial "red apples" early in their career.

Last week, Val Jean McCoy, civics teacher, was rewarded for his means about the high price of pork by being presented a pound of bacon. When "The Generator," high school weekly, announced that the teacher was interested in a car, also, two of his students, Betty West and Helen Holmes, present him with one—three inches long and one inch high.

Mr. McCoy's only regret was that it had no horn.

John Swarthout, new debate coach, was not to be neglected, either. Following a recent debate at Venice, several members of the squad procured a Popeye doll which they autographed and presented their coach.

HORSE RACING
AT SANTA ANITA PARK

FOR AN ENJOYABLE
WEEK-END OUTING of rest or recreation try the world-famous Tavern at mile-high

Mt. Lowe
$1.50

Only... Roundtrip
From Los Angeles
$1.25 from Pasadena convenient trains daily.
Special All-Expense Overnight Tickets at low rates.

DAILY (Except Sundays) TILL FEB. 29

The big racing plant at Arcadia... more beautiful this season than ever... features the turf's fastest thoroughbreds, richest stakes, pari-mutuel betting, thrills and exciting entertainment.

Ride the BIG RED CARS

Enjoy the fast, convenient and comfortable Red Car Service to the main entrance—no traffic hazards—no delays—no parking fees. For schedules, fares, etc., ask your agent or conductor.

E. T. BATTEY, Agent Phone 27

PACIFIC ELECTRIC RAILWAY

Hail to Haggis, Ambrosia
Of Scotchmen; Feature of Burns Dinner Here Tonight

Hail to the Majestic Haggis, the Scotchman's ambrosia, most perfect and delightful food on his national menu! Cooked in a sheep's stomach.

Hail to Bobby Burns, most beloved of Scotch poets, who referred to haggis as "chief of the puddin' race."

Tonight they will both be honored at the annual Burns dinner to be staged at 6:15 o'clock in Veterans' hall by the Burns Federation of Orange County and the Canadian Legion.

His Majesty the Haggis will be read by Alex Walker of Fullerton, president of the federation.

Cooked in Sheep's Stomach
This latter gesture will be made to honor His Majesty the Haggis and make him feel good about the fact he is about to be devoured.

Cooked in a sheep's stomach, haggis is pudding. It is made of sheep heart and liver, with onions, suet and oatmeal, the cook books say. True Scotchmen talk of haggis with knowing looks that suggest there is more to it than that.

They seem to say that if you don't know about haggis, well, you just don't know, that's all.

Bobby Burns' birthday. He was born 140 years ago today in a little Scotch home called a "but and a ben"—kitchen and bedroom, or bedroom and kitchen, if it sounds better.

Clan Gathers Tonight
The clan will gather tonight to honor him. Mr. Walker will be toastmaster at the dinner program. The Rev. Graham Hunter of Fullerton will say grace.

Enter His Majesty the Haggis, with a procession led by a Scotch piper. The address to Haggis, by Mr. Walker, Burns' address.

Then the dinner, to be followed by "wee black."

James Watkins, commander of post 42, Canadian Legion, will give the toast to the president. Van Leonard Brown, commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war, will give the toast to the king.

The toast to the lassies will be given by James Tuffree. Mrs. Mathison, president of the Ladies' auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, will reply with the toast to the laddies. The toast to the immortal memory will be given by John Brand.

Here's the Program
The program itself follows:
The Star of Robbie Burns.....
Afton Water..... Jenny Dixon
(Accompanied by Mrs. Churchill)

Highland Dance..... Catherine Mathison, Barbara Oliphant
My Love Is Like a Red, Red Rose..... Mr. John Patterson (Accompanied by Mrs. Patterson)

Comic Song (Scotch)..... T. M. Sutherland
INTERMISSION
Bag Pipe Selection, Agnes Wallace
To Mary in Heaven..... John Patterson
The Auld Scotch Songs..... Jenny Dixon
Highland Dance..... Catherine Mathison, Barbara Oliphant
Comic Song (Scotch)..... T. M. Sutherland

Dark Lochnegar..... Robert Brown
Auld Lang Syne..... Sung by All
Going home. Hail to Bobby Burns! Hail to His Majesty the Haggis!

What's all this talk about Bobby Burns being a drunkard?
They'll honor the famous Scotch bard tonight at the annual dinner given by the Burns Federation and the Canadian Legion in Veterans' hall here. But would they do that for a drunkard?

It's the time the croneous legends about Bobby Burns' supposed inebriety were laid to rest, according to Alex Walker, president of the Burns Federation of Orange County.

The myth apparently was popularized in Currie's "Works of Robert Burns," but when Alexander Peterkin, Edinburgh lawyer and writer, published a reprint of Currie's first edition in 1815, he vigorously denied the charges.

"The caricatures which we have been contemplating have no closer resemblance to Burns than a monkey has to a man, or than the most worthless have to the worthiest of our species," he wrote.

37 When He Died
James Gray, fellow member with Burns in the Royal Dumfries Volunteers, said of him in 1814: "As I knew Burns during that period of his life emphatically dominated by evil days, I am enabled to speak from my own observation. He was not an habitual drunkard."

Burns died July 21, 1796, at the age of 37. In recent years two outstanding physicians have examined records and Burns' own letters telling of his health difficulties and have been able to get a fairly complete clinical history.

Mr. Walker said, Sir James Crichton-Browne of Dumfries and Dr. Harry B. Anderson of Toronto, found it was not alcoholism that caused death. Both said it was rheumatism with heart complications that brought the end. This came about manifested itself early in life.

What Hogg Says
James Hogg, in his biography of Burns, says, "Burns has, by the greater part of his biographers, been accused of inveterate dissipation and drunkenness. 'Non-sense!' Burns was no more a drunkard than I am; nay, I could take a bet that, on the average, I drink double of what he did; and yet I am acknowledged, both in Scotland and in England, as a most temperate and cautious man; and so I am."

The Hon. J. S. Henderson, president of the Calcutta Burns club in 1934, delivered a speech at its anniversary meeting in which he said, "We know that up to within a few weeks of his death Burns was working hard and the wonder is that at night he was not too exhausted to sit down and write the songs and rhymes, which in spite of his work, had occupied much of his thought during the day. Obviously he had so little time to spare from his guaging that his marvelous literary output is proof that few of his evenings could have been spent in the manner which is so often ascribed to him."

BEAUTY PRIZE
TO FEATURE
BALL HEREPeace Officers Stage
Annual Dance; Trophy
Awaits Winner

A bevy of Orange county's most beautiful girls will be on parade tonight, when the Orange County Peace Officers' association stages its annual ball at the Valencia ballroom on highway 101 north of Santa Ana. One of their number will be chosen "Miss Orange County" and presented with a beautiful silver loving cup.

Dorothy Jarvis, featured Paramount actress, has been conferring with Lee Mann, acting manager of the beauty contest committee, and has selected the girls who will appear tonight. They were chosen from a long list of entries, and will be judged tonight by Miss Jarvis and W. H. Lollier, representative of Fox-West Coast theaters.

Another feature of the benefit ball, which is staged each year to raise funds for the purchase of insurance policies for the 130 peace officers who are members of the association, will be a dancing contest. Cash prizes and valuable premiums will be awarded the winners. Mr. Mann also has announced that a varied assortment of door prizes will be awarded as the result of contributions made by Orange county merchants.

Music will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

Musicians will be provided by one of Hollywood's favorite orchestras, Sunny Brooks and his Twelve Musical Notes. The orchestra will assist in presenting a floor show which will feature Los Angeles and Hollywood professional entertainers. Peace officers of the county have tickets for sale.

PROBE DUE IN SCOTTSBORO
SHOOTINGSConvicted Negroes Shot
After Attempting to Break Away

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 25. (AP)—Two investigators of the highway battle between two Scottsboro case Negroes and two officers were started today as one Negro lay gravely wounded in a hospital here and a sheriff charged "white persons" were responsible for the fight.

Morgan county authorities, headed by Sheriff J. Street Sandlin, who made the charge that "Negroes didn't plan the attack on us," sought persons who might have advised Ozie Powell and Roy Wright to try to escape.

Bullet in Brain
Powell's condition was virtually unchanged today after removal of a bullet from his brain last night.

Captain Potter Smith of the state highway patrol rounded up details of the case for presentation to Gov. Bibb Graves, but he would not comment pending his report.

Guards on Duty
National guardsmen remained on duty throughout the night, but were not called out. The streets in the vicinity of the hospital where Powell lay were virtually deserted, and the police guard posted over the Negro had nothing to report.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

Sheriff Sandlin, who shot Powell in the head yesterday after Deputy Edgar Blalock had been slashed in the throat as officers were bringing the Negroes from Decatur to Birmingham, said he expected to arrest today the Negro who furnished Powell and Wright with knives used in the attack.

CONTINUE FATHERS' FRIENDSHIP

Will Rogers, Jr., son of the late humorist, and Patricia Ziegfeld, daughter of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, noted Follies producer, were caught by the camera together at a Hollywood party. Rogers' father once worked for Miss Ziegfeld's father, but the procedure is now reversed—for young Rogers, now publisher of a Beverly Hills newspaper, is the boss of Miss Ziegfeld, whom he has employed to write a column. (Associated Press Photo)

Making Rubber Floor Mats
Out of Old Tires Provides Living for Santa Ana Men

By VIRGINIA SMITH

When your last spare goes "phizz" 15 miles from nowhere, curb that desire to kick the old tire. It can be made into a floor mat that you can trample all over the place. That was one of the discoveries of the depression for F. E. Taylor of East Third street.

For a long time, Mr. Taylor's carpentering tools had been brought out only on rare occasions. Their owner had kept up with modern methods, however, and when he read about the simple manufacturing process for making Fabrik floor mats, he decided to try it.

Last September the two small hand machines for making the mats arrived. Mr. Taylor bought up a stock of used five-cent tires, rented an empty building, and set to work.

Sales $60 a Week
"We sell about $60 a week of the mats. Of course a good bit of that goes to Mr. Yeager, our salesman. I don't know his first name. We just call him Mr. Yeager."

"We got one in the city hall, one in the Santa Ana hotel and, oh, a lot of places. They're real springy and will last a long time," said the manufacturer, bouncing lightly on one to demonstrate.

Chairman A. R. Bollen told the meeting that 10,000,000 unemployed now on relief would never be re-employed by private industry, and that re-employment through government projects of useful character was their only means of escape from the dole, and that to protect their wage scale organization was essentially necessary.

Supervisor N. E. West, speaking before the Orange county unemployment union last night, lent his support to two projects being sponsored by the group.

First of these is for establishment of a cooperative dairy managed by unemployed labor, to distribute free milk to school children and children of the needy.

The other is the organization of the unemployed to protect and maintain "a decent living standard, without discrimination against color, creed or political affiliation."

Chairman A. R. Bollen told the meeting that 10,000,000 unemployed now on relief would never be re-employed by private industry, and that re-employment through government projects of useful character was their only means of escape from the dole, and that to protect their wage scale organization was essentially necessary.

Supervisor N. E. West, speaking before the Orange county unemployment union last night, lent his support to two projects being sponsored by the group.

First of these is for establishment of a cooperative dairy managed by unemployed labor, to distribute free milk to school children and children of the needy.

The other is the organization of the unemployed to protect and maintain "a decent living standard, without discrimination against color, creed or political affiliation."

Chairman A. R. Bollen told the meeting that 10,000,000 unemployed now on relief would never be re-employed by private industry, and that re-employment through government projects of useful character was their only means of escape from the dole, and that to protect their wage scale organization was essentially necessary.

Supervisor N. E. West, speaking before the Orange county unemployment union last night, lent his support to two projects being sponsored by the group.

First of these is for establishment of a cooperative dairy managed by unemployed labor, to distribute free milk to school children and children of the needy.

The other is the organization of the unemployed to protect and maintain "a decent living standard, without discrimination against color, creed or political affiliation."

Chairman A. R. Bollen told the meeting that 10,000,000 unemployed now on relief would never be re-employed by private industry, and that re-employment through government projects of useful character was their only means of escape from the dole, and that to protect their wage scale organization was essentially necessary.

Supervisor N. E. West, speaking before the Orange county unemployment union last night, lent his support to two projects being sponsored by the group.

SEEK MOTIVE
IN STAMMER
SLAYINGGirl's Killer Maintains He
'Had Good Reason'
for Murder

FRESNO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Officials probed records and gossip today in a determined effort to discover the "grudge" motive that, by his own reported confession, prompted Elton M. Stone to slay 14-year-old Mary Stammer.

Stone, still in a Folsom prison cell, awaited arraignment Monday on a grand jury indictment charging first degree murder. On order of Superior Judge Arthur Allyn, the 31-year-old convict was held without bail.

'Had Good Reason'
District Attorney Dan F. Conway said today he had discovered no evidence which might explain Stone's asserted revenge motive. The suspect has said "I had a good reason" but beyond that would not discuss the case.

Public indignation, aroused to high pitch when Stone was arrested in the mountains east of here and reportedly admitted the slaying, had cooled today.

No Trouble Looms
Sheriff George Overholt bespoke conviction there would be no violence upon Stone's return to the city today.

"I do not anticipate any lynch action," he said. "I am satisfied Fresnoans will let the law take its course."

Prosecuting authorities coupled search for a motive with investigation of Stone's possible connection with unsolved slayings. Reports said he might be questioned regarding the death of Mrs. Bertha Blagg, slain here in July, 1934, and possibly the brutal killing of 7-year-old Sarah Jean Kelly in Seattle last Oct. 10.

Pattern Is Catchy
"I had kind of a time following the pattern they'd sent on the first one. Some little fellows came in from junior high school to work and they noticed I was doing it wrong. It's real catchy though, don't you think?" he asked.

I could well understand Mr. Taylor's difficulty with following the pattern. I had "kind of a time" myself keeping the doughnuts and strips in their right places, as I worked alongside of him.

When the craftsman noticed me gingerly picking up the pieces, he chuckled and said: "One thing about this job, you sure can't keep your hands clean."

They Make a Living
"We haven't made much money, yet," commented Mr. Taylor. "We buy the tires for a nickel. That's enough to make a $2 mat. But there's a good hour's labor in making it. Mr. Yeager gets a commission. We put some strong wire in to hold it. The place here costs something and then my assistant here and myself and the boys from school have to be paid," he explained.

But then, thought I, there was Mr. Taylor, his helper, young Buster Crea from Idaho and Mr. Yeager making a living off the mats.

"And you should see the bicycles the young junior high kids have paid for working after school in here," declared Mr. Taylor.

That worn-out tire and a little ingenuity had gone a long way.

You receive no
WARNING!

Fire may visit your home or office today or tomorrow. It comes unannounced when least expected. You receive no warning in advance! The only real protection for your valuables is to place them where fire cannot reach them—in an individual Safe Deposit Box at the First National.

Safe Deposit protection against fire or theft costs only a few cents per month at this bank. Why not make your 1936 Safe Deposit Box reservation this week? We have several sizes from which to make a selection to meet your requirements.

Play safe... give your valuables the protection they deserve!

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

IN SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA

Ebell Third Travel Section Members Turn Eyes Toward Westminster Abbey

Two Travelers Take Friends To Britain

Miss Gertrude Minor, Mrs. C. P. Boyer Present Program

When the eyes of the world are turning toward England and its new king, it was especially auspicious that Miss Gertrude Minor and Mrs. C. P. Boyer, two of the much-traveled members of Ebell third travel section, should at the section meeting yesterday in Ebell clubhouse take the clubwomen with them on reminiscent tours of Westminster Abbey, the house of parliament and the British museum.

Miss Minor told in entertaining fashion her trip to the famed abbey where England's greatest men lie enshrined in death. She showed pictures, as did also Mrs. Boyer.

Mrs. Boyer told of the vast wealth of material and information contained in the British museum, in which she spent hours while in England.

In the luncheon hour, Mesdames M. C. Williams, Minnie Holmes, Bessie Mize, B. B. Kellogg, C. A. Westgate, John A. Harvey, J. F. Richards and W. P. Read and Misses Lucy Carter, Preble Drake and Ida May were hostesses. Pretty valentine appointments were used.

Mrs. Olive Dooley of Omaha, Neb., and Miss Ellen Sneybey, society editor of The Journal, were guests. Mrs. F. P. Nickey conducted a brief business session.

TROPICS BECKON TO TRAVELING GROUP AND MEET RESPONSE

While Orange county guesses on rain, several groups of societies have chosen the high seas and the tropics for pleasure jaunts, according to H. Louis Hanson, whose World Travel Bureau has been busy this week preparing tickets for the travelers.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Forgy are welcoming them home to Santa Ana after their trip of almost a month on the United Fruit liner S. S. Antigua to Panama, Cuba and New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Johnson, he of the business institute, are now en route by boat to Mexico, where they have slated an extended cruise.

Miss Dorothy Forgy, 2107 North Broadway, prominent in affairs of Junior Ebell, is packing her pretties to sail Feb. 8 on the S. S. Antigua for Panama to join the S. S. Columbus on its "Around South America Cruise," leaving Panama Feb. 17.

Miss Beulah Davis, 335 South Glassell, Orange, will sail Feb. 3 on the Panama Pacific liner Virginia for a round trip to Panama.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Artz of Balboa were to sail today on the S. S. Chiriqui for Panama. Also through the bureau have gone tickets for Misses Marie and Ruth Riddiford, Los Angeles, who will sail Feb. 17, to circle the globe and be gone six months.

STAR PARTY TO BE MONDAY

Covered-dish dinner for members and families of Santa Ana chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will be served at 6:30 o'clock Monday night in the Masonic temple. A program is scheduled to follow chapter.

Simple Marian Martin House Frocks Solve 'Weight' Problems

PATTERN 9758

A frock with such slenderizing lines as this, just naturally puts those extra pounds to shame—whether you're a plump 14, or a matronly 46. A too-generously proportioned bust isn't a chance to look anything but firm and flat when a center panel sweeps with such determination and force from shoulder to hem, adding height, as well, to its wearer's stature. The waist is given a neat inward curve by two gauzy bows which tie at either side, while pleases are ample and roomy to allow for plenty of action. Notice please—no collar to bother with—just a comfy, unadorned neckline in becoming V shape. Choose a bright small-spaced print in one of the color-fast cottons, and you'll vote this style your favorite. Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9758 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric. Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Send for OUR NEW SPRING PATTERN BOOK, and take the guesswork out of planning and making your clothes! Its many smart, practical designs will show you new ways to look your charming best, new ways to use the latest Spring fabrics, new ways to stretch your budget. Special flattering designs for stout figures. Patterns for the whole family. PRICE OF BOOK 15 CENTS. BOOK AND A PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS. Send your order to The Journal

SORORITY LEADER

—Photo by Gibson and Naill.

Mrs. Charles Woodfill, president of Kappa Delta sorority, has been dashing about frantically this week, working on plans for the annual midwinter semi-formal hop which her sorority and Kappa Alpha Phi fraternity are giving to-night in the Santa Ana Country clubhouse.

HOME DEPARTMENT HONORED AT M. E. AID MEETING

A varied program has been arranged to entertain the home department of the Sunday school at the meeting of the Woman's Methodist church Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Effie Allen, president, officiated, with Mrs. Matilda Johnson leading devotionals, on "The Three Prayers."

Under direction of Mrs. Anna Graves, Miss Doris Welles was presented, who told of life in India. Long-time missionary from this church to India, the speaker had a background of interesting information. She was in native dress.

"The Stranger of Galilee" was sung by Mrs. Harry Hayes, accompanied by Miss Carrie Seaton. Mrs. John Clarkson read "Oh Heart of Mine" and "Jane Jones." Mrs. George Warner sang "Sing, Sing, Birds on the Wing," and "In the Time of Roses," accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Snow.

Jack and Richard Northrup, from the Visel studio, each played piano solos and gave readings. Refreshments were served.

MRS. JAMES HENRY FETED WITH PARTY ON HER BIRTHDATE

The birthday anniversary of Mrs. James Henry, 405 East Washington street, was celebrated Wednesday with a turkey dinner for her children and members of their families and two old-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ferguson, Costa Mesa. The guests presented her with gifts and flowers.

Attending were her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Henry and her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shields of Garden Grove, the son at home, William Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hardy of Fullerton, and Mr. Henry.

Barbara Davis New Leader Of Club

Miss Barbara Davis is new president of Girls' Ebell society. Election of officers took place yesterday afternoon at the girls' meeting in the home of Miss Jean Allen on South McClay street.

Others chosen were Miss Barbara Speed, first, and Miss Virginia Curry, second vice president, and Miss Jane King, secretary. Mesdames E. D. White, Fred Rowland, C. V. Davis and John Tessonman were present from senior Ebell. Misses Jane King and Geraldine Gilbert assisted in hostessing. Spring flowers decked the tea table. Twenty-five girls were present.

DINNER PARTY GIVEN BY HENRY GUTHRIES

Dinner compliments went to Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Parker last night at an informal party given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Guthrie, 824 North Olive street.

The table had been centered with a festive bowl of giant sweet pea blossoms. The honored guests are visiting in Santa Ana from the Grand canyon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Stonebarger, Mrs. Parker's parents.

Guests at the dinner included a small group of neighborhood friends who had known Mrs. Parker before her marriage a year ago.

SPURGEON P.-T. A. PARTY HAS 21 TABLES IN PLAY

Spurgeon P.-T. A. benefit bridge party yesterday afternoon had 12 tables in play.

Palms and baskets of assorted flowers had been used to decorate the room and bowls of sweet peas centered the tables for the desert course of gingerbread and whipped cream.

Prizes went to Mrs. Ora Hill in contract, Mrs. H. E. Ludlum in auction, Mrs. Jenny Crawford for anagrams and to Mrs. J. L. Bassom for the special award of the day.

BRIDGE CLUB GOES ITALIAN AT PARTY IN SAVAGE HOME

Spaghetti and accompanying dishes provided a grand luncheon for members of Mrs. Kenneth Savage's bridge club, whom she entertained yesterday in her home on South Maple street.

Gay pottery decked the luncheon table. In the afternoon contract play prizes went to Mesdames G. M. Meisinger and Cecil Suddaby. Others playing were Mesdames Joseph Irwin, George Bradley, William Jerome, Jr., Orville Schurhard and Frank Hillgass.

CURRENT EVENTS SECTION TO GIVE HUSBANDS DINNER

Ebell current events section members will fete their husbands with a dinner Tuesday eve at 6:30 o'clock in Ebell clubhouse.

Mesdames S. B. Kaufman, Frank Sawyer, Harvey Spears, Harvey Bennett, George Veeh and Hugh Shields will hostess.

Dinner reservations are to be made with Mrs. Spears, 4766, or with Mrs. Shields, 3674-W.

GARDNERS HEAR ABOUT ROSE CULTURE

Woman's club garden section members heard all about roses, pruning and caring for them, when they visited the Blanding nursery after meeting with Mrs. Charles Hoehn, 1401 Durant street, yesterday.

The members expressed regret at the illness of their president, Mrs. E. M. Waycott. Mrs. Gene Short conducted a short business session.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. C. Reed, Feb. 27.

ED L. VEGELY'S HOME FROM ARIZONA

Mr. and Mrs. Ed L. Vegely returned to their home at 1420 West Third street late last evening after spending a week in Tucson, Ariz. As is their custom each winter, the Santa Anans went to Arizona for a brief vacation, and visited with Kansas friends who winter in Tucson. Thursday was Mr. Vegely's birthday anniversary.

CLUB MEMBERS MEET WITH MRS. WISDOM

Mrs. J. F. Wisdom entertained X. N. O. club members Wednesday in her home on West Highland street. Sewing and tea occupied the time.

Guests were Mesdames A. R. Bennett, E. E. Edwards, W. Ray Edwards, R. A. McPhee, H. R. Troit, M. O. Johnson, B. A. Hershey, E. E. Lentz and E. E. Perry.

Veils take angular shapes for the imposing little hats of lame that you can wear with metal or jeweled accented gowns of afternoon type, and your fur coat from cocktail hour right through the evening.

MEET THE NEW MRS. BARFELL

Above you see smiling Mrs. Lawrence O. Barfell, who until last Saturday was Ruth Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Collins, South Coast boulevard, Laguna Beach. She was a lovely bride in the Community Presbyterian church. Her husband teaches English in the Laguna Beach high school. She's a former Santa Ana Junior collegienne.

TEAPOT TATTLE

By ELLEN SNEYBEY

Once upon a time . . . There was a gal who, even as lots of us, dreamed of traveling through the world, adventuring and escaping the workaday life.

If you think she grew up, even as lots of us, and married and settled down to being a mother, you're greatly mistaken.

Because, this gal was "Ginger" Bishop, erstwhile Santa Ananne and daughter of Dr. Vern M. Bishop, localite. And when she married, she married Dana Lamb, world traveler.

Remember how they started off to trek the world in a frail canoe? That was two years ago, and if they've only got as far as the southern tip of Mexico, that doesn't mean theirs hasn't been a "Swiss Family Robinson" existence!

From lagoon to lagoon they paddled, stopping often where no white person has been before. They're learning Indian-Mexican customs, making friends . . . finding out that the Dionne quintuplets are news even among the most primitive of coastal villagers. In one hamlet they saw the original character granted the place by Cortez.

Says Dana in a letter: "We're only doing what many people have dreamed of doing."

They write that they're "Horribly healthy."

If you should happen to want to write a hello note to the vagabonds, their latest address is Champerico, Guatemala.

If not, they'll be home next Christmas, the following one, or sometime . . .

Last night was a thrilling one for Orange county Oxy coeds . . . the annual coed hop, in which the gals dragged their dates and afterward fed 'em and took 'em home safely. Among those present was Miriam Powell of Orange, with a brand new date from the music dept.

And a chance chat with a w. k. Santa Ananne brought forth a 15-minute dissertation on suicide . . . her climactic remark being that "The only thing that would ever drive me to it would be a consuming curiosity to find out what happens afterward!"

Betty Smedley's due home Monday from Scripps, to spend a week with her parents, the Ralph Smedleys. Betty's home-coming is mostly on account her good work at school, because of which her exes for this time are few in number.

Today we toast: Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Shepherd, whose golden-wedding-plus-five-years wedding anniversary was celebrated this week. They were married 55 years Jan. 1 of this year.

Mr. Shepherd out in the very early morning raking the leaves off the front lawn of their home on East Chestnut avenue is a sight that's familiar and dear to many of the neighborhood's long-time residents.

Patty Rapp, Virginia Curry, Barbara Rowland, Mary (Mrs. Ed) Suggen, Juanita (Mrs. Warren) Fletcher, Mrs. Clyde Deardorff, Betty Rowland, Marie and Bettie Timmons, Katie Spicer, Gerry Cole, Bee Matthews, Lillie Forsberg . . . no, we're not rambling, just thinking at random of horseback riding-minded Santa Anannes. And the new riding stables in Santa Ana, the very nice one over at El Modena (which reminds us of the good start Orange has at a city park in the riverbed, with a bridge path—only the project has never been finished). Then there's the riding stables whose owner has been so disgusted by the treatment his horses have received, he's left out his sign for the sheer pleasure of saying, "No, you can't rent a horse here!" to people who chance to stop. Seems to me an inefficient means of protest.

Who wouldn't be agog if she had a swank new steel-gray V-8 car, presented her by a doting grandma? It's the proper term for Martha Allen Lee, daughter of the R. R. Lees, who's spent almost every afternoon and evening of the past two weeks breaking in her grand new gift.

Somebody else seen sporting a good looking new coupe is Clarence Sprague, who's eating nobody's dust, these days.

S'pose you all know how the Scotch make use of a sheep's stomach to prepare that unique dish, the haggis?

If you can eat with the blare of bagpipes bursting the air, and if you go for Scottish burrs "n' Burns, tonight's Burns dinner at the Veterans hall is the ticket—and 6:15's the time.

Tux'n Gowners will tuck their little selves into bed by 1 a. m. At least, they're to have the Country club at 12:30, according to latest word. So those who want to dance more than an hour should arrive at the clubhouse before 11 p. m., the dance committee says. Which will cut short a number of pre-dance rallies, we suspect.

"Tiny" Berkner's new Fullerton b. f. evidently is a track star, for she wears a tiny silver shoe on a chain . . . says she hasn't stepped out on him for two weeks, and that must be hard not to do, for "Tiny" is a much sought-after gal.

Lack of "stormy weather" gives cause for plans for houseparties at the beach, and spring vacation already is being reckoned with . . . we note many spring prints and straw chapeaux betting against rain, and it's likely they'll be some quite wilted bonnets after the first good downpour.

Today's mystery: What popular local couple will announce wedding bells very, very soon? P. S.—She'll tell the news to her sorority sisters.

Understand Helen Spangler has been decked with Don Plumb's fraternity pin for some time now . . . a serious romance?

Doris' Bud White's new home is just behind Mary Louise's Fayette Birchler's. Both are such grand couples, there'll probably be lots of good times together for them.

Georgia Turner buzzed off to the desert the other day to visit "Ginney" Swegles, who writes she's having a wonderful winter at the desert resort, Palm Springs.

Likeables: Bill Major's ever-cheerful greeting . . . Katie Harbert's sparkle . . . Betty (Mrs. Bob) Gould's eyes when she smiles . . . Harriet (Mrs. Ernest) Gould's poise . . . Dick Ewert's universal good nature . . . Emerald Bay's waves in January.

Quick, Henry, the hothouse rosebuds! Milady is scheduled to appear Thursday eve at the third annual President's Military ball, in Vete. ns' hall. Memories of other such balls include seeing Billy Steadman of Fullerton rushing round, planning for the affair . . . Lela Brewer, same hamlet, beaming proudly at the huge first President's cake, remains of which went partly to the crippled children and partly to the fourth estate . . . seeing Myrtle's Ralph Irwin, the Albert Launers, the Dean W. T. Boyce, the Charles MacMasters and numerous others

Briggs Home Is Scene Of Party

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Briggs and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons entertained last evening with a dinner party in the Briggs home on North Broadway.

Spring nosegays centered small tables in the dinner hour. Afterwards, the guests played contract bridge. R. C. Hoiles, Mr. and Mrs. James Harding and Mrs. R. G. Tuthill won prizes in the play.

The guest list included Lieut. Comm. Irwin F. Landis and Mrs. Landis, Dr. J. E. Paul and Mrs. Paul, and Messrs. and Mesdames R. C. Hoiles, James Harding, R. G. Tuthill, Parke Roper, James Irvine, Ernst Behr, J. E. Liebig and A. J. Cruickshank and Mrs. H. T. Duckett.

GRAND PRESIDENT TO PAY Y. L. I. OFFICIAL VISIT

Bibs and tuckers will be straight and noses powdered for Young Ladies Institute members Feb. 13 when the grand president, Miss Genevieve Manning, San Francisco, pays her official visit to Santa Ana.

Mrs. Emil Wetzel is chairman of the committee preparing for the event.

At Thursday night's meeting in the K. of C. hall, Miss Catherine Robertson, institute deputy, and Mrs. May Kelly, both of Los Angeles, visited the society.

Refreshments were served by a committee including Mrs. Arthur Stewart, Mrs. Ed Lohman, Mrs. Ray Burns and Miss Angela Ohysaboh.

BUFFET SUPPER CLUB PARTIES IN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Glines' buffet supper-club party partied last evening in their home on Greenleaf street.

Clusters of violets combined with Mrs. Glines' Wedgewood dinnerware to make a pretty picture on the small dinner tables. Mrs. Glines and Dr. M. M. Bryte won contract awards.

Guests included Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Edwards, Le Russell and Mrs. Russell and Messrs. and Mesdames Harold Moonmaw, Chester Horton and Roscoe Conklin.

JOHN TURTON GUEST OF HONOR AT PARTY

John H. Turton's friends shouted "Happy birthday!" one evening this week when they surprised him with a party in the Turton home on Martha lane.

Guests included Messrs. and Mesdames Edwin Maier, Frank Chapman, Roy Gowdy, Veri Van Buren, Ray Price, Charles Bernard and Turton.

... and dancing. So don't forget this year's party . . . and be there.

Congrats today to Jeanette Warhurst, on being the newest member of the Sigma Theta clan. Jeanette was feted this week when Marie Heimiller hostessed at a shower, account her approaching marriage to Charles Bain, Jr.

If she were registering to vote, Mildred (Mrs. Marcus) McClure, Beverly Hills socialite and daughter of the E. L. Maddens of Santa Ana, probably would identify herself as "housewife."

That's only half of it, though, and the other half is richly worth repetition.

Mildred's life has been almost a "charmed" one. Leaving U. C. at Berkeley, she went to Columbia and took a pre-med psychological course whence she emerged one of the best-trained examples of her profession. Sat on the juvenile bench in New York city for an excitingly active year. Then an old family friend, the candy magnate, L. J. Christopher, said: "Mildred, come along with my niece and tour the world."

So they did, for eight luxurious months, including underground trips to the exclusive salons of Monte Carlo, and all the thrills travel de luxe.

Coming home, Mildred yielded to parental pleas and left her Atlantic coast career to be in California. Told she was the best qualified individual ever to apply for a Los Angeles school position, she took over a high school counselor job. Kept a school, with 2200 enrolled, so on its toes that not a student failed in her five years there.

Nor did Mildred desert her. For Marc McClure, M. I. T. and Cal-Tech grad, brilliant himself, came home to Los Angeles and took an engineering teaching job in the same school. After several years' friendship, the couple were married.

Now, he heads the claims department of a large insurance company, and their dual interest is "scientifically" fearing their youngsters. Arthur Madden, aged 3, and Irish-eyed Marilyn, 3 months.

Mildred, whose life reads like a happy-ending book, believes in the best possible education and then marriage for women.

Was interested in her comment on her own experience: "I work hard—and then I forget it, and play."

SHE'S NEW BRIDE

Mrs. Gordon Westcott Cudworth (Evelyn Chandler) was married Jan. 11 in First Methodist Episcopal church bride's chapel. She and her husband are living at 427 1/2 Eastwood street. She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Chandler, 406 East Walnut street, and a member of Tau Delta Phi.

WILLARD P.-T. A. TO HOLD PANEL DISCUSSION

Mental gymnastics will be the program for Willard Parent Teacher association members next Tuesday afternoon at a panel discussion on the subject, "A Constructive Routine for Youth."

Mrs. Golden Weston, director of adult education, has arranged the following numbers: Mrs. Yula Moore, Value of Promptness; Lester Fountain, "What Are Worthwhile Amusements?" D. H. Tibbals, "Should Everyone Have a Hobby?" Mrs. David Carmichael, "How Can Children Be Taught the Proper Use of Money?"

Under direction of Miss Esther Davis, the boys' glee club will sing "Go Down, Moses," a plantation melody, "Levee Song," and "Bill Grogan's Goat."

Refreshments will be served by the ninth grade mothers with Mrs. Rodney Bacon as chairman, Mrs. J. B. Tucker, Mrs. Gilbert Platt, Mrs. L. R. Carden, Mrs. Paul R. Glines, Mrs. O. S. Witt, Mrs. L. G. Rowell and Mrs. Walter Spicer.

Parents and friends are invited to attend.

W. C. T. U. EXECUTIVES OF COUNTY TO MEET FRIDAY

W. C. T. U. executive members of Orange county will gather at the First Methodist church of Garden Grove next Friday, Jan. 31, at 10 a. m.

Mrs. J. E. Kellogg and Mrs. L. Warren will give reports of the state committee meetings held in Los Angeles last week.

Directors will report in the morning and presidents of each union in the afternoon. A pot-luck luncheon is scheduled at noon.

WHAT'S BEING READ TOLD EBELL MEMBERS

Mrs. Mabel Faulner, Orange librarian, told "what's being read and why" at last eve's meeting of the Thursday Evening Literary section of Ebell in Ebell clubhouse.

Before Mrs. Faulner's entertaining talk, Mesdames Henry Williams and J. L. Bascom served a dessert course.

Mona Summers Smith will read a drama at the next meeting of the group.

SANTA ANA GROUP GOES TO BALLET

The Monte Carlo Russian ballet in Los Angeles had four enthusiastic Santa Anans in the audience this afternoon at the matinee performance.

In the party were Mrs. H. M. Bright, Miss Lota Blythe, Mrs. Warren Fletcher and Miss Edith Cornell.

Mary Stoddard

Girl Can't Have Her Married Lover Because His Wife Won't Divorce Him

By MARY STODDARD

She signed herself "A Terribly Unhappy Girl." When we begin to suffer the pangs of a guilty conscience we are as a rule "terribly unhappy."

This girl has fallen in love with a married man and she "wants him forever," to put it in her own words, but doesn't want to lose his love in the effort to have him.

Her letter follows: Dear Miss Stoddard: I am a girl 24 years old and have gotten myself all mixed up with a man 10 years older than I, and besides that, he is married and has a 9-year-old boy.

We met quite some time ago under false pretense and both like fools, fell in love with each other. He was fair with me. Later, he confessed being married and said he had never really loved his wife. We were going to part for good, but I couldn't—I loved him too much. I tried to think of things to do if I didn't have him, but I can't do anything but walk the floor and worry.

We both love each other just as much, but here is the drawback: He hates to hurt his family. He respects his wife, but doesn't love her.

She will not let him divorce her, and lets him go out every night and never questions his whereabouts.

I have a very good position and make almost $100 a month. He also has a good position and could take care of his family the same as always.

He says he will tell her, but so far he hasn't. When I am with him I am satisfied, and when I am not, I'm in doubt. I can't stand it. The suspense is maddening.

Remember, I want him forever, and don't want to lose his love in the effort to have him. But I simply can't live without him. Your advice will be greatly appreciated.

"TERribly UNHAPPY GIRL." To "Terribly Unhappy" and all others who find themselves in her boots, I can only say: Sit down in a quiet corner and get acquainted with yourself—let your conscience direct your heart—pull the wool from your eyes and sweep the cobwebs from your maudlin brain.

HEAVY SALES MARK STOCK TRADINGS

Margin Requirements
Boosted By Federal Reserve Board

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—The stock market righted itself quickly today after an early stumble following the boosting of margin requirements by the federal reserve board.

Initial declines ranged from fractions to two or more points. Aviation and utility issues led the recovery and most losses were shaded, cancelled or replaced by gains up to a point or so. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 1,550,000 shares.

There was a heavy turnover in low-priced power and light stocks and the ticker tape fell several minutes in arrears during the last half hour's sport.

Such issues as Electric Power & Light, American Power & Light, American & Foreign Power, Standard Gas & Electric, United Corp., and Commonwealth & Southern generally edged forward. The steel and motors steadied along with the rails. Armour was a lively gainer of a major fraction. Deere got up about three points, but other farm shares did little.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—Closing prices on the New York stock exchange today follow:

American Can	125 1/2
American Smelt & R.	52 1/2
American Sugar	56 3/4
Am Tel and Tel	160 1/2
Amco-Columbia Corp.	7 1/2
Armour & S. F.	29 1/2
Atlantic Refinery	29 1/2
Aviation Corporation	5 1/2
Baldwin Locomotive	5 1/2
Balt and Ohio	18 1/2
Bethlehem Steel	32 1/2
Borden Milk	26 1/2
California Packing	34 1/2
Canada Pacific	35 1/2
Case (J. I.)	101 1/2
Caterpillar Tractor	29 1/2
Chgo & N. W.	35 1/2
Chesapeake and Ohio	55 1/2
Chi M & St P and P.	24 1/2
Chi M & St P & P. puf.	24 1/2
Chrysler	88 1/2
Coca Cola	88 1/2
Coca Cola & E.	88 1/2
Consolidated Gas	33 1/2
Cont Oil Del.	36 1/2
Crown Zeller	33 1/2
Curtis Wright	43 1/2
Du Pont de Nem.	129 1/2
Eastman Kodak	129 1/2
Electric	129 1/2
General Electric	35 1/2
General Foods	35 1/2
Gen G & El A.	134 1/2
General Motors	137 1/2
Gillette Razor	137 1/2
Goodyear Tire & R.	24 1/2
Great Western Sugar	15 1/2
Hudson Motor	24 1/2
Hupp Motor	24 1/2
International Harvester	49 1/2
International Nick C.	17 1/2
International T. & T.	17 1/2
Johns Manville	32 1/2
Kennecott	32 1/2
Kresge (ss)	108 1/2
Lige & My B.	114 1/2
Ludlow	53 1/2
Lorillard P.	29 1/2
Montgomery Ward	18 1/2
Nash Motor	18 1/2
National Biscuit	37 1/2
National Cash Register A.	37 1/2
National Dairy Products	23 1/2
New York Central	30 1/2
N. Y. N. H. & H.	25 1/2
Northern Pacific	25 1/2
Pacific Gas & Electric	34 1/2
Packard Motor	34 1/2
Pennsylvania R. R.	34 1/2
Phillips Petroleum	43 1/2
Pullman	20 1/2
Pure Oil	20 1/2
Radio	13 1/2
Republic Steel	13 1/2
Reynolds Tobacco B.	58 1/2
Sawtooth Stores	33 1/2
Seaboard Air Line	33 1/2
Sears Roebuck	62 1/2
Shell Union	17 1/2
Shaw-Wacuum	17 1/2
Southern Pacific R. Sog.	30 1/2
Southern Pacific Edison	27 1/2
Southern Pacific	27 1/2
Standard Brands	16 1/2
Standard Gas & Electric	88 1/2
Standard Oil California	55 1/2
Standard Oil New Jersey	55 1/2
Studebaker	10 1/2
Texas Corporation	34 1/2
Texas Gulf Sulphur	37 1/2
Timken Roller Bearing	67 1/2
Transamerica	12 1/2
Union Carbide	74 1/2
Union Oil California	24 1/2
Union Pacific	19 1/2
United Aircraft Corporation	28 1/2
U. S. Steel	48 1/2
Warner Pictures	11 1/2
Warren Bros.	57 1/2
Western Elec & Mfg.	13 1/2
Woolworth	53 1/2

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Wheat advanced late today to the highest level in more than a year, with May touching $1.02, up over a cent a bushel.

Houses with connections East became active buyers. Improved milling demand, together with reported chances of Italian crop developments before Monday, led to bullish factors.

Wheat closed firm, 1/2 cent higher than yesterday's finish: May, $1.01 1/2; corn, 1/2 cent up; May, 60 1/2; oats, 1/2 cent up; May, 27 1/2. Closing prices:

WHEAT—High Low Close
May	100 1/2 99 1/2 100 1/2
Sept.	88 1/2 87 1/2 88 1/2
CORN—High Low Close
May	60 1/2 60 1/2 60 1/2
July	61 1/2 61 1/2 61 1/2
Sept.	61 1/2 61 1/2 61 1/2
OATS—High Low Close
May	28 1/2 28 1/2 28 1/2
July	28 1/2 28 1/2 28 1/2
Sept.	28 1/2 28 1/2 28 1/2
RYE—High Low Close
May	56 55 55 55
July	55 53 53 53
Sept.	54 52 52 52

Los Angeles Livestock

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—U. S. Dept. Agr.—Hogs, receipts for week, 750; to 250; higher; $11.00; bulk, $10.90-11.00.

Cattle, week, 5000; steers and heifers steady to 25c lower; cows steady to 25c higher; fed steers, $7.25-8.50; common, down to $5.50; fed heifers to $8.25; cows, $4.75-5.85.

Calves, week, 1800; steady to 25c higher; vealers, $9.25-10.00; calves, $7.00-7.50; $8.00-9.00.

Sheep, week, 2200; steady to 25c lower; lambs, $9.75-10.25; ewes, $4.00-5.50.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—Foreign exchange firm: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents: Great Britain demand, 5.01; cables, 5.01; 60-day bills, 5.00. France demand, 6.67 1/2; cables, 6.67 1/2. Italy demand, 8.03; cables, 8.03.

Belgium, 17.00; Germany free, 40.70; reg. tourist, 23.75; reg. comm., 22.00; Holland, 6.25; Tokyo, 24.00; Hong Kong, 32.75; Mexico City, 27.85; Montreal in New York, 100.45; New York in Montreal, 99.55.

WEEK'S CITRUS REVIEW

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—Cold weather cut into demand, price and volume in the eastern and middle western auction centers for California oranges and lemons during the past week.

The average price on California oranges in the auctions was at $2.81, 8 cents less than in the previous week. Volume was at a low ebb with a total of 197 cars a sale for the week. This is a decrease of 55 cars from the total of the previous week.

Lemon volume of sales totaled 92 cars as compared with 133 cars a week ago. Average price on lemons was $4.28 for the week or 3 cents less than last week.

A slackening in demand in the auctions was noticeable throughout the week although through the close, best grades and large sizes of both California oranges and lemons were doing better.

The prorate for next week was announced by the California-Arizona citrus marketing agreement: 650 cars of packed navel oranges for Southern California. No other prorate was set as central California is about cleaned up.

W. C. Frackelton, manager of the California-Arizona citrus marketing agreement, made the following statement on the prorate: "In view of the fact that complete estimates have not been submitted by all shippers, the growers advisory committee took action continuing prorate for the week of Jan. 26 to Feb. 1, inclusive, under the marketing agreement and license which has not been terminated by the secretary of agriculture."

Orange shipments per box for the week, with comparative figures for last week and for the corresponding weeks of 1935 and 1934 follow:

	This Week	Last Week	1935	1934
--	-----------	-----------	------	------

New York	$2.78	$2.96	$2.87	$2.86
----------	--------	--------	--------	--------

Boston	2.50	2.56	2.52	2.74
--------	------	------	------	------

Chicago	3.00	3.10	3.02	2.92
---------	------	------	------	------

Philadelphia	2.70	2.81	2.88	2.64
--------------	------	------	------	------

Pittsburgh	2.82	2.71	3.08	2.71
------------	------	------	------	------

Cleveland	2.86	2.87	3.05	2.83
-----------	------	------	------	------

St. Louis	2.86	3.07	3.09	2.88
-----------	------	------	------	------

San Francisco	2.82	2.71	3.08	2.71
---------------	------	------	------	------

Cincinnati	2.71	2.45	2.85	2.69
------------	------	------	------	------

Detroit	2.93	2.78	2.89	2.85
---------	------	------	------	------

Average	2.89	2.99	2.93	2.83
---------	------	------	------	------

Lemon Avgs.	4.28	4.31	4.42	4.42
-------------	------	------	------	------

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

--	--	--	--	--

LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

A lecture on Christian Science, entitled "Christian Science: Not a Mere Name, But Absolute Science," was delivered in church edifice last evening, under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this city.

Young, C. S. B., of Chicago, Illinois, was the lecturer. Mr. Young is a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

It is a matter of common information that Christian Science teaches the unreality of evil. In fact, the unreality of evil is one of the propositions of this Science. As a proposition it cannot fail to be found reasonable and demonstrable in the exact proportion that it is understood. It cannot, however, be understood without at first being duly considered. It is admitted to be religiously and scientifically revolutionary. It is not lightly made.

No one was ever more acutely cognizant than was Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, that the trials and sufferings of mankind are so universal, harrowing, and destructive that should any system advocate a casual or superficial view or treatment of them it would antagonize intelligent people and be worthy only of rejection. Such, however, is not Christian Science doctrine, for this Science is based on the reality of the human mind, and the postulate of the unreality of evil is advanced and advocated for the sole purpose of enabling mankind to overcome evil instead of being overcome by evil.

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Belief in a material basis, from which may be deduced all rationality, is slowly yielding to the idea of a metaphysical basis, looking away from matter to Mind as the cause of every effect" (p. 268). A symposium of the views of certain distinguished modern scientists, published in the New York Times as interviews, shows that Mrs. Eddy's words above quoted were extraordinarily prophetic, for these views all coincide in substance with what Sir Arthur Stanley Eddington, of Cambridge, England, is reported to have expressed in the following words: "The logical conclusion of such a statement, a conclusion at which they must all eventually arrive, is that material thought constitutes matter."

This fact was announced by Mary Baker

MODEST MAIDENS

"Father said I'd have to be home at 10. It's now twelve, so I'd better get in by two."

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

ACROSS

- Passing fashions
- Edible fish
- Coat with metal
- Reduct
- Facility
- Devoted
- Compensation imposed by law for wrong or injury
- Engage in a game
- Exclamation
- Architect's drawing
- Look slyly
- Secure
- High winds
- Rendered vocal music
- Gratis
- God of war
- Lacking heat
- Neckpiece
- Denoting the central part
- Kind of rock
- One of the dominant people of Hungary
- Exist
- Revolutions
- As far as
- Slanting
- French coin
- One of the sails of a windmill
- Having power

DOWN

- Nourished
- Town in Ohio
- Having small depressions in the skin
- Destroys the charm or freshness of
- Observed
- Possesses
- Take
- Rely
- Projecting point or edge
- Bellad
- By
- Giggles
- Related
- Through the mother
- Exclamation
- Support for furniture
- Agreeable to the taste
- Mixture of black and white
- Grass-stop with a string
- Sign of the zodiac
- Couch
- House mist
- Heal
- Forbids
- Metal forms used in printing
- Manner
- Make amends
- Puts to flight
- Dress
- Amlessly
- Grassy plot
- Divided by partitions
- Helping
- One who takes or holds captive
- Corrupt
- Proprietor
- Was victorious
- Number
- Destitute of natural covering
- Oven
- Light repast
- Content
- Kind of gazelle
- Fish
- Ourselves
- Exclamation

1. Illuminant

20. Support for furniture

23. Agreeable to the taste

24. Mixture of black and white

25. Grass-stop with a string

26. Sign of the zodiac

27. Couch

28. House mist

29. Heal

30. Forbids

31. Metal forms used in printing

32. Manner

33. Make amends

34. Puts to flight

35. Dress

36. Amlessly

37. Grassy plot

38. Divided by partitions

39. Helping

40. One who takes or holds captive

41. Corrupt

42. Proprietor

43. Was victorious

44. Number

45. Destitute of natural covering

46. Oven

47. Light repast

48. Content

49. Kind of gazelle

50. Fish

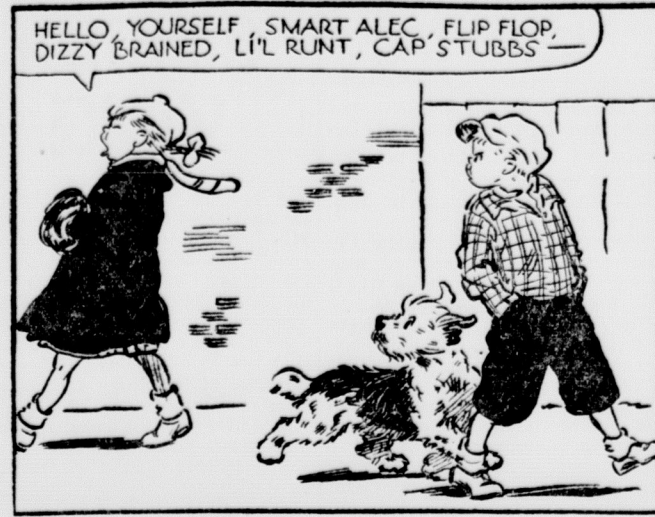

51. Ourselves

52. Exclamation

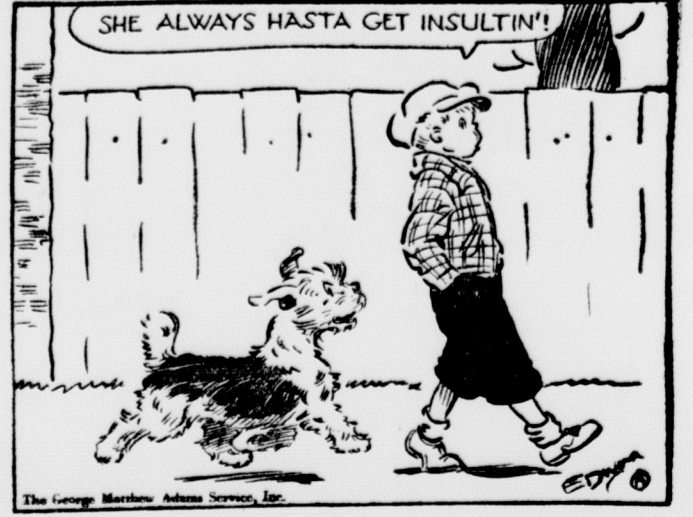

"CAP" STUBBS

Can't She Take A Joke

By EDWINA

OAKY DOAKS

Oaky's Psychic Side-Kick

By R. B. FULLER

THE GAY THIRTIES

By HANK BARROW

JOE PALOOKA

Sunrise Trail

By HAM FISHER

OH, DIANA

The Turning Worm

By DON FLOWERS

LITTLE MARY MIXUP

A WHITE Lie

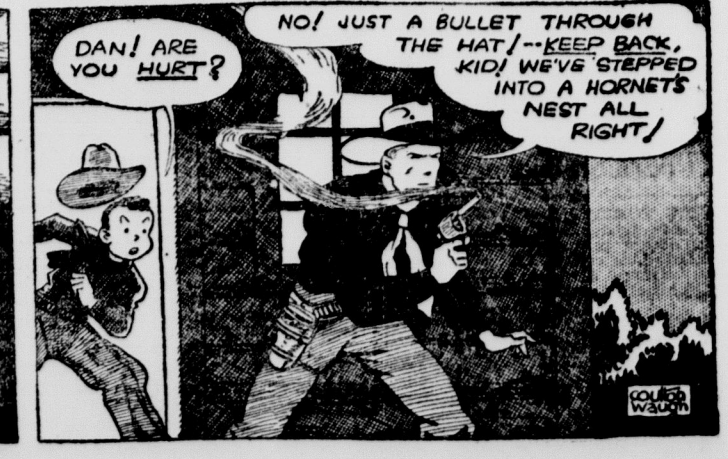

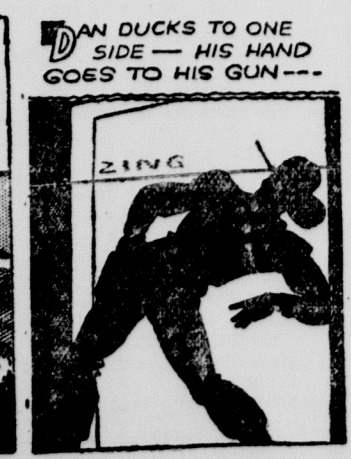

By BRINKERHOFF

DICKIE DARE

Nearly Caught Napping

By COULTON WAUGH

102 sale just ive them

RS

East First

ANYTIME

Alma Whittaker, soon to be married, of the little town of Burntwood, with Johnny Anthony, turns up from nowhere as a golf pro at the country club. It seems to be in love with the cause of some mysterious past, flings up a bomb. When Alma's Whittaker suffers a result of financial difficulties appears, Johnny finds all in his power to still draws the line at love. Alma's rich Aunt Harriet Falkner her father into her home force Alma into marry Sig Borndike, but Al. When she and a Travers run into age to drop in and us?"

CHAPTER

He hesitated, look-
"Thanks," he said love to."

"At seven, then," lightly, and drove o
"Now why," she few minutes later, Caroline. "And al

as well think so. H
Oh, Caroline, what when she's almost in love with her, bu mysterious secret in keeps him from spe
"Well, of all thin
Aulay et al Lot 69.

Heimann & George's
Western L & B to et ux pt Lot 10 Blk
P A Robinson et
Fischer Lots 6 & 7
Geo Wm Meyer Jr
r-w in pt Lot 225 T
Three Arch Inv Co
Co r-w over pt Lot
Three Arch Inv Co
Co r-w over pt Lot 2

O Stevenson
Tct 252.
I pt Lots

al to Mary
Tct 42. to David J
of Tct 266.
Catharine C
813.

Florence R Young
r-w over pt Lot 238
Louise M Purkiss
kiss Lot 64 Tct 205.

JAN. 2.

Chas F Heil to Wen
int pt SW 1/4 NE 1/4 S
Roy B Willis et Flippen et ux 3.156
land of Oge & E

A Wag-
 McFadden
 M Palmer
 Extension
 Lots 14, 17,
 Hall et ux
 A land of
 Roy B Willis et ux
 Lot 3 Blk
 Bond.
 Annie Laurie D'Au-
 Mickle et ux pt Lot
 Balboa Island.
 Annie Laurie D'Au-
 Loud et ux pt Lot
 Balboa Island.
 Joe Mason et ux to Lot 84 of Newp

ax to G W
2 Blk A of Suttora et et 560.
bbie Ander-
R Viosca et

Geo A
526 & Lot 3
W Hamilton to 1st Natl
lots 8 & 17
to Samuel P una Cliffs.
to Roni J.
H E Hunt to Glenn
4 Blk B Tct 549.
Glenn G Fry et ux
12 Blk A Tct 549.
Corra H Walker to pt Sec 24-4-11.
Robt Robinson et
Priddis et ux Lots 1
Tct 220.
Rebecca Gottesman
E Logue Lot 11 Blk

C Z Culver
H W Hart-
g Beach.
to Geo A
A of Barber
Label Wilson
Owner Lot

ian Roberts
& Crane's
Ferdinand A
Bik 112 Tct
o Jess Long ete Martinez
C W Van Osdoll et ux pt Lot 1
White et ux pt Lot

MILLER

Geo A Baker to J
Lots 9, 11, 13, 15 Blk
Etta May Coykendal
kendall Lot 2 Blk 2
Addn to Anaheim.
R B Graves et ux t
et ux int Lots 5 and 17th St Sec.
Rolla R Hays, jr.,
Head Lot 57 Tct 754
C Head et ux to

David Meyer et ux et ux Lot 1 pt 2 Tct
Geo O'Hara to Chas
Lots 11 and 12 Blk 2
W C Mathes et ux

Lot 50 Tct 758.
Laura H Trowbridge
S Trickey et al Lot
Addn to S A ex C W 7
Interst Holding Con
Lot 20 Blk 11 Tct 615
Eva B Gury to W
Lot 20 Blk 11 Tct 6
Walter M Avis et al
B & L Lot 2 Tct 835
Theo M Rockwell et

et ux Lot 1 Bellair T
W S Williamson et
Lot 16 Blk 11 of Pol
Clara Sheffield Cas
Case land in Taylor's
Bk of Amer to Ana
8 Tet 701.
N P Robertson et
Robertson et al pt S
Fred N Brush to R
der et Lots 9 and 10

der pt Lots 5 and
Addn to S A and pt
J S Fuller to C G
1908, 1808 of East St
Western L & B to
dette et ux El¹/₂ Lot
Jno W Ormsby et for 16th Place, New Clara De Long et Control Dist Villa R easement for storm w Blk

pts Lot 1 and 2 Blk
Gracie Ann McCord
lespie Lot 13 Blk A Edw P Sommers to mien et al Lots 20,
St Sec Hunt Bch.
1st Natl Ek to J
Lot 6 Tct 863.
Jas Benedict et ux et ux Lot 20 Blk 1 o
Oscar Schildmeyer

W Schildmeyer et ux
Tct.

Add to S. A. Fuller and P. st. adj.
 J. S. Fuller to C. G. Ward Lot 1907,
 B. W. Wansley S. 1st to Lot 102
 Western L. & B. to August Laubach
 Lardette et ux E. 1/4 Lot 127 Tet 693.
 W. Wansley S. 1st to P. O. C. Rw for 16th Place, Newport.
 Clara De Long et al to O. Co Flood et al 1/2 section 33 storm drain easement for storm water channel over lots Lots 1 and 2 Bk F Gray Tet
 1020. J. S. Fuller to E. Gillespie
 E. Gillespie Lot 13 Bk K Tet 632.
 Edw. P. Sommers to J. C. Armstrong et ux O. Co R-20, 22 Bk 214 714
 St. See Hunt. Bch.
 1st Natl Bk to J. B. Caste et ux
 Lot 6 E
 Jas Benedict et ux to J. B. Sullivan et ux Lot 20 Bk I of J. B. Sullivan et ux O. Co R-20, 22 Bk 214 to Frederic
 W. Schmidmeyer et ux P. O. C. 2 Fletcher
 Tet.

Wm F McPherson al to Howard Thompson
Lot 17 G of H G Howard Thompson son Tct.

Helien Liekhus to W F McPherson al Lot 17 of G Howard Thompson
Tct.

Geo A Baker to Jas Peterson Int
Lots 9, 11, 13, 15 Blk C Tct 349.

Etra May Cuykendall to Jas E Cuykendall
Lot 2 Blk 1 of R of Rotheamer's
Addn to Annaheim.

R B Graves to S & S P McMullen et ux Int Lots 15 & 17 Blk 222 H B
17 2nd St Sec.

Rolla R Hays, Jr., et ux to H C
Head Lot 57 Tct 754.

W C H Head et ux to Adin B Wimpey et ux Lot 57 Tct 754.

W M W Jones et ux to S A Mtg &
Inv Co Lot 50 Tct 573.

JAN. 25.

David Meyer et ux to H T Dunnington et ux Lot 1 p 2 Tct 816.

Geo O Hart to Chas F Weeber et ux
Lots 11 and 12 Blk 139 Lama Hts 3.

W C Mathes et ux to J R Sandstrom
Lot 50 Tct 758.

Laura H Frowbridge et al to Frank
S Trickey et al Lot 1 Blk 4 Baker's
Addn to S A Mtg & Inv Co W 7.

Interest Holding Corp to Eva B Gury know a lot of people will enjoy m blunders hugely. A Falken r duced to proving just exactly ho valueless every bit of her imag ined splendor was it will be delicious morsel for a lot of cat

Caroline was silent, aware o
the truth of Alma's words—awa of the slays and stings an bruce that the smart and stings
"Ches" up," she said softl
"You'll manage good! Then it w be your turn! Meanwhile, don forget about supper tonight. Mak it festive by dressing up and bringing me a party mood, Alma

(To be continued)

FARMERS FINDING POOR WICK SOIL

WILKINS

Lot 20 Bk 11 Tct 615.
Eva B Gury to ux J. Birdwell et ux ux Lot 20 Bk 11 Tct 615 Midway City.
Walter M Rockwell et ux to Pomona Mut-
B & L Lot 2 Tct 835.
Theo M Rockwell to Arthur N Yates
et ux Lot 1 Bell St.
Wm Williamson to Detlef C Voss
Lot 16 Bk 11 of Polytchnic Villa Tct
Lucia Shoffner to ux J. L. Lutesh W
Case land in Taylor's ad above to Earlham.
Bk of Amer to Anaheim B & L Lot 8
Tct 701.
N P Robertson et ux to Wm Ellis
Robertson et al pt 15-35.
Fred N Brumby to Ruth Taylor Scudder pt Lots 9 and 10 Bk F of Bailey's
Addn to S A and pt 1.
J S Fuller to J C Ward Lot 1907,
1908, 1908 of East Side Villa Tct.
Western L B & C ux August La-bourdette et ux E4 Lot 127 Tct 693.
Jao W Ormsby et al to O Co R-w for 18th Place.
Clara De Long et al to O Co Flood
Control Dist Villa Bk 11 Tct 615
Assignment for storm water channel over pts Lots 1 and 2 Bk F Gray Tct.
Gracie Ann to J. C. August La-
Gillespie Lot 13 Bk A Tct 632.
Edw F Sommers to Winifred J Carmichael et al 1907, 22 Bk 14 17th
St Sec Hunt Bk.
1st Natl Bk to J B Casteck et ux
Lot 6 Tct 889.
Jas Benedict et ux to J B Sullivan
et ux Lot 20 Bk I of Tct 635.
Frederic W Schildmeyer et ux to Frederic
W Schildmeyer et ux pt Lot 2 Fletcher
Tct.

GOOD CROP RAISER

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 25. (U.) Muck soil, once looked down upon by farmers, has now become among the richest and most profitable—thanks to modern agricultural methods—says Prof. S. S. Conner, research chemist at Purdue university.

"We can now truthfully say that no better quality vegetable can be grown on muck soils properly cultivated and fertilized," he says.

For proof, he points to the highest yield of corn ever grown in Indiana, 182.6 bushels per acre produced on muck soil.

"Yields of 100 bushels of potatoes, 1000 bushels of onions per acre are not uncommon on muck soils now," he says. "Carrots, cabbage, celery, mint and other crops are produced so extensively on muck soils that they are called 'muck crops'."

The secret of recent success with muck soil, says Professor Conner, lies in liberal fertilization

SPARE TIME

Spare minutes are the gold-dust of time; the portions of life most fruitful in good or evil; the gaps through which temptations enter.

Vol. I, No. 228

EDITORIAL PAGE

January 25, 1936

This newspaper stands for a reunited people, for independence in all things political, and for honest journalism in its news and editorial columns.

Santa Ana Journal

Published daily except Sunday by Santa Ana Journal, Inc., at 117 E. Fifth street, Santa Ana, Calif. John P. Scripps, E. F. Elstrom and Roy Pinkerton, sole stockholders. Braden Finch, editor; Mr. Elstrom, manager.

Subscription rates: By mail, $6 a year; by carrier, 50 cents a month; from newsboys and newstands, 2 cents a copy. Entered as second-class matter May 1, 1935, at the postoffice at Santa Ana, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited to it in this paper, and also the local news published here.

The Journal is represented nationally by M. C. Mogenssen & Co., Inc., New York, 21 East 40th Street; Chicago, 360 N. Michigan Avenue; San Francisco, 220 Bush Street; Detroit, 3084 West Grand Boulevard; Los Angeles, 433 So. Spring Street; Seattle, 603 Stewart Street; Portland, 520 S. W. Sixth Avenue. Copies of the Journal may be secured at any of these offices, where full data regarding the Santa Ana market may be had.

No gratuities are accepted by Journal employees.

INDIAN GETS JUSTICE

DECISION of the United States government to grant reservation Indians full court privileges is certainly long overdue.

Since 1884, tribesmen have been subjected to arrest, trial and imprisonment by Indian service officials and judges appointed by reservation superintendents. At best it was a travesty on justice under American principle.

Now John Collier, Indian commissioner, announces that full court privileges will be granted all Indians charged with crimes.

"The judges of the Indian courts and the Indian agency superintendents over them cease to be judges, jailers, prosecuting attorneys, and policemen. Indian defendants will hereafter have the benefit of formal charges, the power to summon witnesses, the privilege of bail, and the right to trial by jury." Commissioner Collier guarantees.

And we are moved to applaud.

Now just see what those Dionnes have started! A Walla Walla hen has laid an egg with five yolks.

THE BONUS PAYMENT

WITHIN a few months, it appears from the Washington situation, the United States will pay its debt to the veterans.

President Roosevelt's veto of the bonus bill has been smashed by the House, and it is likely to meet the same fate in the Senate.

Whether or not you agree with the President's veto of the bonus act, you probably will respect him for having courage to live up to such an unpopular conviction in the face of overwhelming congressional opposition and during an election year. Irrespective of politics, none of us want a man in the White House without backbone. We respect Presidents Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover for taking the same stand that President Roosevelt did under similar circumstances.

But the bonus question itself is another matter. It has been debated 16 years. On analysis, it seems to fall into two divisions.

First: Should the bonus be paid? Our answer is "yes." In the bonus we see an effort of the people of this nation to repay those men who left jobs and families at home and risked life and disability to carry on in France. Few will contradict the justice of a just reward.

Second: How should the bonus be paid? This is a question for economists to solve and has nothing to do with the moral and legal side of the obligation. The "baby bond" method adopted in place of the currency inflation plan has great merits at this time, it appears. It will avoid the instability and confusion sure to occur if $2,000,000,000 in printing press money is dumped into circulation.

In Detroit a designer suggests that auto-makers place the engine at the rear. This will be tough on back-seat drivers.

COMMON SENSE

EX-MAYOR PAUL WITMER is to be congratulated on his proposal to save money for the city by refinancing $155,000 worth of delinquent municipal bonds at a lower rate of interest.

A savings of about $4,000 a year can be made for taxpayers, he states, if the indebtedness is placed upon a 3 or 3½ per cent instead of a 6 per cent interest basis as at present.

This economy can be effected without reducing any of the public services which the city gives at present. It will not bring about a slash in salaries or in employment. It will not handicap the program or activities of any department. It will be a feather in the cap of city officials.

As for the bondholders, they assuredly can offer no objection if the city chooses this method to pay off bonds which are already overdue!

In short, the refinancing plan which Ex-Mayor Witmer advances apparently offers an easy and practical way to effect a worthwhile public economy.

His suggestion that the $4,000 so saved be used as a nest egg for the acquisition of 20-acre parks in four different sections of the city also merits careful consideration.

Santa Ana undoubtedly is one of the finest cities in the Southland. It has magnificent public and office buildings. It contains a community of happy homes and families.

Addition of several parks, such as are proposed, would add, we believe, to the pleasure of life and would provide civic ornaments of which all could be proud.

Mr. Witmer, wisely in our opinion, does not suggest that these parks be developed at once. He proposes instead that the sites be acquired and used as farm land until the growth of Santa Ana makes advisable their conversion for public enjoyment and recreation.

In this way, the park sites could be purchased at lower prices probably than will prevail in the future, and the income received by the city between the time of purchase and the time of development might pay the entire cost—with the net result that the city actually would get the land free!

Both the proposal to make a $4,000 yearly savings through refinancing delinquent bonds and to use the money toward a logical, long-range park program seem to come under the head of sound, common sense.

They deserve study by proper authorities in the interests of a happier, fuller life for Santa Ana people in the great years ahead of this region.

Whimsies

of O. O. McIntyre

I hope they are satisfied. They've finally dragged me off to the photographers. With all my worries I must sit here and simpler. If they display a print of it in the cabinet outside I know a dandy caption: Droopy Trousers at Bay!

Or with my dandruff I could shake my head and they could use it for one of those end pieces in the Saturday Evening Post: Snow Scene in the Himalayas. I know now why Hal Phyc wears Indian moccasins. So he can sneak up on you. Next time he yanks my head I'm going to clap my hands sharply and say, "See here now!"

He says he wants to get a shot that has verve and elan. Well, this is not my day for verve. Or elan either. Indeed I feel one of my dour moods coming on. Gaze right through here! Notice those grim lines. I had those before my 1929 crying spell. Right after the crash.

A fellow with a phiz like mine should have Gary Cooper for a stand-in. The last time I was photographed they had me leaning on a cane looking soulful and I had to threaten to sue a patent medical concern. They were using it for a kidney pill ad. You know, before taking!

Whenever a photographer begins to lurk I know he is stumped. And he's been lurking all over the studio. Popping out trying to catch me off guard. Why can't I look sullen, if I choose? Who wants to see my face anyway? Nobody, that's who. I told you I'd be crying in a minute. Work like a dog all your life and what do you get? Well, your photograph taken for everybody to snicker at, that's what. Go on, snap me through my tears. It will be the last picture you or anyone else will take. And stop that crouching.

I think I'll tell him about standing too close to that open fire at Dick Berlin's and scorching the nap off my new brown Earl Benham overcoat. Maybe I can start him crying, too. If he got to sobbing he might stop lurking. I suppose this lump in my throat will show up like a goitre. But it doesn't matter. What does anyone care? This bright and beautiful wintery day—body gay—that's almost poetry—bright and beautiful day with everybody gay. Now I've lost the thread. That shows my state of mind. On top of everything I have to lose the thread. Speaking of thread, did your grand-mother ever send you to the general store for a spool of Clarke's O. N. T. No. 40? I must grow calm. Suppose Lily Pons or some of the girls came in and saw me in a tantrum.

I'll straighten up, pass my hand over my face and try to look debonaire. Look, doesn't that expression suggest someone? Remember Noel Coward looking out to sea in "Private Lives"? No, I don't believe I want to look like Noey-weey. I know whom I want to look like. Give up? Gene Tunney, that's who. Using whom that way shows how near collapse I am. I can't stand the strain of all this much longer. Not with my one red corpuscle.

Perhaps with my pallor I better try to look wistful. O dear! the Narcissus boys peering coyly into the pool wondering about the room rent or something. Once in the mirror it struck me there was a glint of the poetical. If I could just saddle up and borrow a flowing tie we might get somewhere yet. I'm skinny enough for a starved poet. Heaven knows! He's lurking again and sliding screens. Eureka! He has it. I'm just to relax and hold a book. Something litry. The book worm at ease. I'll act as though just nonchalantly turning the page, rapt in reverie. Maybe I'd better be feeling my chin. And chuck in just a tweet of a smile. One of those Woolworth Mona Lisa versions.

Stand back and give me air! Now he wants laughter. From grave to gay in a whisker. Laughing has never been my major charm. In the saloon days after some live wire had told a funny story I'd chuckle "Har, har, har. I'll have another beer!" But I was never a Sunny Jim nor even on pay days. Anyway, how can I roar heartily with this bridge work? At best it will only be a sick grin. One of those that go with "Nay, nay, sire, I'm only slightly wounded. Just a thrust through the shoulder. I can make it to the castle!" Everybody quiet while I struggle to beam. Here it comes! I know, not much to it. Something between a jackass in tired bray and a hoot owl with the yaps. But it's the best I can offer. So cut yourself in on it—with love and kisses!

(Copyright, 1936)

Life does go on, and if it did not go on and change—and what a strange contradiction this is—it could not remain the same.—The Rev. Dr. Donald B. Aldrich, New York.

We Christians must not be weathercocks, blown about by whatever forces sweep around us.—Bishop William T. Manning.

EVERYDAY MOVIES

By Denys Wortman

MOPEY DICK AND THE DUKE
"Why didn't you clean the coffee pot after you heated the mulligan in it last night, Mopey?"

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Probably if it had not been for the interest of a tousel-headed North Carolina farm boy in soil chemistry 30 years ago, the administration would be without its demolished and defunct AAA. The boy in question was Hugh H. Bennett, author of the soil erosion act which is rescuing the New Deal from the dilemma in which it was placed by the supreme court's AAA decision.

It was while working his way through the University of North Carolina that Bennett took up the study of soil chemistry. After returning to the farm, he kept up this interest, later took a civil service examination and received appointment to the soil chemistry section of the department of agriculture.

SOIL EROSION
One day Bennett received a letter from an old neighbor asking why it was that the soil on a ridge was less fertile than that in the lowland.

The inquiry started Bennett on a study of soil erosion. He became so impressed with the colossal toll erosion was taking of the nation's land that he determined to devote his life to combating it.

In the years that followed he succeeded in securing the enactment of the first soil conservation law in the U. S. From this start he obtained the assistance of Representative James P. Buchanan, Texas, in putting through a $150,000 appropriation for 10 soil experimentation stations.

It was an obscure clause in the National Industrial Recovery act—inserted at the suggestion of Bennett—that opened the way for soil protection on a large scale.

The clause authorized the expenditure of public works funds for erosion control. Following this, FWA Administrator Ickes set up a FWA bureau of soil erosion, allotted it $14,000,000, and—at the suggestion of Secretary Wallace—placed Bennett in charge. A year later, Bennett directed the drafting of the soil erosion act, which received the active support of the President and was put through congress.

It created the soil conservation bureau, under the department of agriculture, and gave it wide powers to carry out its work. Bennett was made chief of the bureau and now supervises a vast land conservation program in which are employed 90,000 CCC youths, 30,000 relief workers and 5000 permanent civil service employees.

LIFE-SAVER
The soil erosion act is the present life-saver in the administration's farm program dilemma. The law is one of the shortest ever enacted by congress, yet it authorizes one of the most sweeping grants of power in the history of the federal government.

Under it the government, for the purpose of "preserving natural resources," can extend financial aid to farmers, accept contributions in services or money, acquire lands, finance state, local and private conservation agencies and projects, and enter into agreements with land owners designed to further the purposes of the law.

That the act is on the statute books is due chiefly to one of the strangest lobbies in the history of legislation. Its original sponsor in the house was Mrs. Isabella

Twenty-Five Years Ago

JAN. 25, 1911

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Vegeley entertained a few friends yesterday evening in honor of the former's birthday. The invited list included Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. McMurray, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Angle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Clapp, Mrs. Gertrude Limbrocker and Miss Gertrude Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Yarnel informally entertained the whist club of which they are members and a few friends at the Richmond last night. Progressive whist was played and prizes were won by Mrs. J. W. Shaul and W. A. Huff, and consolation by Mrs. J. D. Thomas and O. K. Forgy. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames J. R. Porter, J. I. Clark, Arthur Lyon, Frank Remsburg, H. T. Rutherford, H. D. Connel and Park S. Roper.

Farmers are feeling satisfied now that everything will be all right for the rain yesterday and today has seemingly made the crop situation safe beyond a doubt. From 7 p. m. yesterday up to the same hour this morning .62 of an inch of rain had fallen and considerably more was added during the day.

A very excellent program is being arranged for the Ebbl meeting at Elks hall next Saturday. Mrs. Clarence Leonard Day, vocalist, and Mrs. Will B. Julian, reader, and Clarence Gustlin, pianist, will give the program.

It is not that we are illiterate, but we simply have not realized the aims of the nation's founders. We ignore the thoughts of great thinkers and make heroes of gangsters and ball players.—Dr. Everett Dean Martin, New York.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

The Simple Life Also Is A Mediocre One

THE OLD DAYS of the simple life, when sunup and sundown followed each other in placid succession. No hurry, no clamor, no telephones, no radio crooners, no endless blather, no short jump betwixt the quick and the dead, no nothing. So we try to imitate what our grandfathers did, making our light bulbs look like candles, or putting them in old lamps; trimming the fireplace to look like a warming glow of long ago. A touch of homesickness weighs down in the hearts of all. We crave succor from the hullo-balloo and weariness and nerve maddening pace.

But, as a thoughtful friend points out, this is the simple life which we are chasing today. We need light, and push a button. What simpler thing to do! No candles or lampwicks to trim, no snelly kerosene to pour. We want to run down town. Strip in to a waiting car. No effort at all. We need a loaf of bread. Call the grocer. The room is chilly. Light the gas or turn a switch. Hair needs cutting. The barber is waiting. An age of plenty is always a simple age.

But the olden day was a complex life. Endless succession of interminable duties. Wrestling a living from an age of scarcity. Smiting the rock in search of abundant streams and getting the merest trickle. Everything to eat,

The People

This department belongs to The People. Letters to the editor on various subjects are welcomed and will be published, provided they do not contain abusive and personal references. Their publication does not necessarily imply the opinions of the Journal. Letters must be signed, although signatures will be omitted upon request.

NEW TAX PLAN

To the Editor: William R. Hearst by deciding "to move away from it all"—(California's taxation plans)—to a more congenial location may have overlooked the opportunity to take his large landholdings with him, though it is not at all likely that he has forgotten to look on to any possible land rents or potential prices for the same that might be charged against the productive forces of labor and capital in the future.

Mr. Hearst will undoubtedly hold on to these publicly serviced and socially enhanced land sites—while continuing to reap the "benefits" of public expenditures on or at his land locations. But will he dare to take his journals away, too?

Unhappily he will avoid doing so. For he must keep his papers handy yet awhile in order to take advantage of his opportunity to assail the proposed constitutional amendment—that calls for the repeal of certain sales taxes and the abandonment of taxes upon homes, improvements, and other products of labor; as well as for the more honest and proper assessment and the public collection of new revenue system of the land rents—that are now annually missing from the public tax lists!

Would not Mr. Hearst like to vote against this proposal at the next elections?

The moving spirit and author of the tax relief proposal is Judge Jackson H. Ralston of Palo Alto, who with other proponents of the Sales Tax Repeal association, have renewed their state campaign for the adoption and enactment (at the next state elections) of this desirable legislation.

WALDO J. WERNICKE.

MODERN MARRIAGE

To the Editor: Divorce has grown to be one great joke. The sacredness of marriage has been lost in a maze of worldly passion. Divorce should be done away with and people made to live and hold other in peace and harmony, and not like a couple of spoiled children.

Both the married men and women of today lack the stamina and intestinal fortitude of our forebears. Fifty years ago divorce was considered a disgrace, now it is treated as a great joke and it is nothing for a person to divorce and remarry a number of times. What do married people expect of marriage, a bed of roses?

E. J. EICHLER.

Remarkable Remarks

The American people won't have as their President a man by the name of Hoover.—Norman Thomas, Socialist leader.

About the only people who read poems any more, for the most part, are those who write poems.—Booth Tarkington, novelist.

The end of the AAA means the end of Roosevelt. The administration can no longer hold the farmers, and with the farmers and industrialists beyond control through regimentation Mr. Roosevelt cannot be re-nominated.—Gov. Eugene Talmadge, Georgia.

It is not that we are illiterate, but we simply have not realized the aims of the nation's founders. We ignore the thoughts of great thinkers and make heroes of gangsters and ball players.—Dr. Everett Dean Martin, New York.

My experience has convinced me that we should also have dated doughnuts as well as dated coffee, just to keep history straight and doughnuts fresh.

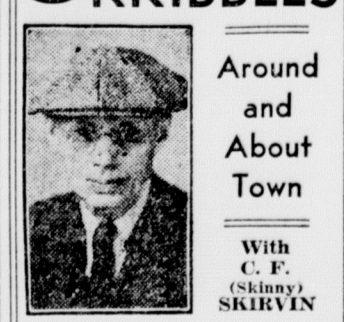

So many of my beach friends have been in lately that I am becoming suspicious. In respect to ownership, I find myself somewhat in the same predicament as Harry Carr, when he was with us. I own some beach lots. But there isn't the remotest probability that there will ever be a house upon them constructed with my money. I own something which I will always own.

Friend sends me a poem which pays tribute to "The Man With the Shield," by Mrs. Walter R. Kreps of Los Angeles. This party suggested that I may want to make some comment. If I did it would have to be favorable, both from the standpoint of poetic ability and credit bestowed. But so far as the records reveal up to date there isn't any reason which I know of why this department should throw any bouquets to the "force," although there is no objection if you wish to do so. What I've been trying to say is I'm even with the men with the shield up to date.

When an autoist who had parked his car at the corner of Fifth and Main started to move his machine he also moved the one following. The bumpers had locked. Would that be a felony or an embarrassment?

When one of the members of the "Rabbie" Burns society informed me the menu for the anniversary dinner tonight would include haggis, it just aroused an inquiry as to whether it would include roast beef, and it did. My acquaintance with haggis is no as intimate as that of Russ Monro, Alex Brownridge, Bob Brown, "Jammie" Walker, Walter Young and many others, and I thought if I confined my attention to a roast I'd feel more at home and better the next morning. I can take the "wee black," but when you mix onions with liver, lights and hearts, well, the onions alone would be enough.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

When a business man goes by a place where a drawing is in progress and his wife is with him with a number for the drawing in her purse, it's mighty tough for the b. m. to tell her she wouldn't hold the winning number, and not to bother about it. But wife! did both, and got out of the car to get the evidence. Even a promise to give her the amount of the drawing should she win and not be present to claim the award was unavailing. There is just one way to convince a woman and that is to let her convince herself. And it saves an argument.

"And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights." But that was when Noah took a boat ride. "And the rain descended and the floods came," but that is the parable of the wise man who built his house upon a rock. And still Orange county hasn't solved the water conservation problem.

Some fellow who claimed to have a good memory said to me there were 31,173 verses in the Bible. When you find out come in and tell me. I'm going to be rather busy for the next two weeks, and I would like to know if the party who made that statement knew what he was talking about, or just guessing.

Most of the town bachelors I know are arranging their vacation to begin February first, and ending Saturday midnight, Feb. 29.

Give the street sweeper a fair chance. If you want a clean town help make it that way. But when your car stands at the curb all night long, and the street sweeper wants to use the space to pick up the rubbish and dirt, how can it be done when your car is in the way? Some of the finest compliments I have heard about this city have come from tourists who expressed their surprise and approval of our cleanliness. You can help or hinder.

Met Eddie Marble rollin' along Fourth street and when the conversation turned to a subject with an historical complex Eddie remarked that was water which had gone over the dam, and it occurred to me that was the answer to our flood control problem.

There is such a thing as the call of the wild, and another the call of the ocean. The heating waves against the side of a fishing boat have a charm for Sam Sender, which mountain, plain or desert do not supply. So from now, henceforth and forever more, Sam hopes to devote an occasional day to fishing in the Mexican waters, and to renew his acquaintance with the fish. Sam says along about this time of the year they are expecting him, and he likes to keep his appointments.

My experience has convinced me that we should also have dated doughnuts as well as dated coffee, just to keep history straight and doughnuts fresh.

So many of my beach friends have been in lately that I am becoming suspicious. In respect to ownership, I find myself somewhat in the same predicament as Harry Carr, when he was with us. I own some beach lots. But there isn't the remotest probability that there will ever be a house upon them constructed with my money. I own something which I will always own.

Friend sends me a poem which pays tribute to "The Man With the Shield," by Mrs. Walter R. Kreps of Los Angeles. This party suggested that I may want to make some comment. If I did it would have to be favorable, both from the standpoint of poetic ability and credit bestowed. But so far as the records reveal up to date there isn't any reason which I know of why this department should throw any bouquets to the "force," although there is no objection if you wish to do so. What I've been trying to say is I'm even with the men with the shield up to date.

When an autoist who had parked his car at the corner of Fifth and Main started to move his machine he also moved the one following. The bumpers had locked. Would that be a felony or an embarrassment?

When one of the members of the "Rabbie" Burns society informed me the menu for the anniversary dinner tonight would include haggis, it just aroused an inquiry as to whether it would include roast beef, and it did. My acquaintance with haggis is no as intimate as that of Russ Monro, Alex Brownridge, Bob Brown, "Jammie" Walker, Walter Young and many others, and I thought if I confined my attention to a roast I'd feel more at home and better the next morning. I can take the "wee black," but when you mix onions with liver, lights and hearts, well, the onions alone would be enough.

FIVE STAR WEEKLY

Section of
Santa Ana Journal
Saturday, Jan. 25, 1936

Entire issue copyrighted by Five Star Publishing Corporation. Reproduction without permission prohibited. Great Britain rights reserved.

ONCE again intrepid American pioneers have found and conquered a new frontier. Epochal are the flights of the great clipper ships of the air that link the American mainland, Hawaii, and the Orient together in the beginning of a great new era on the Pacific. History, colorful and exciting is being woven into a tapestry of American achievement on which all the world gazes admiringly.

View of London ranch house (left) willed with entire estate to his wife, "for joy and happiness she has given me"; her favorite picture of author (circle); and Charmian London (at desk).

"Wildcats" of the West—No. 2
MADAME DUMONT
NOTORIOUS "GAMBLING LADY" OF NEVADA'S GOLD TOWNS

A GENTLEWOMAN and a gambler! Such was Nevada City's stamp of approval placed on Madame Dumont, another "Wildcat of the West," along about the time that this picturesque mining town was in its most flourishing hey-day back in 1854.

Quietly this little dark vivacious woman arrived in Nevada City, and there, always beautifully gowned, and retired behind her own locked doors. Soon she opened a gambling establishment where vint-et-un was played and where men of culture and those assuming culture played, played without excessive smoking or drinking. Evening garb became the rule and modesty of conversation predominated to such an extent that the little French proprietress was one of the highly respected women of the community. The establishment was discussed wherever western gold and gambling entered conversation.

The little woman had the charm to keep all men happy and pleased and was grace itself. Her beauty was often the toast of the town and her reputation and emotions always above discussion. Soon the business thrived until it became necessary to take in a male partner—which was the beginning of the end. Disagreements arose and both partners left Nevada City, each going his own way.

EVENTUALLY one picks up the trail of Madame in Boise City, and in Bannock—in fact in many gold mining towns of the West. She seemingly had the gift of being able to draw the crowds but was faced with the fact that not all mining communities cared as much for formality in gambling as did Nevada City, and so the process of continuing as a gentlewoman and a diplomat grew increasingly difficult, until it is reported that often her establishments were raided by rowdy groups bent upon doing as they pleased, playing and drinking in the roughest manner. Little by little this became the custom, until in many of the later communities it seems her house was no more respectable than any gambling place and her reputation no more spotless than the average woman in the public eye in mining towns.

Although she grew older and heavier and although her character and reputation suffered considerably in the process, never did Madame fail to conduct herself as though she were the most charming and petted darling of the West.

Her nature seems to have been a paradox. Those in need found that they could dine at her place without paying and she was always gracious about their needs. On the other hand it is reported that once she called the law and disposed of a murdered man as calmly as she would have ordered the groceries for the week.

The end came to Madame by her own hand apparently, for her body was found one morning on a road near Bodie, California, with an empty bottle of poison by her side. There was no plea for understanding nor any word explaining. It was simply that one of the famous characters of the West had gone quietly out of the picture leaving contradictory stories to explain the fact that a French woman had been clever at gambling.

Jack London Still Alive To His "Forgotten Widow"

His Fame Must Be Undying, Declares Charmian, Who Keeps His Home and His Desk Just as He Left Them

CHARMIAN London is a "forgotten widow" who will not let her husband die!

The truth of the matter is that Jack London is as alive today in the public consciousness as he was twenty years ago—because his "Mate woman", his "bribe for living" will not let the world forget!

One night, twenty years ago, Jack London leaned forward, head bent low on his desk, and dropped the shuttle with which he wove the vivid colored tapestries of life and romance—dropped it before he was half finished with his book "Cherry"—and Charmian, "mate woman", picked it up and begun tying the loosed ends.

JACK'S will is a testimony that marriage can be happy—it is a monument to be viewed by the thousands who have doubted that any union could spell companionship, who have faced the vacuum of life with an aching void for "something that is not." Just as he found the responsive cord in human breasts with his carefully woven tales of the sea and life and love, so he found in marriage a reason for living, and mentions it in the London will which reads: "I give all my estate to my wife, Charmian K. London, for the following reason: Charmian K. London by her personal fortune, and, far more, by her personal aid to me in my literary work, and still vastly more, by the love and comfort and joy and happiness, she has given me, is the only person in this world who has any claim or merit earned upon my estate. This merit and claim she has absolutely earned, and I hereby earnestly, sincerely, and gratefully accord it."

Mrs. London, in speaking of Jack's work table as he left it to keep that too-early rendezvous with death says, "there lay the unfinished manuscript of 'Cherry' just as he had laid down his pen. There in that moment, looking at what was but an example of the myriad things he had left, in a flash it came to me:

"My life cannot be long enough to mend the broken things—to carry on the tasks that are left for me."

To capture the essential Charmian London—the girl who enlivened Jack London's imagination for a dozen vivid years—one can read his novel, "The Little Lady of the Big House." The heroine is based upon this actual "Little Lady" (she is very small and dainty). Charmian herself will insist that the character is much idealized and further confides that a good deal of the idealization was worked upon by herself in collaboration with her husband! But the essential character drawing is real of the model. The fact that Jack died, her lover, and that today she lives on spurred and heartened by that devotion, goes to prove that the character's taking of her own life was a sheer figment of the imagination—a dramatic rounding of the author's dramatic conception.

CHARMIAN has lately been reading the "Little Lady of the Big House" and is astonished at how much of her inner quality was used by Jack. "The things that based his love for me, and kept it alive", she says, "are shadowed forth in those pages. Although I typed daily every word of his thousand daily words, as I did for those dozen years, I was too close to the manuscript with a critical eye to realize as I do now, how much he really knew of the basic me."

In the flyleaves of his two last published books, within a few weeks of his death, he wrote inscriptions forever engraved upon Charmian's heart. One of them ended:

"And I want to get up on top of Sonoma Mountain, and shout to the world about you and me!"

But her greatest gemstone is what he said to her the night before his death, suddenly, as from a full appreciation of their passionate comradeship. After his goodnight kiss as he went toward his sleeping porch, he turned and looked, what neither knew to be his last upon her face and said, "Thank God you are not afraid of anything."

This is the manner in which Jack London's widow is carrying on. She has in her own words, "Years, but no age." She is as she always was, living life joyously, with a nearly unassailable philosophy of life.

SHE is building today the great house which she and Jack dreamed about 20 years ago—she sells his works to motion picture companies that she may carry out his dreams—she is rewriting her two volume life of Jack London, condensing into one volume that the younger generations of today may know the great novelist—and she keeps his name before the European and American public just as though he were writing today. His works are still in demand.

Quite young, she decided that what she calls her pseudo talents were not the end and aim of her, but gifts to be used in the art of living. She proceeded on that line. And perhaps Jack's sensitive knowledge of that particular tendency was one strong pull toward her. It was the thing he looked for in women, and seldom found. It took brains, that was the thing. He found that she had a fine philosophy of marriage, developed from observation of the lamentable and unnecessary failure she saw all about.

In one letter to Jack written during their engagement years, she said, "One thing must be. Never in our marriage, never, must our love life become commonplace." Jack's answer, which she still cherishes was, "I have read your letter. Never, until I myself become commonplace, shall our love life become commonplace. And I think that will never be." This comradeship of mental processes dominated the picture of their married life and its memory dominates the life of Charmian today.

Charmian London has no illusions of herself. She believes that her happiness found its roots in rainbows and now maintains that she has found her rainbows' ends! The "full art of living" makes her life, each day, an adventure worth recognizing, and keeps her much the same girl she was at twenty, when she formulated the wise concept of putting "pseudo talents" to work.

"THREE things I do best, or rather did best," she laughs, "if any! They are playing accompaniments, riding horses and dancing. They all call for the same quality, sympathy, following and team work. Figure it out. With the dancer, sympathetic following of the partner, and team work with him. With the horse the same thing; and the same with a singer. My adjustments are made that way, when made (we all have our lapses), in every step of my life. I take a line of least resistance that way. It helps me to preserve happiness, get close to people and things."

"I know what I want and therefore attract what I want—in the smaller things that help the larger affairs that MUST be right. When I do get what I want it remains what I wanted and continue to want. Jack marveled at it and said, 'You lucky woman.' At the same time I think he had a measure of the same characteristic. We were endlessly alike in many ways, understood without much explanation of each other."

The great love Charmian had for Jack years ago she still has for him today. She started saving his original hand-written manuscripts before they were married. "It seemed such a pity seeing them go in the wastebasket," she says. They are now, those twelve years of them, in the steel safety of the renowned Huntington library. "In his own state, as it should be," she says. Of course, she has access to them at any time she needs, for reference, or sentiment. THE SEA WOLF original she still has; literally a cinder from going through the San Francisco disaster of 1906.

SIXTY SECONDS from LIFE

Coincidence

By John Richard Finch

PAUL ALLISON gazed with unseeing eyes out of the window of the speeding northbound train. Sheer despair was mirrored on his face. Oblivious of the world about him, he turned with a start at a voice close beside him.

"Tough break?" The strange man's words momentarily made him a little resentful, but this feeling was dissipated when he turned his head to look into kind gray eyes, alive with sympathy and understanding. He screwed his lips into a wry smile.

"Guess that's what you'd call it. Out of work, broke, pretty discouraged and—well, kind of tired of it all."

"Like to tell me about it?" The voice was resonant, soothing.

Allison's eyes again sought the racing landscape through the train window.

"It all began with an accident back in Portland. A little girl crossing the street. A crazy drunken driver. Luckily I was handy and grabbed her in time. She wasn't hurt, but my leg—pretty badly injured. I was an athletic director at a club. Well, with a bum leg, you know, my job—I patched up pretty well, but athletics were out, and I couldn't seem to get any kind of work. My wife had to go home to her folks with the kiddies, and I—well, you can see for yourself."

"And the child you saved—her folks?"

"Oh, the family was kind enough. Sent their lawyer with an offer to pay my hospital bill. Her father's a big man. I thought for a long time of going to see him about a job, but couldn't let myself in for one of those I-saved-your-daughter-now-give-me-a-job affairs. No, I decided against it. Today, well—I spent my last few dollars on a ticket to Seattle. Had a friend there once who—"

"Who was this man in Portland whose child you saved?" the stranger interrupted.

"Grayson Hall, the food products man."

A tall figure from the seat directly behind Allison and the stranger stood up. His strong, firm chin was not so firm now. His steely eyes soft and misty.

"Young man, your worries are over. You're on the payroll of Hall Food Products right now, and will be as long as we continue to operate. I heard your story. I'm sorry and—ashamed. I'm Grayson Hall."

Allison jumped to his feet. His lips moved but no words came. Hall stepped forward and put an arm about his shoulder. There was silence for a moment. Then Allison turned to the seat where the stranger had been sitting.

"That man! Who was he? I didn't see him go, did you?"

"No—no, I didn't. I don't seem to recall much about him, except hearing his voice as he talked to you. What did he look like?"

"Strange! I can't seem to remember anything except that his eyes were kind and full of understanding. I'd like to thank him. Why, if he hadn't come along, why—why, he must have been sent from heaven."

"Perhaps," nodded Hall. "I'd like to thank him, too. He's given us both something worth while."

Copyright, 1936.

Boom times are coming back to the "ghost towns" of the West. Jim Cain (No. 5), who went to Bodie in 1879, and is still there, examines a piece of the gold ore that is putting the town back on the map. No. 1 shows all that's left today of the once booming town of Aurora, Nevada. No. 2—The saloon and engine house, all that's left to mark the site of Columbia. No. 3—The ghost-like main street of the once proud Silver City, Nevada. No. 4—Coloma, Calif., near which California's first gold was discovered, showing the original main street as it looked in the early fifties.

Ghost Towns of the West Live Again!

Rising Price of Gold Leads to New Booms in Towns Long Since Forgotten

By E. E. Albertson

ONCE again the gold fields of the West are astir and ghost towns that crumbled from thriving mining camps to deserted villages are slowly re-awakening to the intriguing music of thirty-five-dollar-an-ounce gold. Colorful figures of the old days, only a scattered few of whom survive, are turning faded eyes, agleam with a new light, toward the old fields where history was carved out in the days of their youth and the precious yellow metal poured like water from the mountains and the river beds, bringing fabulous wealth to some, a moderate fortune to many, and red-blooded adventure and romance to all.

Jim Cain, who went to Bodie to sell lumber in 1879, when that now almost completely deserted ghost town was at the peak of the gold boom, to become a miner, mine operator, and finally banker, is typical of the "old-timer" with indefatigable faith, who has steadfastly held to the belief that the West is still a storehouse of gold. He has never left Bodie. Now he proudly testifies to the fact that an Eastern syndicate has leased practically the entire town and is soon to begin operation of some of the old mines.

Other ghost towns scattered throughout the mountain regions of California, Arizona, Nevada and the Northwest are being resurrected. Virginia City, Nevada, where Mark Twain once worked as a reporter; Tonopah, Austin and Manhattan in the same state; Jacksonville and Gold Hill in Oregon; Golden and Republic, Washington, all are coming to life.

Jim Cain relates stories of shootings, stage robberies, hangings, and "wide-open" towns.

"Bodie had a population of more than 10,000 people in 1879," he said. "There were sixty saloons. Everybody packed a couple of rods. Gambling was mostly cards. I don't recall any roulette in Bodie. There were plenty of shootings — most of them over claim jumping and cards, and sometimes over women. The most excitement came whenever the Cluggage Stage Line, which ran from Carson to Bodie, was held up. This happened often, and the biggest haul ever made was $100,000. The man who held up the stage was captured and sent to jail for twenty years, but he hid the money before he was caught and spent twelve years in jail before he would tell the hiding place."

THE automobile, the radio, electric lights and power have wrought great changes in the life of the miner and prospector. Much of the loneliness and most of the dust which stifled the early adventurers are gone. Though they objected most to the loneliness, it was little worse than the alkali dust that made summer travel a nightmare, and with the arrival of the winter rains the roads became almost impassable. Whereas it once required the labor of 2000 heavy freight teams blanketed with summer dust or toiling belly-deep in the mud and snow of the Sierra passes to supply the mines of Virginia City, the motor truck now glides easily through the mountains on smooth, hard-surfaced roads. The mines of the Boise basin were once a month's hard freighting from The Dalles and a great deal more from Sacramento. Today they can be reached in a few hours by motor truck from the main line of the Union Pacific.

Law and order has reigned in the gold towns and ghost towns for many years. Many things have changed with the years, but man's desire for gold remains the same.

Today their old mining men relive the great days in Thunder Mountain, Tonopah, Goldfield, Virginia City, Oatman, Republic, Rawhide, Randsburg, and Rhyolite. They retell the old tales of how Jim Butler chasing his straying burros across the shoulder of Mount Mizpah found Tonopah; and how, if Jim had not been too lazy to stake his claims, they would have lapsed before he got enough money to get an assay, and he would have lost the discovery and $2,000,000. They relate how Hayes and Monnette, followed a narrow stringer of high-grade for weeks, found the great bonanza at Goldfield from which was shipped the richest carload of ore ever taken from a Western mine, and how for ten years following the discovery of gold in California the goldseekers poured across the Nevada desert and around the base of Mount Davidson without ever dreaming that they were passing up the greatest of all bonanza camps, passing it even when they could pan in the gulch at its very foot. Nevada gold meant nothing to them. California was their El Dorado.

GONE completely are ghost towns like You Bet and old Horsetown. Where You Bet once stood on the high ground between the forks of the Bear River, is today only a vast hole in the ground. The great monitors employed in the hydraulic operations, did their work well. Horsetown, a few miles from Old Shasta, also is no more. Only the bare upturned rocks of its former site remain to tell of the restless energy of the early gold seekers. Red Dog has fared better, though only a single store still stands. It was one of Red Dog's early boosters who claimed that the California trees were so tall it took a pine squirrel three weeks to make the trip up and down.

Rough and Ready, which once looked down with disdain upon the hopeful little camp of Grass Valley, is reduced to a single hotel-and-postoffice. Its rich placers were soon exhausted, whereas Grass Valley's quartz mines went down and down until they became one of the mining wonders of the West. Their workings extend for 125 miles beneath the town and to a present depth nearly two miles on an incline.

Bidwell's Bar has vanished, except for the old jail and an ancient orange tree. A few miles away Forbestown is showing a stir of activity. Old Columbia, whose rise marked the flood tide of the 50's, sleeps peacefully in the Tuolumne sun. Its golden days are over and it now lives primarily as a mecca for tourists.

In Southern Oregon, always regarded as a rich pocket country, most of the old districts are astir with new activity. At Jacksonville, which was the center of the pioneer industry in the 50's, extensive work is in progress undermining the town with drift tunnels. Gold Hill, too, is making an effort to come back, and several dredges have been installed at various points on the Rogue River.

IN Washington, in the Republic District a number of old properties are in operation. West of Oroville, the Triune is attempting to instill life in the old ghost town of Golden, a camp which was almost completely forgotten as Weheseville, which is also beginning to show signs of activity. At Loomis, a picturesque spot near the Spectacle Lakes, mining men are again talking of Palmer Mountain and John Boyd's famous tunnel.

It is fitting that an account of the ghost towns should end with a reference to Coloma, for Coloma is the place where the great gold rush started in '49, and the spot from whence it spread. Coloma today boasts little more than a gas station, an ancient cemetery, and the Marshall monuments. It is no doubt very much the same as it was when Marshall and Bennett found it, except that today a dredge in the river bed may be heard washing gravel—the only remaining evidence of the great gold rush of '49 in Coloma and one of the most romantic and colorful periods of American history. Columbia, Esmeralda, Orofino, Vulture, and a hundred others may have produced more gold, but they cannot take from Coloma the distinction of being the place where one man's curiosity regarding a handful of gravel changed history.

★★★★★ And the Camera Caught It! ★★★★★

No. 2 of a Series of the World's Most Unusual News Photographs

This unusual photograph, probably the only one ever made of an actual holdup, was taken by flashlight through the window of a roadhouse between Marion and Harrisburg, Ill., while members of the Birger gang were robbing the place and searching for rival gangsters. The muzzle of a pistol is pressed between the shoulder blades of the man at the extreme right, while the gangster with a handkerchief over his face holds a Thompson sub-machine gun. At the left, another gunman is taking a revolver from the pocket of one of the roadhouse customers. The gangsters shot through the window at the photographer when they saw the flashlight go off.

WEST A MOMENT with BUD LANDIS

Maybe we didn't go through a depression, but it was certainly the smallest boom on record.

The wolf—or whatever you call your landlord—was on or about the front steps for quite a spell.

Collectors sang their owed to a delinquency through the transom with monotonous regularity.

But things are so much better that you can look on the bright side of something besides your blue serge suit.

It's time to put your overdraft back in the bank and throw out your chest another belt notch.

Looking backward, however, things weren't so hopeless. There never was a time when any of us couldn't have got himself shipwrecked on a tropical island.

There's a life! A life free from economical stress, earning a living, or any other condition of servitude.

Think of dwelling in a land where you can pick your food and gather your clothes.

A place where hearty meals dangle from the thick tropical overhead, and monkeys bombard you with dessert.

Nothing to do and all day to do it. "Loaf, clown, loaf." Boy! What time does the next wreck leave?

Copyright, 1936.

WEST OF THE DATE LINE by THE OLD SALT

I went to see an old shipmate of mine that was laid up in the marine hospital at Hilo. Seems his ship went down two hundred miles from land and him and ten hands was all that could get a boat free.

"We had," says he, "thirty pounds of salt beef and a beaker of water, and there warn't no reason why we couldn't have made land by steady rowin'. But the calkin' of the boat crawled and she leaked so bad it was all we could do to keep her bailed out, let alone row. I was quartermaster and the hands looked to me to do somethin'. They was plumb crazy with fear and would a-done anything to save themselves. So I tells 'em to stop up the leaks with the beef, it bein' the best thing for caulkin' a boat from the inside. When the leaks was fixed we could row for land and everybody was happy and mighty grateful to me for my ideas.

"But pretty soon," says my old shipmate, "the hands commenced gettin' hungry. We warn't no more'n 20 miles off shore by then, but that didn't make no difference. Here and there a feller'd twitch a piece of beef out of a seam and eat it. Then they all started and in half an hour the boat was full of water. I got so plumb disgusted that I took the empty beef tin for a buoy and swum for shore. The rest ain't been heard from."

And I was minded by this yarn of how the big business boys was once a-yellin' for some plan to keep 'em afloat. Well, they're still a-floatin'. But I ain't sure but what they're commencin' to twitch out a piece of caulkin' here and there.

—GILBERT WRIGHT.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

FROM THE STUDIOS and ALONG THE BOULEVARD

by Jane

WE HATE to give movie secrets away like this but when you see Jean Hersholt, the "Country Doctor," gazing anxiously down (supposedly) at the five squirming quintuplets, the chances are he'll be eyeing a keg of nails on a false front set 3000 miles away from Canada's famous clinical ones.

You see the real body of the picture is being made here in the Hollywood studio and the technicians must fit these studio shots to the sequences made at Collander... it's not an easy job. Only a few hundred feet was taken of the five little babies... and all the shots were of scenes in the nursery.

VIRGINIA BRUCE goes the fan dancers one better in "The Great Ziegfeld." She wears a costume of pure white ostrich plumes. The train stretches fifteen yards and is covered with tiny white feathers... it's Adrian in one of his most inspired moments.

Virginia Bruce

And speaking of ostrich plumes, if you are an imaginative movie fan maybe you can visualize two thousand yards of pleated chiffon, ten pounds of silver sequins, twenty-five dozen silvered pheasant tails and five hundred yards of white, bejeweled marabou... certainly a sight for the eyes... they combine in the costumes for the Ziegfeld picture.

Edward Everett Horton has been building a house for ten years in the San Fernando Valley. It started to be a bachelor's apartment over a garage, but it got out of control.

It's a far cry from Marion Marsh to Violet Krauth of Trinidad, British West Indies—but she is one and the same. Marian is saving her money to buy a ranch. She wants a Jersey cow.

STORIES about the practical jokesters in the younger movie set are always coming to my ears. Irene Hervey told me about the gang who got tired of hearing her boast about the largeness of her fireplace in her new Beverly Hills home. This week a huge truck pulled up to her side door with a load of telephone poles. When she questioned the driver, he handed her a note. It read: "We hope these small splinters will take care of that fireplace."

AND pretty June Travis comes forth with the joke about the time a yes-man was fired in Hollywood for absent-mindedly replying "maybe!" Tut, tut, and to think June is the daughter of a vice-president of the Chicago White Sox.

John Barrymore's return to the screen as the happy-go-lucky Mercutio in "Romeo and Juliet," which is still in the making at M-G-M, may indicate his days as a screen lover are over.

Barrymore, considered the screen's most experienced Shakespearean actor, yields the romantic role of "Romeo" to Leslie Howard, who plays opposite Norma Shearer as "Juliet."

William Anthony McGuire, playwright, is planning a three-way return to the legitimate.

He has three completed play scripts. One of the trio is "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and the other two are serious triangles.

Nat Pendleton is much perturbed because his

The film stars take no chances on Old Man Avoirdupois. Left, Dolores Del Rio lunches on a bit of cheese, a cracker and a glass of lemonade. Next: Maureen O'Sullivan is tiny but she stays that way eating asparagus. And Glenda Farrell tries to "kid herself" by having her boiled vegetables served to look like a meat dish. Right is Mary Carlisle, who has been told to take her vegetable soup without the vegetables—and is doing it.

HOW CAN I KEEP THIN?—It's Greatest Worry in Cinema Land Today ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Donna Risher Tells How Movie Maidens Keep Their Slender Figures—and What a Difficult Job It Is Sometimes

By Donna Risher

EVER SINCE Lillian Gish's maid, back in the silent days, followed her mistress around the studio lot with a bunch of raw carrots in her hand to keep Lillian from getting fat, and Ethel Barrymore gnawed eighteen days on grapefruit for the same reason, the over-weight phobia has grown among Hollywood actresses until it now looms as large as a dab of gravy on a white shirt bosom.

In fact, so weight-conscious has everybody become in this land of the celluloid that all life's problems seem to hinge upon the fact that the body must be kept slender. The need amounts to a veritable phobia or fear which has taken possession of every studio player from the youngest to the oldest.

This desire for the body beautiful has gone to such extremes that it has even led to a new trend in conversation. Time was when friends meeting in the studio greeted each other with a "Hello" and "How are you?" Not so today. The lats ring with, "Gee, kid, you've lost a few pounds," or the dismal reverse, "Better be careful. You're eating again."

AND what do the cinema maidens do to maintain their slender figures? How do they get that way in those slap-stick gowns in which only a two-by-four may enter? What, for instance, makes Glenda Farrell, who weighs 110 pounds, look slimmer than Mrs. John Public of Redlands, Calif., who carries the same amount of poundage? The answer is—what don't they do?

A peep into the studio dining rooms tells the story. Here is mute evidence of the silent struggle going on between want and don't.

Begin with blond Glenda. In her attractive lunch nook Glenda is facing her daily diet but she's playing a game, she says, to make herself like it. She has ordered the studio chef to decorate and disguise her "must" rations to make them look like "something else." The dish actually consists of boiled carrots, celery and turnips but they are dolled to look like a meat dish. But Glenda isn't fooled.

"No matter what I do," she opines with a sigh,

"they taste just like their own sweet garden selves."

After a few days of this make-believe food, the blond actress will fall back upon her daily cups of coffee, her regular weight-reducing stand-by.

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN, on the other hand, will try out any recipe or menu recommended at any time by anybody. Asparagus forms the base of every meal, but when hungry she weakens and indulges in a roll of white bread.

Mary Carlisle attributes her good figure to vegetable soup without the vegetables. Jean Harlow goes in for lamb chops. Verree Teasdale's diet of tea and crackers is known to be effective, while Carole Lombard risks a chicken sandwich for lunch.

Gracie Allen indulges in one soft boiled egg and one salty cracker while Dolores Del Rio takes a chance on a glass of water and a small piece of sweet cake.

But the eating part is only the beginning in the reducing business.

Exercises come next—badminton, tennis, bicycling, swimming and polo. Unlike the average citizen who goes in for sports because he likes to play, actresses must exercise their muscles for business reasons. They must scientifically take off pounds in the right places.

FOLLOWING the physical work-outs come the body massages. This is accomplished by Hollywood's many experts in this line who have flocked here from all corners of the globe and who are getting rich off the hoard of actresses who demand their services. These body treatments are considered important, not only because they get the results desired but because many of the stars are too indolent to exercise as they should.

All things considered, it's a sorry business—this job of keeping down weight. It must be gone through day after day and year after year. There is no let-up.

Slim and trim these girls must be. They are resigned to the hardships, they say, and have learned to accept with equanimity their standing order, "No food with my meals, please."

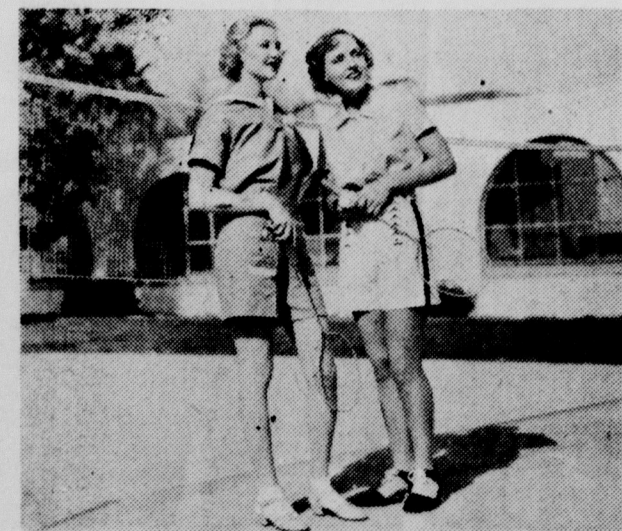

pet snake has gone on a hunger strike. Pendleton bought a Great Dane dog and is now paying more attention to the dog than he is to the snake. The dog doesn't like the snake. The snake doesn't like the dog, and Nat is trying to figure how they are all going to get together.

A picture will arrive in New York this week for Miss Helen Hayes but she doesn't know anything about it yet. The photo will be of Tony, the French poodle, and Tony will have red ribbons on his neck and tail, placed there by Adrian, the designer who now is Tony's master.

Helen gave the poodle to the dress designer when she worked on the M-G-M lot over a year ago. Since that time Tony has grown several inches.

Helen Hayes

Shorts are popular in the film colony. Here are Una Merkel and Madge Evans, ready for a game of badminton. Una's shorts are blue denim, trimmed with white. Madge's are tan pongee with brown cord lacing and braid.

PICTURE PARADE

REVIEWS AND COMMENT

By Gail Gardner

IN "CAPTAIN BLOOD," the producers (Warner Bros.) say they have spent one cool million to make this historical drama of Rafael Sabatini's. This assertion seems justifiable after one has seen the pretentious and meticulous mountings of this, their very latest effort in high-bracket pictures.

The settings are tremendous, designed by master builders on a momentous scale. Great sailing vessels, massive in size and full-battered, are the work, par excellence, of skillful craftsmen. The ancient English villages which provide the locale for the first part of the picture are exceptionally well done. And it is undoubtedly this accurate and infinite detail as to mountings which has shot up the cost of production.

The title role of Captain Blood introduces Errol Flynn, a handsome dashing young Irishman, who was brought to America from the London stage for the part.

He is seen as Peter Blood, in the opening sequences of the picture, enjoying life as a physician in an old English village. A rebellion against the King breaks out and the Irish doctor refuses to have anything to do with it. He does dress the wound, however, of his friend (David Torrance) when the latter gets hurt in the fighting.

For his humanitarian act Peter Blood is arrested as a rebel, convicted and sent to the West Indies as a slave. There he is sold to the highest bidder (Olivia de Havilland), the niece of a plantation owner. Embittered with the country which has enslaved him, Blood with the assistance of friends escapes and decides upon a career of piracy.

At this point action piles upon action as only Sabatini, augmented by a corps of Hollywood writers, can graphically fictionalize it. The story's suspense holds to the last, climaxing in an ending slightly "different."

IN "CHATTERBOX" youthful Anne Shirley is introduced in a sentimental, lavender and old lace type of story, characterized by a few spots of good comedy and some weaker satire.

Playing the little country girl who tries to make good on Broadway in an 1890 revival, Miss Shirley works hard to make her role believable. In this she is aided and abetted by a young sophisticate, Phillips Holmes, who is in love with her. That seems to be about all there is to the plot. The picture will, no doubt, serve the purpose for which it was made, namely to attract the customers of junior college age.

FOR MYRNA LOY'S return to the screen after a long absence her fans will wish she had something more logical than "Whipsaw." While the vehicle lacks plausibility, it still is an improvement on some of the G-men films that abound these days in large numbers.

Miss Loy, a beautiful jewel thief without a single good line to speak, keeps Spencer Tracy, a government man, interested in her.

The plot moves along with Tracy and his lady thief on a cross country chase. While Tracy travels with her, pretending to be her protector, some other jewel thieves follow them, hoping for a cut. It takes rented cars, taxis and airplanes to take the couple from New York to St. Louis, when finally in a storm they arrive at a farmhouse out of good old St. Louis and there assist at—what do you guess?—a birth. Yep, a birth.

Again the plot turns. Miss Loy becomes remorseful about her past. Spencer discovers he loves Myrna.

Anne Shirley

Variety Is Spice of Life; Also It's Spice of Cookery

Novel Forms of an Old Theme Suggested to Brighten Up Everyday Meals

By VIRGINIA ROSS
Home Economics Editor

CHANGING the finger—or at least a great desire to do so—is undoubtedly the favorite feminine sport! Shapes change from year to year as the fashions come and go—or rather—they should. We talk about it enough.

And yet with all this hue and cry, potatoes come to the table with jackets, jacketless or mashed, or mashed always in the same crack ed bowl. Pork chops sprawl their ungainly shapes against the sloping sides of a yellowing platter and fruit salad remains a weak-kneed tower of mixed fruits on a depraved wilted lettuce leaf.

Course I adore lamb chops and dote on fluffy clouds of mashed potatoes but foods, like people, can't always wear the same clothes.

And so we bake the potatoes, carefully scoop them out of their skins, mash 'em to a feathery lightness and heap them back into the shells, giving them a flourish of cheese and paprika before their return to the oven—and oh, what a gustatory bliss.

Or maybe we mash 'em, heap 'em cloud-like—for I have a great dislike for the smooth-browed mound—into a casserole, scoop out the center a bit, pour in a mixture of $\frac{1}{2}$ cup grated American cheese, 1 egg yolk, three or four tablespoons melted butter and set it into a hot oven. The cheesy mixture puffs up, cracks, runs down the sides, or should—what ho—volcano potatoes. A delight for the gods—and husbands. And yet, they're mashed potatoes.

NEW TRICK

SALMON salad is new indeed served in scalloped shells, as is deviled crab. And the same of creamed meats and fish, likely left-over—take on a brand new appearance when served in pop-over or cream puff cases.

Molds fascinate me, the ring mold, melon mold, and fancy shaped pans—fish, heart and such, as well as the smaller individual molds. What a chance to lift jellied salads and desserts out of the ordinary into the unusual realm. Would that we could change our shapes as easily.

Outside of the ring mold, which I use for everything from jellied salads to meat loaf, the melon mold is my favorite. Spanish cream molded in it takes on a new note, there's a clear lemon jelly on top, as it's turned out, a fluffy layer next, and a solid custardy base. Jellied fruit salads are positively beautiful with this melon shape—and the frozen bombs are too good to be true. Though I've delighted just as much in a salmon scallop and a simple ginger pudding steamed in this interesting mold.

FATHER'S DELIGHT

AND every now and then I like to bake a devil's food cake in a deep pie pan, split it when cool, put a butter frosting betwixt and pour chocolate fudge frosting over the outside. Simple, isn't it?

Often for a hasty, tasty luncheon I save the orange shells from breakfast, fill 'em up with fruit salad and serve on crisp lettuce leaves with slices of cold chicken and tiny curry butter sandwiches.

For a company dessert I've served ice cream in tart shells with a caramel or chocolate sauce.

And still another way of changing shapes—your waffle iron. Mine waffles drop biscuit dough for creamed chicken, corn bread, French toast, cheese sandwiches—the butter is spread on the outside slices instead of inside, gingerbread—to be graced with whipped cream or tutti frutti frosting. And shortcake—can you imagine crisp corrugated triangles or squares of butter-rich shortcake with strawberries oozing out the sides and a cloud of whipped cream atop?

Well, anyhow, don't be content with the same old finger! It's worth a bit of experimenting—take it from me!

GRIDDLE CAKES

THE pancake season is here! Many a leisurely Sunday morning repast rejoices in smoking stacks of wheat cakes, swimming in rivers of clear maple syrup.

There's a charm about breakfast which America is beginning to recapture, after several decades of breaking fast with orange juice and black coffee alone. And it's no trick at all to feature that favorite food—pancakes!

If you'd make your own, old-fashioned corn cakes with cream cheese and spicy apple butter are delicious.

CORNMEAL GRIDDLE CAKES

1 cup boiling water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup white cornmeal
1 tablespoon sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
1 egg
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup milk
1 cup flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons melted butter shortening

Pour the boiling water over the cornmeal, sugar and salt; mix well. Let stand until cool. Add beaten egg yolk, milk, flour and baking powder sifted together. Add melted shortening and mix well. Fold in beaten egg white. Bake on a moderately hot griddle, slightly longer than plain griddle cakes.

FOOD CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK

SUNDAY, JANUARY 26

BREAKFAST:
Chilled Tomato Juice
Banana Roll 'Em Ups
Creamed Peas
Bran Sticks Coffee Apricot Jam

MONDAY, JANUARY 27

Banana Roll 'Em Ups—Roll third or half lengths of bananas in strips of bacon. Secure with toothpick. Broil or bake in hot oven until bananas are tender and bacon is crisp. Excellent garnish for vegetable plate.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 28

For dessert—stuff good baking apples with mincemeat and nuts. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 350 degrees until apples are tender. Place a marshmallow on top of each apple for last ten minutes of baking time.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 29

Evening Bridge Refreshments:
Fruit Salad in Orange Shells
Chicken-Olive Sandwiches
Candies Coffee Nuts

THURSDAY, JANUARY 30

Use leftover cold boiled potatoes in a hearty salad by mixing together four medium sized potatoes cubed, 1 fresh cucumber or sweet pickle cubed, 1 stalk celery diced, one medium onion, chopped, salt, pepper. Pour over all $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sweet cream, 2 tablespoons vinegar, two tablespoons melted butter. Blend. Chill.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 31

For a colorful dinner, serve shrimp and celery salad, macaroni and cheese, buttered carrots, cabbage, hot artichokes. Cake and canned peaches.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 1

Ground Hog Day: Arrange seasoned mashed sweet potatoes in a ring on platter. Fill center with fried or baked sausage cakes. Garnish with sautéed pineapple rings and parsley.

LOOKING BACK

The Hennessee family are just average Americans in an average-sized town. Mr. and Mrs. John Hennessee have been living alone while the children, Roy, aged 20, and Mary, aged 18, have been away at the state university. The children have just come home from school for the holiday season and find Mrs. Hennessee (Helen) strangely unhappy, although reluctant to admit it. Mary has gone out with a friend, while Roy is helping his mother with dinner. In the kitchen he catches her crying.

"Why, you great big baby!" soothed Roy, taking his mother in his arms while she wept enthusiastically, half laughing and half crying on his shoulder.

"I—I guess I'm foolish. Only it does seem to me that Dad is strange of late. He is gone so much of the time."

"What's this, a love scene?" asked John Hennessee, coming in, middle-aged looking and yet somehow youngish. There was a flower in his buttonhole. His eyes were dark and very shrewd looking. One instinctively felt that he knew his way around.

Roy looked at his father and then at his mother. "I was just trying to coax mother to buy some new things, Dad," Roy said.

"Oh, Mother doesn't care about clothes. Meals are her long suit these days. She is getting to be quite an expert; did she tell you?"

"Yes, she did. I think it's great, too, but I thought every woman liked clothes and pretty things."

"Oh yes, in a way. Younger women, perhaps. Mother is a pretty practical person, though."

"How would you like baked eggs and cheese, like I fixed the other day, John? It would be nice with dinner and then you'd have lots of eggs tonight."

"That wouldn't be hard to take at all, dear," he answered.

"Put a cup of milk in the double boiler, Roy, and then crush that stale bread in the box up in crumbs and put in about a cupful," she said.

Helen Hennessee sat down and seemed to be looking into the future instead of thinking about wholesome dishes to eat.

"O. K.," said Roy, bringing her back to their problem. "What now?"

"Oh," she exclaimed, startled. "Yes, beat up the yolks of three eggs and put that in along with a tablespoon of butter, and a little salt, and then put it on the fire. Let it cook slowly until the eggs thicken and then when it's still hot add about a cup and a half of grated cheese. You'll find the cheese in the cupboard there. I'm going to run upstairs a moment; I'll be right back. You do that and then I'll tell you what is next."

In a few moments she was back and Roy noticed that her face had been powdered. Could it be to cover any trace of tears? She continued without much emotion, however. "That's about ready. Here, beat up the whites of your eggs, fold them in the mixture and then pour it into those brown individual baking dishes. Before you put it in, however, grease the dishes. We can bake it along with the omelet. They'll take about 25 minutes, but we can have that instead of a second helping of omelet."

Roy noticed his mother's confusion as she talked, and was remembering that she had said she often thought of new clothes. His father picked up a knife, looked at it closely—without seeing it—laid it down again. He walked over to the window and straightened the shade, turned on a side light.

The atmosphere of the kitchen was tense, without any one seeming to make it so.

Thought Roy, "This is tragedy, stark tragedy, somehow. It's as though the body of a murdered man was buried beneath a blooming tulip bed. Sunshine and flowers on top, and death underneath."

"Well, guess I'll wash a bit for dinner," said John, walking wearily out of the kitchen.

Thinking that it might help to get her mind off on something else, Roy encouraged his mother to talk of Mary's new dress she was planning.

"What is it going to be like, Mom?" he asked.

"Well, I've named it 'Romance' in my own mind, but it isn't going to be as expensive as most romances."

Roy let a low whistle escape him. "Boy," he said. "Are you developing a 'cinics ban'—it's plenty good, all the same. Go on."

"You see, it is a smart cocktail frock made of dull satin and an exotic print. It will have a little jacket."

"Sounds like a million dollars, said Roy, meaning it."

"Costs only about $25, actually. With me making it, of course."

A NEIGHBORLY SERIAL OF FOOD AND FASHION ★ THE FAMILY NEXT DOOR ★ BY JEAN RENDLEN

Mary Brings Dick to call on "the family next door."

Mischa Fashions

THIS charming frock (No. 103) with sleeves and collar of dyed lace comes in sizes 34 to 46. Size 36 requires $2\frac{3}{4}$ yards of 39-inch material and $1\frac{1}{4}$ yards of print or lace material. The body of the gown may be made of novelty wool, silk crepe, Canton crepe or faille.

The sleek lines of the youthful cocktail frock (No. 102) lend an exotic charm. It comes in sizes 14 to 20 years and 32 to 40 bust. Size 36 requires $3\frac{1}{4}$ yards of 39-inch print material and $1\frac{1}{4}$ yards of plain material. It may be made of dull satin or crepe.

Enclose 25 cents in coin or stamps. Write your name and address plainly. Be sure to give correct size and fashion number when writing for Mischa Fashion patterns.

Address Mischa Fashions,
FIVE STAR WEEKLY,
Mills Tower Bldg.,
San Francisco, Calif.

Enclose 25 cents for each pattern wanted.

Pattern No.

Size

Name

Street

City

State

STYLE 102

STYLE 103

Stripes Feature Wallpaper Of Modern Homes

STREAMLINED wallpapers for 1936!

The increasing demand for wallpapers which are in full harmony with modern trends in furniture and decoration has led to considerable "streamlining" of papers, the Federal Housing Administration is advised.

Wallpapers with stripes as a dominant feature are hung around a room, instead of up and down the walls as in the traditional manner. This gives the "horizontal" which is an underlying feature of modern decoration and architectural design. It also reduces the number of seams on the wall, and speeds paperhanging.

Women are said to be insisting more and more on style in the items which clothe their homes, and many are reported taking advantage of the credit made available under government-insured financing to redecorate their homes in the modern mode.

SELECT NATIVE TREES

In selecting trees for planting about a residence, take care that those chosen combine the greatest natural beauty with a hardiness and freedom from disease and insect pests in the location where they are to be planted. The form of the tree should be appropriate for the position it is to occupy. Native trees are usually advisable for the reason that they are known to flourish under the soil and climatic conditions of the region.

TUBULAR LIGHTS

Since it often is difficult to get proper light on a large wall bookcase from a lamp, the installation of small tubular lights at the side of each shelf or a cove light above will prove to be a great convenience. These lights will be particularly useful on winter days when room lamps need not be turned on to light the bookcase.

EXTRA SHELVES

When modernizing the kitchen, add two or three shelves over the sink. These may be open or enclosed and will be a convenient location for soaps, scrubbing brushes, and other materials needed near the sink. These shelves may be painted a bright color which contrasts with the main color in the room.

PRESERVE WOOD

There are a variety of methods for the preservation of wood which is subjected to abnormal weather conditions and, in some localities, attacks by termites and other insects.

The effectiveness of any good wood preservative is measured largely by the depth to which the preservative penetrates. There are various ways of applying preservatives, but the most satisfactory means is by impregnation under pressure, and by the use of pressure the penetration is subject to control.

This results in an economical use of the preservative material, because the amount used may be varied to suit the different requirements.

Preservatives will not, however, make weak timbers strong or restore strength to timber which has been partially destroyed by decay or termites. It should be applied only to sound timbers.

UMBRELLA RACK

A handy home gadget is a simple umbrella rack on the inside of the hall closet door. A metal drip pan may be provided below the rack. This simple device may not be unattractive, and it can be painted to match the interior of the closet.

Unique Gardens of West Produce Unusual All-American Novelties By Cecil Solly

BECAUSE of the huge number of new flowers being introduced, all gardeners welcome the functioning of a "selection" committee which, each year, will establish those which are considered to be the most outstanding and useful of the novelties.

Every gardener should study the list of "recommended" varieties and try to find an opportunity and space to use them in the garden. When the Gold Medal is awarded the work is not completed, however. Possibly 20 years ago, the new varieties that are now being brought out were actually "crossed" or brought to life. From the time that a different type or "sport" was found the work commenced.

EACH plant from the original one was carefully grown, the weakly ones and poor types ruthlessly discarded. After a long period of careful elimination and handpicking of the finest, a race of plants is evolved which may or may not be of any use commercially. Imagine, Mr. or Mrs. Gardener, if you had slaved over a type of plant that you thought was good for about 20 years, only to find that it was not outstanding enough to gain recognition. Again, of course, there are a number, so outstanding, that they take the Gold Medal quite easily.

Hundreds of new plants are being grown in test gardens of every large seed house. Many may be the Gold Medal winners in 1940, 1945 or 1950. Who knows? When you are in the vicinity of any large firm's test gardens, invite yourself to look around. Your welcome will be most cordial. You will be shown many amazing and interesting points of interest to gardeners.

It will be an education to you, and an interesting education to a gardener to acquaint yourself with a little of what is going on in the production of new flowers.

BRIGHT RED BLINDS

Interior decorators of the West are now modernizing homes so that the bathrooms and kitchens have walls of white and venetian blinds painted a bright red. The sunlight falling between the blinds casts a new glow over the entire room.

ily steps on as we've all stepped on her heart."

The front door had opened without any one noticing and Mary with a colleague boy in tow came back to the kitchen.

"Rent a hall! Rent a hall!" she teased, not having gotten the import of Roy's speech.

"Yes, I'll rent a hall!" stormed Roy. "And I'll put you in the front row. It's a pretty how-do-you-do when Mom won't make an evening outfit for herself and says it's selfish because she planned it for you!"

Mary stopped, her rouged lips half apart, her eyes looking from one to the other.

A strange silence fell upon the room. For a moment no one spoke and then Mary found her voice.

It was a hushed, awed voice, however. "I don't know what you've said," she began, looking at no one in particular, making no gesture whatever. "I didn't hear it but I think I understand. It's true. Mom has given her life for us, all three of us—and we've charged the bill without paying for the goods. It's odd, but I got to thinking the same thing. We were going to the club for dinner and I remembered the salad Mom had planned for me. Dick said he didn't mind eating with the family—that he had never had one and—I was—thinking—how—much he had missed."

"Sorry, old man," said Roy in a calmer tone, addressing Mary's friend. "It's just a Hennessee home-coming party."

"I'm Mary's mother," interrupted Mrs. Hennessee pleasantly, introducing herself, "and this is her father. We don't usually quarrel like this."

"It must be nice to love somebody enough to quarrel over or about them," said the youth sagely.

Suddenly the phone in the hall rang and Mary started to answer, but her father interrupted. "Never mind, Mary, I'll take it. I expect it's for me."

Mary turned in time to see the pain in her mother's eyes.

(To be continued)

DURABLE PATTERNS

Mischa patterns are accurately cut to size, and are made of strong paper. A simplified cutting chart and practical step-by-step sewing guide are included. Making lovely dresses from Mischa patterns is simplicity itself.

Get Speedy Relief With BAUME "BEN-GAY"

Rub Baume "Ben-Gay" generously, thoroughly into the pain-ridden area.... How quickly it soothes and quiets flashing pain! How soon the ache entirely disappears! Why? Because: this scientific pain-reliever penetrates right through the skin and is actually absorbed by the blood stream, bringing quick relief. You can depend on "Ben-Gay"! Don't suffer needlessly.

RUB PAIN AWAY WITH BAUME "BEN-GAY"

The only true Baume Analgesique

You Can Make a Million—And See the World!

This is Stanley Dollar's Message to America's Youth of Today

IN TOUCH with practically every nation in the world, R. Stanley Dollar, shipping magnate, President of Dollar Steamship Co., and director of many allied interests, gives to the youth of today a stimulating vision of achievement. His knowledge is broad and his understanding human. He holds no brief for unnecessary education, nor the superficial attitude of living. He

By R. Stanley Dollar
(As Told to Staff Writer)

MOST young people have two major ambitions—to see the world and to acquire a million dollars. Both are possible! But before I could recommend these ambitions, especially the latter, as worthy goals in life, I should want to know the individual.

What would he do with a million dollars after he had acquired it? Would he use it constructively in an honest effort to make the world a better place in which to live?

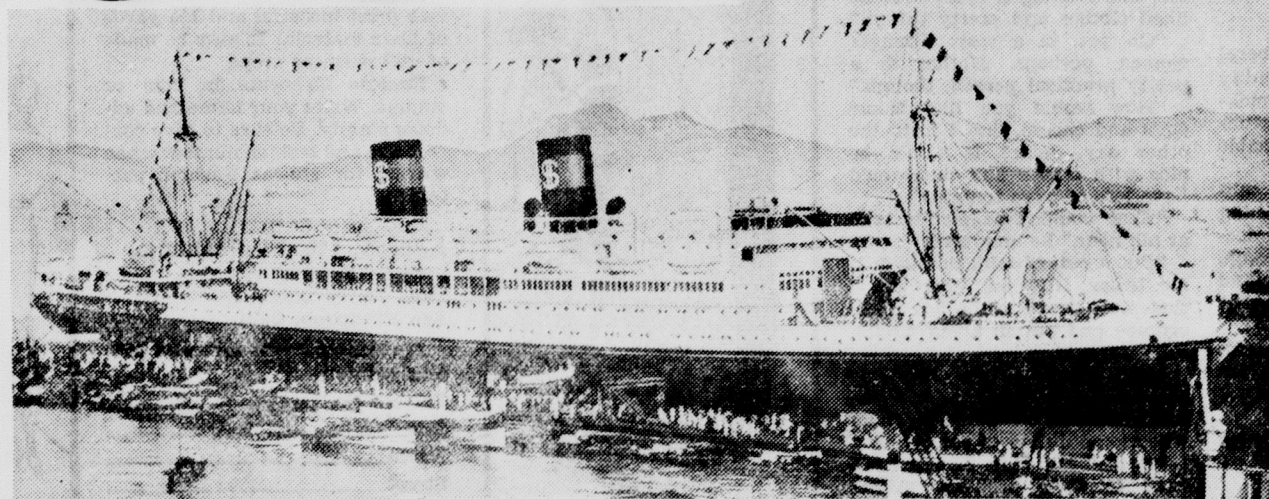

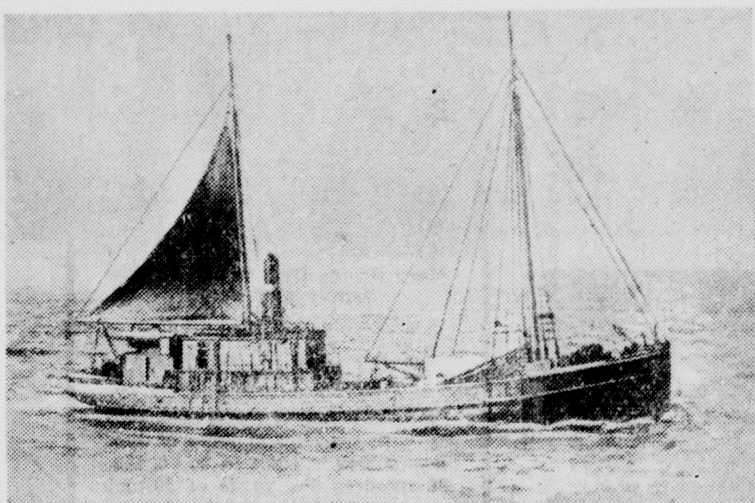

I think that dreams of wealth and travel are quite within the range of possibility, and will say frankly that the young man who sets his goal today at a million dollars can get it. But he must know that the price he pays will be high.

I do not say, mind you, that getting a million dollars will be worth what he may have to pay for it; but I do believe that given these tools and the willingness to work, this kind of fortune may be built today and tomorrow.

My father, the late Robert Dollar, was a man of great vision. One of his dreams was to have a fleet of ships that would circle the globe. True, he saw the business and commercial advantages of such a service, but he was also inspired by a genuine desire to serve mankind and to carry the message of American goodwill to all the nations of the world. He was beyond the traditional three score years and ten when he set his heart on this, and he lived to see his dream fulfilled. So you see, even age is no barrier to the accomplishment of a worthy ambition. To date these around-world liners have made a total of nearly 300 complete circumnavigations of the globe and have amassed a total of more than seven million miles. And there is no way of estimating what they have meant in service to mankind and in goodwill to the United States.

REMEMBER our first ship was the Newsboy. It fascinated me as it chugged up and down the Pacific Coast, and as I watched it a determination to break away from school was crystallized. The Newsboy was a steam schooner, 129 feet long and 28 feet wide, and it could travel at the rate of six or seven knots if favored by good weather. Its is, despite his wide experience, a believer in simple virtues and integrities and says that youth may succeed if sufficient effort is extended. The Dollar ships circle the globe, making practically every port of importance in the world. Mr. Dollar is an illustrious son of an illustrious father, whose combined work has served to unify men and nations.

R. Stanley Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship Company (upper right), is probably one of the most widely known men of the world because of the various ports which the Dollar ships touch. At the top is the first Dollar ship, the famous "Newsboy," and below one of the late "round-the-world" ships carrying the family name. The inserts show the dreams of Mr. Dollar as they developed: first, the watching of the sea as a young lumberman; second, helping to build the Dollar Company, and last, the realization of a dream fulfilled.

first skipper was Captain Chris Fosen, a grand old man who became my "college professor." He let the sea weave a spell over me. My classroom was the deck of his ship and my lessons were his tales of the sea which he taught me.

The Dollar business then was mostly lumber and it was decided that if I was to go into business I should start by familiarizing myself with all phases of the work. I started in a little one-room office which was two blocks below where the Robert Dollar Building now stands on California Street in San Francisco.

After I had been in the lumber business a while the Klondike and Nome gold rushes started and I went into buying and equipping ships in record time. Gold-crazed prospectors were begging for transportation to Alaska's new El Dorado.

Thus you can see why I might lack sympathy with the man who blames his failure to get ahead on the lack of a college education. My father was known as "The Grand Old Man of American Shipping," which implies that he was an unqualified success in his life's work. Yet he taught himself to read and write by the light of a log fire in a lumber camp and learned to figure on the bark of forest trees. He endured unspeakable hardships, but held fast to his life-long precepts of thrift and industry. He was born in Falkirk, Scotland, and started making his own way alone in the world at the age of 14. He laid the foundation of his fortune by buying a saw mill and going into the lumber business. This Newsboy carried lumber to market from his mill.

I HAVE great faith in the powers of integrity in the drive for any worthwhile goal. Without a high sense of integrity, no one will achieve permanent business success. Honesty is not only the best policy, it is an indispensable asset in the accomplishment of any really worthwhile ambition.

Therefore, in conclusion let me say that if a boy wants to make a million dollars and see the world, he can do it, providing first of all his purpose is right; then with honest hard work, fierce concentration and the willingness to sacrifice, it can be accomplished.

I won't say that the struggle is worth it, for the acquisition of wealth entails a tremendous responsibility. I daresay there are many wealthy men today who would gladly trade places with many others considered less fortunate. But I do say that any normal, intelligent boy who wants to make money and see the world can do it—if he wants to badly enough!

COURTS CAN'T DENY LOVE, Says Reno 'Sky Pilot'

FOR 25 years Brewster Adams, Reno Baptist pastor, has been "father confessor" to America's divorcees in Nevada's metropolis. Adams has perhaps heard more stories of unhappy homes and marriages than any other man outside the Reno court rooms—real, unvarnished accounts of heartbreak, unhappy people. He still believes, however, that the heart rules the mind and that "love is the thing," his reason for which he gives herein. Brewster Adams' articles are a regular feature of the Five Star Weekly.—Editor.

By BREWSTER ADAMS
(For 25 years Reno's Baptist pastor)

RENO is thought to be a gay city, but it is washed with the tears of those who have been disappointed.

The dust that blows in from the desert is not as dry as the hearts of those who have met failure in the eternal search for happiness.

The thousands who have taken the "cure" in Reno courts know that life without love is a forlorn thing.

None knows that better than those who have missed love.

To get an expression of real appreciation of happiness, ask the person who has failed to find it what a good home, companionship and some one at the gate mean in human content.

Of course, it is easy to be deceived. They carry a brilliant make-up, these divorce seekers, but that is just a cover—to present a front for the world to see. Their tears are only for the few to whom they can confess.

"Never again; I've learned my lesson. Marriage is a failure. Love is just a delusion—"

She sat in my study, where thousands have come in more than a quarter of a century, to tell me the oldest—and the saddest—story in the world. Her words were emphatic and there was a hard and bitter look in her eyes.

Then she broke. I knew she would. They all do. Down her cheeks ran unchecked tears, cutting through rouge and powder.

It was best for me to say nothing. She needed to talk. My thoughts ran off to remember a similar scene on the edge of Death Valley when a cloud-burst came out of an almost clear sky—a deluge of rain. Quick torrents cut through the banks of red iron dust—hermitage, the miners call it—leaving deep trenches of carmine and crimson.

And then she smiled, apologizing for that blessed but confusing inconsistency which belongs to us all—

"I must talk to you. I've just got a letter from my husband—the man I left, you know. He wants me to come back for Christmas. We always had such a good time at Christmas. It is going to be awfully lonesome for him—and for me, too."

Then she added in a very gentle voice, "Do you think I ought to go back? All my friends know we have separated."

It is wise to answer these questions with another question. I asked, "Do you want to go back?"

She didn't answer, sort of ashamed and touched in pride; that pride which keeps a lot of folk from expressing themselves and perhaps saving their souls. But she nodded her answer. And, true woman that she was, as she went out the door, she offered: "Maybe I could get home for Thanksgiving."

That instinct for love with all its cares, failures, disappointments and reverses is just about the deepest thing in the world, and no legal action is going to deny it. It expresses itself in many strange inconsistencies, but none can live fully without it. I have learned that this truth is felt in a stronger way by those who seem to have failed and realize its loss than those who have obtained it and do not count its worth.

Neighbors sent for me to bring peace in a troubled household. When I arrived neither side had officially declared war, but the casualties were heavy. It reminded me of a democratic harmony convention. She called him everything she knew, and a lot of things I had not previously heard of. He had a few words himself, but got no chance to use them.

We started to usher him out of the door in such a hurry that he was without coat or hat.

She was pouring out the full volume of her wrath, "I hope you never come back. I never want to see you again." And then, the final climax, "I hope you die."

Suddenly she stopped her tirade and that world-old look of motherly concern came into her eyes. She took her shawl off her own shoulders and put it on his.

"... She sat in my study to tell me the oldest—and the saddest—story in the world. There was a hard and bitter look in her eyes. . . ."

"There, you old fool," she chided, "you would go out without a coat. You know you'll catch a cold. You've got to have a woman take care of you."

Outside "the old fool" grinned at me. "She's a pretty good woman at that, even if I do get her upset once in awhile," he said.

Divorce is always a tragedy. Those whom we Nevadans call "divorcees" may joke about marriage. They may be hard and cynical, bitter and sometimes sinful, but they know that something has been lost. Few ever married except in the expectation and hope for happiness. They set sail, bands playing, friends waving and hands clapping. Then a hidden reef and they go down into the depths.

It is not strange that they are hurt, and they are hurt no matter how they hide it from the world. They disclaim and they disavow, but the old hope for happiness can never be denied.

"I wouldn't marry again—not to the best man in the world," she said that—so many do—and in a way she kept her word for, if there are no better men in the world, then Mussolini is an Ethiopian. I must admit that too often the second chance looks less likely than the first.

In the little New England town where my mother lived and where most of the humor was of the graveyard sort, they used to tell of the epitaph which read:

"THE LIGHT OF MY LIFE HAS GONE OUT."

But the widower married again and some wag wrote underneath.

"HE HAS STRUCK ANOTHER MATCH."

So love will hope, even disappointed love, and the net will be drawn, no matter what it may drag. Even Solomon seems to be wrong in his saying, "In vain the net is laid in the sight of any bird." It is often pathetic but it is certainly true that none seems to believe that marriage may bring happiness as do those who have failed in the trying.

Marriage is not a failure; it is just that we have failed.

Some years ago a strange couple came to my home from Southern Nevada to be married. They were both eligible for the Townsend plan. He was a little fellow—a typical desert rat, dried by the sun of many a summer. She was tall and thin, with the seriousness of many years' teaching in a little school on the desert's edge.

At the close of the service when I had pronounced them man and wife, there was a moment's embarrassment, and I suggested that he should kiss the bride. He looked up at her, his face red and she blushed. But before he took the bold plunge he turned to me and said, "Thanks Reverend, I've waited 35 years for the chance."

Perhaps the modern reader won't believe this story, but it's true, and we sat down and they told me of how year after year when spring came he had gone out into the hills seeking a stake for their marriage and how he always had come back in the fall empty-handed. She had kept on with her school, too proud to suggest that they should not delay their happiness. And, now when the sun was setting over their lives, they had at last determined to wait no longer. Gold was at their feet, but they knew it not.

RUNAWAY!

A STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Paula Norton

Bob Thompson was thirteen years old and tired of living on his dad's cattle ranch. Bob wanted to be an airmail pilot, instead he was a painter of chicken-coops. He was sure that if he could stop going to school and start working around an airport, he would soon learn to be a flyer. So he made up his mind to run away and find that airport.

Chapter 2

THE next morning Bob awoke to his mother's call to breakfast. He lay for awhile looking out the window, with a strange feeling that something very important was about to happen to him.

Then through the gap of the blowing curtains at the window, his eye rested on the glaring whiteness of the newly painted chicken house. He frowned.

"Better hurry up son, you'll be late for the bus . . . remember you kept them waiting yesterday, and that isn't right."

Bob did not answer. That old school bus! What did he care for school buses? . . . pokey old wagons! Just wait, he'd show 'em.

As he stirred the soft eggs in the yellow bowl, he thought with a thrill of pride . . . "say, one of these days that old school bus won't stop here. It'll just slow up so the kids can look at the house and say 'That's where Bob Thompson used to live. He's a mail pilot now . . . yep, flies to New York every day'."

"Yaa—Hoo-o-o-o-aaa!" The sound of the school bus horn jerked him from the pedestal of fame.

"Now, there they are, Bob. I knew you wouldn't be ready. Here's your lunch . . . be a good boy."

"Okay," he called back and stumbled down the steps and into the bus and the noisy greeting of his classmates.

Returning home that evening after school Bob knew what he was going to do . . . plans were made. He skirted around the far side of the barn. He'd rather not see his dad . . . not right now.

After devouring a thick slice of bread generously spread with applesauce, he went directly out and raked the chicken yard. He did the chore willing and in all good humor. He could afford to be cheerful about it . . . wasn't it to be the last time?

Supper was, as usual, without much conversation. Mrs. Thompson was tired from the long hours spent in the ranch-house kitchen, and Bob was busy with his own secret. He went early to bed.

After his door was closed and he was finally alone, the boy went to his closet and took down a worn leather coat. He spread it on the floor and placed in it a clean shirt, a pair of socks, and a handkerchief, along with his flashlight and a loaf of bread his mother had baked that morning, and which he had secreted into his room during the afternoon. Then he tied the bundle securely and rolled it out of sight under his bed.

As Bob folded his clothes across a chair he saw the curtains at the window float back, and on the sill, Fox, the big tomcat, sat looking at him. (Bob called him Foxy, but his mother had named him Puff.)

"Hi, Foxy," he grinned, "Spying on me, eh?"

At the word of friendliness the cat dropped down and walked sedately to the bed. The night was still, and the warm caress of the cat moved Bob to a sudden feeling of loneliness. He gathered the animal into his arms and crept into bed. Long he lay staring out of the window. The cat purred and dozed.

"I'm running away at dawn, Foxy," the boy whispered against the cat's ear. It was kind of a relief to tell someone, and a cat was the safest one to tell . . . he would keep the secret.

The cat's purring soon induced Bob to sleep. This was the first night in many that he had missed hearing the San Francisco mail plane zoom over the ranch.

Down at the chicken yard a rooster crowed, loud and long. Bob sat up with a start and pushed Foxy from his chest. Gosh, it was full daylight already! No, it wasn't . . . he had fallen asleep with the lamp lit. It was smoking and dull, but still showed a faint glow in the room.

The boy blew out the light and in the grey of dawn scrambled into his clothes. Once while he dressed, he thought about breakfast, but that wouldn't do . . . his mother would surely hear him if he ventured into the kitchen. He'd get his breakfast at the first store he came to. The idea reminded him of his cash savings, and he drew the coins from under the box of old postage stamps he had once planned to make the most valuable stamp collection in the whole world.

There was a fifty-cent piece, one quarter, and three pennies. This was the last of his birthday dollar. The other twenty-two cents had gone to buy the flashlight from one of the Fulton twins. Bob wished now that he had the whole dollar, but then that old flashlight might come in handy . . . it still worked.

Now he was ready. With a thrill of anticipation he climbed out of the window. Just as he passed the sleeping porch where his mother and dad slept, he hesitated one tiny second . . . it would have been pretty nice to tell his mother good-bye, he'd be a man grown before he'd see her again . . . gosh, she's be an old grey-haired lady. No, he couldn't go back now. He'd not get away again.

Bob took the road toward town and the general direction of the course of the mail plane.

(Continued next week)

Tired Pigeon

A Tired carrier pigeon flew over Camp Perry, Ohio rifle range one day, just as the National rifle matches were ready to begin.

He sailed around and around, then landed on the ground just in front of the guns. It was obvious he was a very tired bird, and someone picked him up, while the guns held their fire, and carried him to safety and food and water.

The brave bird was carrying a message strapped to his leg; so, after he was rested, the men turned him loose. Up, up into the air he circled, then away on his long journey.

Usually guns are fired at sight of a bird, but not on the Camp Perry rifle range.

Four-Day Fast

HE was already a very hungry dog, and that gnawing hunger got him into all the trouble. No one knew his name, or breed, for he was just a "plain dog" wandering the streets of Cleveland, Ohio.

The poor fellow was looking into every alley and dark corner in the hope of finding a little something to eat . . . anything!

Then, the nice round dark entrance of a drain pipe caught his eye. He sniffed, he pawed, he stuck his nose into the pipe. Then he put his whole head in . . . it was a pretty lean head. But alas, there was no food in there; so

Can You Write a Good Title for This Picture?

These two neighbors are getting plenty of fine, invigorating exercise—and they're due to get considerably more just as soon as they turn around. See how good a headline writer you are. Think up a title for this picture, write it down and then watch for the title that the headline writer selects for it next week. LAST WEEK'S TITLE: "LAZY DAZE."

YOUNG COURAGE

Interesting Chapters from the Lives of Young People Who Were Courageous ★★

Ohio Wilderness

THIS is not the story of ONE courageous boy, but the story of FIVE of them.

It sounds like a moving-picture "thriller," but it is a true story, and it happened in Ohio in 1785. We might say it was in the days of Daniel Boone, for he was living at this time, and the country was pretty much a wilderness along the Ohio River.

Boys in those days had to be alert and learned in the ways of the savages who were ever on the war path. They had to know about keeping alive on roots and berries and herbs. (And they had to be the RIGHT kind of berries and roots, too.)

They had, of all things, to be courageous and unafraid in any situation that might arise . . . and they lived in a wild country.

These five boys were wise in all these things, and it is well that they were. Two of them were brothers, and their last name was Linn. One boy's name was Wells and another was Brasher. The fifth boy's name is not known to the story-teller.

One day the five young friends decided to go duck hunting; so they hiked quite a way from home and made a camp.

After a day of hunting they built a fire, but before they could get the ducks prepared, they looked up to see savages on every side.

Two of the boys started to make a break for freedom, but they were overtaken and brought back.

The boys were then banded together, and the Indians started on the march with them to their own village many miles away.

The savages marched them for days without rest, and when they came to the Indian camp, the women and children rushed out to abuse them.

It seems the elder of the Linn boys had a good straight left, and he used it to advantage on one of the taller Indian boys.

Then there was a free-for-all, and the five white youngsters put up a good battle against the native boys.

Perhaps the Indian men thought well of this display of courage, for they took the boys into the camp life and treated them well.

The captives soon saw the advantage of pretending that they were perfectly happy to accept their own surroundings.

Naturally they wanted more than anything to be back with their own people on the banks of the Ohio. But they knew they must wait until the time was right to make a break.

After long months of convincing acting on the part of the boys, the Indians had come to have no fear of their running away. So, they sent them on a fishing trip with a squaw and one old Indian man.

Now, at last, the time had come! As they paddled down the stream the boys plotted their escape. They knew they had no weapons but their hunting-knives, and they must break away from the old man and the squaw. They also knew there was a long, long journey ahead of them through a dense wilderness.

Off they went. They had to move quickly, for they knew the Indians would soon be after them. They were not at all sure of the proper direction, and they had no food except what they gathered and ate raw.

How they must have feared to rest or even look back. How they must have encouraged that little fellow, only nine years old, to hurry along.

It was three weeks before they finally reached the river and saw their homes on the distant shore.

What a homecoming that must have been. How proud their parents must have felt that they had such courageous sons.

Complete Guide to Pacific Coast Winter Sports

In Washington, Black Diamond:

At Lake 12 Resort, north of Black Diamond; toboggan sleds. Cle Elum: Annual ski tournament on difficult, beautiful course. Lake Chelan: Variety of sports around lake. Lake Wenatchee: Magnificent scenery, fine sports. Mt. Baker: Typically Alpine sports, mountain climbing, hiking, riding. Rainier National Park: Closed in winter, but snow sports throughout summer; snowfields on glaciers provide excellent slides. Winter carnivals held at Longmire at southern entrance and Naches Pass on highway between Yakima and Enumclaw. Snoqualmie Pass: Fine skiing facilities at Summit, with contest each Sunday, January, February. Spokane: All types winter sports; many lakes and two park pools afford skating. Wenatchee: Splendid course, where national ski record was made in 1933; toboggan slides. Yakima: Sleighting, skating, tobogganing, skiing; one to four weeks of snow.

In Oregon, Cascade Mountains: Diversified winter thrills from Mt. Hood to Mt. Jefferson, Three-Fingered Jack, Mt. Washington, Three Sisters, Broken Top and Mt. Thielsen . . . most of these with perpetual covering of snow. Crater Lake: Visitors can enjoy a late winter sports program. If approach is made from Klamath Falls side, skis, toboggans may be secured at Fort Klamath. Rugged contour of country makes artificial slides unnecessary. Mt. Hood: On south side, snow-pools keep highway open to junction of Wapinitia Highway, beyond Swim. On north, open road is maintained to Homestead, below Cloud Gap Inn. Snow depths from four to ten feet; all sports possible five months of year. Wallowa Lake National Forest: A region of high peaks, rugged country, with true glaciers in Eagle Cap area. For hardy sportsmen.

In California, Auburn: Headquarters for sports near Cisco. Ski tours every week-end from Auburn. Facilities free under auspices of Auburn Ski Club. Big Bear Lake: East of Los Angeles. Ski jumps, slides, skating instruction, equipment. Big Pine Area: Big Pine's Recreation Camp; desert road via Palmdale best for travel. Skating, toboggan slides, ski jumps, bob sledging. Equipment for rent. Hotel, cabins, picnic grounds. Camp Baldy: East of Los Angeles. Cabins. Toboggan slides, skating, skiing; equipment for rent. Downieville: Camp accommodations, ski tours, tobogganing. Emigrant Gap: One-half mile to Carpenter's Flat for best sport. Meals, accommodations. All sports. General Grant National Park: Accommodations limited. Meals, ski slide, ash-can slide. Equipment for rent. Lake Arrowhead: Accommodations, ski hills, dog teams, instruction, all sports. Lake Cuyamaca: Ideal conditions for all sports, 39 miles east of Escondido. Los Angeles County: Carnival held each year by Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mineral: Graded ski slides, ski jumps, cross-country trips, skating. Equipment, accommodations. Mt. Shasta: Mt. Shasta Snowmen headquarters at Mt. Shasta City. Accommodations, slides, skating, ski trips with guides. Mt. Wilson: North of Pasadena. Accommodations, slides, ski hill. Nevada City-Grass Valley: Sports area ten miles above Grass Valley, on Tahoe-Ukiah Highway. Accommodations, all sports. Placerville: Sports area at Fresh Pond, 17 miles east on Lincoln Highway. Soda Springs: Sierra winter playground; limited accommodations. Sonora: Long Barn, north of Sonora, offers fine sports. Truckee-Lake Tahoe: Truckee is center for sports near Tahoe; all sports, instruction; equipment for rent. Accommodations, Tahoe City and Truckee. Yosemite: Hotel, lodge accommodations, instruction; equipment for rent; facilities for children.

In Nevada, Fallon: Winter sports along U. S. Highway 50, south shore of Lake Tahoe. Winter accommodations at resorts on lake. Reno: Truckee River, bordering business district, offers fine ice skating. Headquarters for Galena Creek Winter Sports and Mt. Rose Ski Hill at Galena Creek. Yerington: Ice skating on river.

Save this Guide for ready reference when you plan your winter holidays.

Over the Captain's Coffee Cup

Travel Tales From Everywhere
by Whit Wellman

TIMES come when the music of far places . . . a fair substitute for buying ticket, if you find the right lines. Try Vachel Lindsay's The Congo for that sense of nostalgia on a long winters night beside a log fire . . . read this aloud and watch the room fade . . .

"Then I saw the Congo, creeping through the black, Cutting through the jungle with a golden track . . . And the black crowd laughed till their sides were sore At the baboon butler in the agate door. And the well-known tunes of the parrot band That trilled on the bushes of that magic land."

AND AS TO TICKETS

the exodus observed from the Northwest may have a rational explanation. Miss Australia, the charming Peggy Gamble from the Commonwealth of Southern Suns, was visiting in California. Her loveliness won her a beauty contest conducted by the Melbourne Sun, and a voyage to Los Angeles and San Francisco. This beauty contest business is always good . . . and in this case seems to have increased travel to Australia in recent months, according to skippers who are kept busy explaining the duck-billed platypus to insistent passengers.

PASSENGERS SAY

they're going south to discover the strange animals with weird names, an Australian attraction . . . the koala bear which was model for the youngsters' teddy, the emu that looks like an ostrich but isn't, the wallaby or echidna or "lyre" bird. But those look like poor alibis when you see pictures of Australia's beaches . . . inhabited by briefly clad feminine animals with good old Anglo-Saxon names.

THE NEWSPAPER BOYS

got together and cornered Wm. N. Jeffers of the Union Pacific when he was on the coast the other day. Jeffers, by the way, is "tops" on his railway. "Do you run model trains?" someone asked. "We try to," he said cautiously. (No wonder he got to the vice-presidency.)

"What's your hobby?" a reporter demanded. He didn't need to be careful about that one. "Ringing up the cash register." That's the way to get places in this life, and there's a man who started way down and worked way up. He's now credited with the development of the streamline trains, did things about air conditioning, and is always dreaming new plans for his "model trains."

GEORGE T. ARMITAGE

of Honolulu thinks the best avocation is the job in hand, and in his capable hands is the direction of the Hawaii Tourist Bureau. George has probably just been in or near your own home town. He's been touring the mainland for three months, liking it. "What did you enjoy the most, George?" And his quick reply, "The way people begin to realize that Hawaii belongs on their See America First program . . . (Tourist Bureau speaking, but George is worth it.)" He remarks that current congressional con-

accommodations. All sports. General Grant National Park: Accommodations limited. Meals, ski slide, ash-can slide. Equipment for rent. Lake Arrowhead: Accommodations, ski hills, dog teams, instruction, all sports. Lake Cuyamaca: Ideal conditions for all sports, 39 miles east of Escondido. Los Angeles County: Carnival held each year by Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mineral: Graded ski slides, ski jumps, cross-country trips, skating. Equipment, accommodations. Mt. Shasta: Mt. Shasta Snowmen headquarters at Mt. Shasta City. Accommodations, slides, skating, ski trips with guides. Mt. Wilson: North of Pasadena. Accommodations, slides, ski hill. Nevada City-Grass Valley: Sports area ten miles above Grass Valley, on Tahoe-Ukiah Highway. Accommodations, all sports. Placerville: Sports area at Fresh Pond, 17 miles east on Lincoln Highway. Soda Springs: Sierra winter playground; limited accommodations. Sonora: Long Barn, north of Sonora, offers fine sports. Truckee-Lake Tahoe: Truckee is center for sports near Tahoe; all sports, instruction; equipment for rent. Accommodations, Tahoe City and Truckee. Yosemite: Hotel, lodge accommodations, instruction; equipment for rent; facilities for children.

In Nevada, Fallon: Winter sports along U. S. Highway 50, south shore of Lake Tahoe. Winter accommodations at resorts on lake. Reno: Truckee River, bordering business district, offers fine ice skating. Headquarters for Galena Creek Winter Sports and Mt. Rose Ski Hill at Galena Creek. Yerington: Ice skating on river.

Save this Guide for ready reference when you plan your winter holidays.

sideration of statehood for the territory is helping to change the attitude of mainlanders. "It's dawning on people that we have more than hula skirts, but they're all right in their place, too."

A NAVY SKIPPER

boarded a Greyhound Nitecoach the other evening. He was homeward bound for San Diego after duty in the Orient, but his name's been lost in the shuffle of clipper bags that clutters the desk. His baggage was mostly hula skirts and all those doo-dads you pick up. Would he talk about the queer places he lived in? He would not. Rolling down the coast highway, with a brain crammed with memories of strange sights and sounds (and smells) of far ports, he spent his time describing the intricacies of a mechanical cow they had aboard. "It makes milk you can't tell from the original," he insisted. (Any farmers interested in saving hay and grain, not to mention three A. M. rising hours that honest cows demand?)

LIFE'S TOO EASY

these sad days. Old timers will tell you the romance has gone out of living. They dwell in a past when long red underwear marked the strong man, and Conquest was logged over every Captain's signature. Where's the accomplishment in riding out a blizzard snug in a steam heated wheel house, or leaping the Pacific in airplanes, or riding the rails or highways in luxury? "You can't even get marooned on some South Sea isle any more without some bird coming along with a home-made radio and sending a call for help."

THEY EVEN DOUBT

the plans of those two French scientists, Captain Eric de Bisschop and Joseph Taibouet, who've been lost and shipwrecked off and on for the last two years. "You mean to say," they demand, "they plan to go on cruise in the Pacific in double outrigger canoes? Can't be done!" Well, maybe not . . . but a good many thousand ancient Polynesians did their cruising in the same type craft. And romance, anyway, lies in the hearts of men, not in a means of transportation.

THERE WAS JOEY

a messenger for Western Union during the General Strike in '34, (let's call him Joey, since he may see this somehow) . . . a blue-eyed, square-jawed youngster, his beat the San Francisco financial district until a month ago. Businessmen were muttering "revolution, riots . . ." and such nonsense. Wanting to be in on the fun, Joey got himself a rifle, a revolver and ammunition, "just in case . . ." When the trouble died, he grew discouraged, but decided to wait around. You couldn't tell when . . . In the Autumn came new rumors from along The Embarcadero, but still nothing happened. Even radical Harry Bridges had calmed. Joey saw it was no use waiting forever, so he took his arsenal aboard a freighter headed for "down under," and sailed for New Zealand where life is wilder.

PETE THE PENGUIN

broadcasting from a far-northern shore, sends a message to the column, we don't know why. . . . it's easier to build up a good reputation than to live down a bad one." Come again, Pete.

IF YOU KNOW

an old sea-chanty, an unusual travel story . . . or a personal experience that stays in your memory and wants to get out . . . send it in. Must be brief, of course. The best of them will find a welcome here . . . and space for publication.

GREYHOUND the great leader in Bus Travel offers

MORE SERVICE TO MORE POINTS

than any other Transportation System at LOW FARES

See your LOCAL GREYHOUND Agent for complete information

Madame!
Like other smart, up-to-date women who know and want the best you should use—
CERTANE
FOR FEMINE HYGIENE
Safe, Convenient, Dainty
Recommended by Physicians in Powder, Jelly and Cream
At Drug and Department Stores
FREE BOOK Secrets of Profusely Illustrated. Write Certane
Co., 1212 W. Washington, Los Angeles, Cal. Dept. 5-51.

Credit Man For 39 Years Finds American People Are Honest

But Honesty Is Only Small Factor In Selecting Good Credit Risks

HAVE you heard that credit men believe that "every one is dishonest except you and me, and I have some doubts about you"? Don't believe it! Here is H. Jeffrey, formerly of New England (with a conscience), now of San Francisco, who has been a credit man in Boston, New York, Chicago and San Francisco for more than 39 years and who says that YOU, Mr. John Public, ARE HONEST! This gentleman has twice been president of the San Francisco Credit Association and has been in charge of the credit department of one of the largest department stores in the West for many years. He tells you how 60,000,000 people "get credit."

By H. JEFFREY
(as told to staff writer)

UNLIKE Diogenes, the credit man must, by the light of his experience and trained discrimination, "discover" the dishonest buyer, but fortunately the public at large is honest!

The dishonest person invariably discloses his weaknesses after an analysis of personality, home or business set-up or past record. However, no matter how skillful this analysis may be there will always remain that definite small loss due to chance or human error.

There is a growing realization that the credit business is a methodical science, with nearly 1500 so-called bureaus completely cooperative throughout the country with information in their files controlling approximately 60,000,000 buyers. No matter where a credit record is established in the country, it follows the individual wherever he goes. This information may be obtained over night, or if necessary within an hour from any section of the United States.

THE credit man today who does not realize that we have entered a new era of opportunity and psychology is on the way out, very distinctly, and this, notwithstanding basic principles of honor, common honesty, and I might say common sense.

Each credit request is a special case. Of course, it is necessary for the store to become acquainted with the applicant and this should be done most thoroughly and completely at the first interview, as well as to get a complete understanding as to the policy and terms of the firm. The successful handling of this situation depends entirely on the diplomacy and personality of the credit person. Very few people today resent the effort to establish their credit standing if properly approached.

The public must be given an opportunity to spread, to reach out, as far as the business world will let it, as far as right will let it, with all old-fashioned ideas swept aside as to a sense of obligation and its consummation.

THE public attitude toward its so-called rights extends far beyond the early concept of legal rights and now includes moral rights. I do not mean to say that John Public is less honest or less honorable, but he has become convinced that the only road to progress is to create any or all obligations which will allow him to progress in matters of business or matters of personal comfort. This has led to a "get-by" attitude which contains many elements of danger. However, it must be faced and dealt with intelligently so that these dangerous elements may be obviated as far as possible. This is the biggest mission of the credit grantor.

It is as true today as it ever was (to use an Irishism), "perhaps even more so," that the man whose public contact influence is shaping public opinion along business and particularly credit lines, should keep an open mind at all times.

The basic question of honesty enters into the question of credit granting in a very small degree; in other words, the problem of dishonest people or people who would take a dishonest advantage of their position, is relatively small—but (and this is a large BUT) the percentage of people who are unfortunate and whose misfortunes have been accentuated by poorly planned or indiscreet buying and living is very large. This is as it should be from a human angle, and is the largest element to contend with and control within the province of a credit grantor.

H. JEFFREY

Who Finds That You Are 99 Percent Honest

THE aggregate credit losses in mercantile circles throughout the United States average from year to year about a fraction of 1 per cent, and an analysis of these losses show but a small per cent due to wrong intent. This also is again clearly illustrated by the fact that throughout the entire period of depression contracted obligations as distinguished from open-account obligations were universally met with little attendant trouble or loss.

MOST PEOPLE ARE HONEST!

In a very large city department store where I was in charge of credit the losses for the five years terminating in 1930 never exceeded one-half of one per cent. Conditions subsequent to this period have slightly enlarged these credit losses, in many instances going well over one per cent, but the causes for additional losses were almost entirely those of misfortune and in nowise a reflection upon the moral integrity of those asking credit.

CREDIT granting in what we used to call "the good old times" was based very largely on well-defined precedent and a more or less clearly-defined operation, while credit granting today is a matter more and more of individual analysis and a setting up of a new history and surrounding in each case. Conditions have changed so rapidly with each and every individual that it requires a very broad human understanding and thorough knowledge of economic conditions to avoid injustice and to obtain the greatest results from a profitable business standpoint.

One meets practically every type of individual in department-store credit management. My experience to which I referred in the five years preceding 1930 in this line included the granting of a million dollars a month in credit which was spread over 100,000 active accounts, and, as I said, the losses never exceeded one-half of one per cent!

For this reason I feel firm in saying that most people are very honest. I am very glad too to know that my experiences have not ruined my faith in human nature—although there have been times when this faith has been sorely tried.

Figures prove to me, however, that John Public is an honest man and that Diogenes would not have had to travel very far with his light to be pleased in the United States.

Love Laughs With Stowaway Bride —and At Immigration Officers!

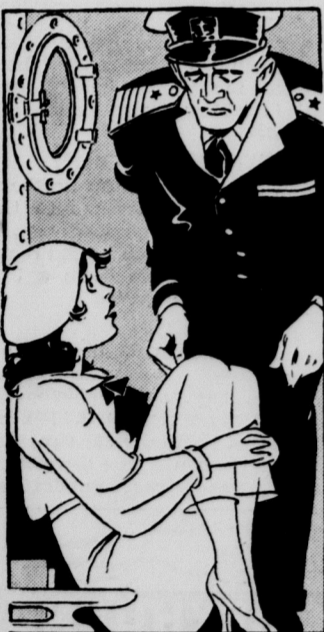

LOVE not only laughs at locksmiths, but at port stewards, ships' captains, and good old Uncle Sam himself! This, in brief, is the philosophy of pretty Margaret Cary Earl, of El Cerrito, Calif., who stowed away on the S.S. Oakland, headed through the Panama Canal and on to England—because she was determined to be near her husband!

He wasn't a very old husband, really, for Lionel V. Earl and the pretty golden-haired Western girl had been wed only six days when Uncle Sam informed the English difficulties either as an immigrant or a Reno Romeo—but Fate smiles with her tongue in her cheek occasionally, and this was one of those times!

Then Earl arrived in California and went to El Cerrito where he thought not only to become acquainted with his father but to make a study of the people and opportunities. He had no intention of staying, however, and, in his cool British way, no thought whatever of falling in love!

Margaret Cary was blonde, however—and she held for the husband that he had overstayed his visitor's permit. Thus, he was put aboard the S.S. Oakland bound for England, with the compliments of the Immigration officers.

Margaret Cary Earl, the Stowaway

Mr. Earl had come to the States to visit his father, but ran into an unexpected romance which led him to Reno where a marriage ceremony was performed followed by an all-too-brief honeymoon in a snow-bound cabin at Camp Donner.

Then the long arm of Immigration law reached out to spoil his happiness and his bride was figuratively torn from his arms—but only for a while!

Somewhere near Panama the pursuer came to the conclusion that there was one too many passengers aboard—so the pretty Margaret was discovered!

The story really began when Lionel V. Earl left England for the United States to visit a father whom he had never seen. There was no thought of running into Britisher something he had never before experienced. There was a brief courtship, somewhat handicapped without a car, but love began laughing early. The conservative gentleman borrowed an automobile and took his bride-elect to Reno, where they were married by the Justice of Peace (California having offered a barrier to the rapid-fire romance by way of time).

The pair jilted down the mountain and at Camp Donner settled down for an all too brief honeymoon! In his romantic ardor Mr. Earl had forgotten that the United States laws give only a few days to tourists—and his time was up! He was taken to be returned to England—but Margaret hid herself on the ship—only to have the eagle eyes of the law discover her!

It ended all right. The Captain "had a heart" and the bridegroom cabled for passage money for his bride!

Now they are in England!

SPICE CAKES

New and Different

Martha Meade's six tantalizing varieties of grandmother's favorite cake, using new flavors and fillings! Just a sample of the feast of variety in this new book now given free with Drifted Snow "Home-Perfected" Flour.

FREE Get this unique book inside sacks of Drifted Snow Flour. Sperry gives it free to introduce their "Home-Perfected" service that cuts baking losses in half!

SPICE CAKE can be different! Banana-flavored layer spice cake, for example, garlanded with tart lemon frosting. Or date-filled, orange-flavored spicy loaf, frosted with orange sauce. But you won't find these recipes in ordinary cook books. They come to you only in Martha Meade's unique "Six-of-a-Kind" recipes—and the spice cakes are just a hint of what the entire book gives you!

This wonderful help in serving "something different" is packed free in Drifted Snow Flour—one of the features of Sperry's "Home-Perfected" service.

The most important part of "Home-

Perfected" service is Sperry's exclusive method of protecting you from baking failures. Because one-half of all such failures are caused by flour variation, every batch of Drifted Snow Flour is pre-tested for you by Sperry's staff of 117 Western homemakers, working in their own kitchens, throughout the West. Only flour which gives perfect results in these home tests is sold as Drifted Snow "Home-Perfected" Flour—your assurance against disappointment and money loss.

That means greater economy in your kitchen, increased satisfaction in your dining room. Order a sack of Drifted Snow

Flour from your grocer and try one of Martha Meade's new spice cakes. You'll be delighted with results—and your family will be most happily surprised.

YOUR BAKER CAN SAVE YOU TIME AND EFFORT Thousands of bakers use Sperry's Flour in their clean, modern bakeries. Daily they serve you delicious breads, cakes, pastries, at very moderate prices. Buy from your baker or patronize your grocer's bakery counter. Watch their windows for delightful new ideas in baking—based upon those tempting and nourishing foods—baked wheat products.

Copyright 1936, Sperry Flour Co., San Francisco

DRIFTED SNOW "Home Perfected" FLOUR

MARTHA MEADE invites you to join interesting radio discussions of homemaking problems. Hear novel food plans... accept new recipes and clever ideas for meals. Tune in any NBC station Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 10:00 A.M. (PST).

$2.00 VALUE FOR $1.00

This sensational new book for $1.00 with money-back guarantee if you don't agree it's worth twice the price.

Many write they wouldn't take $5.00 for their copy of Modern Meal Maker which you can have for only $1.00 (with money-back guarantee which certifies the book worth at least twice its purchase price).

Editors of national magazines endorse this book. Department stores report it is breaking all sales records. Less than a year old and already in its third edition! All this because Modern Meal Maker automatically plans every meal in the year... does all your food thinking for you... saves on your food bills!

Contents: 428 pages beautifully bound with special stand-up feature. 1,115 novel, yet inexpensive, menus with 744 recipes, over 2,000 recipe-ettes. New food ideas including hundreds of ways to use leftovers.

You'll be astounded when you see Modern Meal Maker to think it is sold for only $1.00 per copy. Use coupon at right to order book. Also on sale at leading department stores.

MAIL THIS ORDER BLANK TODAY

MARTHA MEADE, Sperry Flour Co., San Francisco, California.

I enclose $1.00 for which please send me your 428-page book, Modern Meal Maker. I will examine book promptly, and if I do not think it is worth at least TWICE the purchase price, I will mail it back collect and you will return my dollar without question. (Price east of Rockies is $2.00.)

Name _____

Street Address _____

City _____ State _____

Please write in margin the name of your paper.

